(Paris Correspondence London Mail)

A story appears this morning which will probably interest those who have tried to decipher doctors' handwriting, both on bills and prescriptions. It concerns a gentleman who had suffered from chronic gout for a long time. Eventually he found a doctor who appeared to understand the case so well that he expected a cure. The patient in the excess of his gratitude wrote to the medico asking him to dinner. In due course the reply came, but in such indecipherable handwriting that the recipient could not make head or tail of it. Was the doctor coming or was he not?

The housekeeper, used to the doubtful caligraphy of tradesmen's bills, was called in to assist, but could not make anything of the letter. She had a bright idea, however. "I must go into Paris today," she said, "and I will take the letter to a chemist, who will be used to the doctor's writing." The idea was adopted and the housekeeper took it to a chemist. from chronic gout for a long time. Event tually he found a doctor who appeared to understand the case so well that he expected a cure. She had a bright idea, however "I must go into Paris today," she said, "and I will take the letter to a chemist, who will be used to the doctor's writing." The idea was adopted and the housekeeper took it to a chemist.

"Can you make this out, please?" she asked the apothecary.

"Certainly. madame," he replied, and disappeared with the letter.

Three Local Men to Attend 11th Annual Rexall Convention

Three of Chas. R. Wasson's assistants Hollie Wasson, Harry W. Myers and loy D. Mayes will leave on the Boston oat tonight to attend the Rexall 11th annual convention, which opens in that eity on Monday, August 18.

city on Monday, August 18.

Touching on the Rexall form of cooperation of which the convention plan is one, Mr. Wasson said::

"People ask me how I can offer high-grade goods at such low prices; where I get such a lot of new merchandise; and why it is that I have the newest novelties and the latest wrinkles in store service before anyone else. I would be glad to take the credit for these things to myself, but frankly I owe much of my good fortune to the fact that I am a member of the United Drug Company. This company was started in Boston eleven years ago, by Louis K. Liggett. At that time there was no such thing as co-operation in the retail drug business. Individual druggists manufactured their own remedies, good, bad and indifferent; bought their goods in small lots at high prices, and fought each other tooth and nail. Mr. Liggett saw that if the buying and manufacturing power of the leading druggists could be combined, and a standard policy adopted for all their stores, the result would be increased business and better service for the public.

"Beginning with forty of the biggest reased business and better service for e public.

Beginning with forty of the biggest callers in this country, he formed the nited Drug Company and began to anufacture a line of honest household medies, based on tested formulas, the e of which was limited to one drugti in each locality. These remedies are made by skilled chemists from the st materials; and to further protect public, each remedy was sold under positive guarantee of satisfaction or mey back. Furthermore, Rexall medies were not patent medicines; ir formulas were published in book-m so that before buying a remedy, a

IDEAL HUSBAND DEFINED Kansas College Girls Post List of Requirements.

Kansas college girls have fixed the standard for the "ideal" young man, the possible husband, and throughout the state in the college Young Women's Christian Association buildings there is posted the list of things that go to make up the Kansas ideal man. Here they are: Height, 5 feet 11 inches.

Weight, 159 pounds.

Chest, 40 inches expanded, 34 inches contracted.

Waist, 80 1-2 inches Must make a good appearance, but eed not be handsome. Must be careful of personal appear,-

Must be careful of personal appear,nce, but not a dandy.

Must be jolly, accommodating, conderate and a true sportsman.

Must be a good conversationalist, but of a flatterer.

Must show courtesy to men and women.

Must not smoke, drink nor be found guilty of attendant evils.

Must not recognize a different standard for men and women.

The physical qualifications were the averages taken from the reports of hundreds of girls of the state, each girl being asked to submit the measurements of what she considered her ideal man. The nine commandments for the ideal young man were chosen from hundreds of statements of girls who were asked to specify the requirements each would make, and the nine items most mentioned in the letters were the ones taken as the average ideal young man.—Kansas City Correspondence in (Phila.) Public Ledger.

IT PUMPS LIFE INTO YOU

Wake up, you drug fiend, and let your reason prevail! Your experience with drugs teaches you that you must cast them aside and look for a natural method. When your health failed it seemed inherent by nature for you to look for some magic cure—something that you could take into your stomach to do the work of your digestive organs, bowels, liver and kidneys.

The first dose brought you relief, but with each succeeding dose you found the effect lessened, until you are now down and out, a perfect invalid, for you have allowed drugs to do the work of your vital organs, and without them you are even in a worse condition than when you began. I can take a man like you and pump new energy into your body while you sleep, and in a few weeks you will be transformed into a giant of strength and courage. Energy is but electricity, and if you lack energy you need electricity.

Dear Sir,—I purchased one of your Belts about a year ago, and I am thankful to say that I am a new man, and I cannot say enough for it. I am stronger than men half again as big as myself, and I am 24 pounds heavier than before I got your Belt.—H. G. SPARROW, Box 256, Brampton, Ont.

If you feel tired and stupid with no ambition to get out and hustle; if you have spells of despondency, and a desire to give up the fight, you need new energy. The race is to the strong. Show me a failure and I'll show you a weakling, lacking in courage, strength and ambition, three essentials to the makeup of a successful man.

My Belt is an appliance for infusing a powerful, but soothing current into the body without the least shock or unpleasant sensation. You can use it two to eight hours every day and waste no time—you need not be conscious that you are taking treatment. It is cheaper than a course of drugging.
