NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS
The co-operation of advertising patrons is requested in the direction of getting "copy" into the business office on or before 4:30 p. m. on the day previous to publication. Very often the receipt of a large advertisement or even regular changes after that hour serves to dislocate the regular work of getting the paper made up in time to catch the mails—and not infrequently such ads. are at the last moment left out.
This situation is not of service to either the advertiser or our readers and we, therefore, request that copy be received in the business office

SENTIMENT GAVE WAY TO PROGRESS
St. John Man Recalls What Metropolis of Empire Did in Removal of Buildings
Appropos of the controversy over the "to be or not to be" of the old court house, a citizen who was for some years a resident of London told a Times reporter today of the action taken by the people of the "biggest city" when they sacrificed the very heart of their business section so that London might be a city worthy of its name. Sentiment, which abounds more perhaps among the people of the old world than it does on this side of the Atlantic, did not stop the wholesale work of tearing down buildings which stood in the way of better and wider streets and a more comprehensive scheme of town building.

The Kingsway, Shaftsbury avenue, became and many more of the streets in their vicinity figured in the general movement for reconstruction, which took place around 1900, with the result that today the west end of London is a thriving business section with streets through which pass easily a great volume of traffic and with buildings pleasing to the eye and ample in proportions and appointments for the business carried on within their walls.
It was with a pang of regret, perhaps, that many of the Londoners saw the very heart torn from their city to meet the demands of progress, but they accepted the situation philosophically with an eye to the future there is no doubt that many of the old buildings carried traditions that extended back through many generations, yet the classes and the masses realized that tradition and sentiment were subordinate to efficiency and necessity scored a victory. For years the people gazed through a veritable city of board fences which one by one gave way to the buildings which now grace the west end of London; no sky scrapers to be sure, but good substantial, sensible business blocks, theatres, shops, hospitals, municipal buildings and apartment houses.

EIGHT GALLONS OF WHISKEY
Fredericton Gleaner—Although Fraser Saunders, assistant chief liquor inspector, was unable to catch the man who was carrying the "goods," he succeeded in capturing two suit cases containing eight gallons of whiskey from a man on the Maritime Express coming into Newcastle early yesterday morning. While the man made a successful getaway yesterday morning it is said that he did not escape identification and a warrant will be issued for his arrest. The inspector was a passenger on the train from Campbellton where he had attended the trial of John Noll, of Jacquet River, who was arrested on September 26 for running an illicit still. Noll appeared before Magistrate F. F. Matheson at Campbellton, and was fined $200 and costs.
