

YOUR BACKACHE WILL YIELD

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Rockland, Maine. "I was troubled for a long time with pains in my back and side, and was miserable in every way. I doctored until I was discouraged, and I thought I should never get well. I read a testimonial about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I thought I would try it. After taking it a few bottles, my back and side began to improve, and I have felt so well since. I can now do all my usual work, and I feel like a new woman. I have had no more of that miserable pain, and I feel like I have a new lease on life."

FAMOUS GEMS OF PROSE THE MAN ABOVE THE STATE

By William Elery Channing

From an essay on "The Duty of the Free States," which was published March 26, 1842. See Channing's complete works (Boston, 1868), volume 6, page 344. HIS annihilation of the individual by merging him in the state lies at the foundation of despotism. The nation is too often the gravest of the man. This is the more monstrous, because the very end of the state, of the organization of the nation, is to secure the individual in all his rights, and especially to secure the rights of the weak. There is the fundamental idea of political association. In an unorganized society, with no legislation, no tribunal, no empire, rights have no security. Force predominates over right. This is the grand evil of what is called the state of nature. To represent this, to give right the ascendancy over force, this is the grand idea and end of government, of country, of political constitutions.

And yet we are taught that it depends on the law of a man's country whether he shall have rights, and whether other states shall regard him as a man. When cast on a foreign shore, the man who is not a citizen of that country, is to be proportioned to what he meets at home. Men worship power, worship great organizations, and overlook the individual; and few things have devalued the moral sentiment of men more, or brought greater woes on the race. The state, or the ruler in whom the state is embodied, continues to be worshipped, notwithstanding the commission of crimes which would inspire horror in the private man. How insignificant are the robberies, murders, piracies, which the law makes capital, in comparison with an unjust or unnecessary war, dooming thousands, perhaps millions, of the innocent to the most torturing forms of death, or with the law of an autocrat or of a public body, depriving millions of all the rights of men! But these, because the acts of the state, escape the execrations of the world.

In consequence of this worship of governments it is thought that their relations to one another are alone important. A government that is too great to look at as a stranger, except as he is incorporated with some state. It can have nothing to do but with political organizations like itself. But the humble stranger has a claim on it as sacred as another state. Standing alone, he has rights, and to violate them is as criminal as to violate the stipulations of a foreign power. In one view it is baser. It is as true of governments as of individuals, that it is base and unmanly to trample on the weak. He who invades the rights of the weak, does something to redeem his violence; but to tread on the neck of a helpless, friendless creature is to add meanness to wrong.

If the doctrine be true that the character impressed on a man at home follows him abroad, and that he is to be regarded, not as a man, but as the local laws which he has left behind him, why shall not this apply to the peculiar advantages as well as disadvantages which a man enjoys in his own land? Why shall not he whom the laws invest with a right to universal homage at home receive the same tribute abroad? Why shall not his own shores exempt him from the ordinary restraints of law on his own shores claim the same lawlessness elsewhere? Abroad these distinctions avail him nothing. The local law which makes him a kind of deity deserts him the moment he takes a step beyond his country's borders; and why shall the disadvantages, the terrible wrongs, which that law inflicts, follow the poor sufferer to the end of the earth? I repeat it, for the truth deserves reiteration, that all nations are bound to respect the rights of every human being. This is God's law, as old as the world. No local law can touch it.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Statement for Three Months Ended Sept. 30 Shows General Improvement in Canada

Commercial failures in the Dominion of Canada for the third quarter of 1910, reported by R. G. Dun & Co., number 277, with defaulted liabilities amounting to $2,246,071. This is a marked improvement, as compared with the number when compared with the 307 of the same period last year, but there is a slight increase in liabilities over the corresponding three months a year ago, when they aggregated only $2,179,815. Compared with earlier years, however, the exhibit is extremely satisfactory in all respects, failures in the same period in 1908 numbering 340 for $3,492,061, while in 1907 they were 297 and involved $2,573,935.

The number of defaults in the manufacturing division was exactly the same as last year, sixty-nine, but liabilities increased to $775,438 from $467,973. While this showing is somewhat unfavorable, it is a marked improvement in comparison with the eighty-five for $1,363,112 of 1908, or the ninety-seven for $1,234,536 in 1907.

Lumber and clothing are the only classes in this division which show any considerable increase over last year; in the former twelve for $227,800, comparing with five for $40,010, and in the latter with five for $23,252, against eighteen for $88,903. In the trading division there is marked improvement over last year and 1908, but the comparison with 1907 is indifferent, there being 203 suspensions in the third quarter this year with indebtedness of $1,729,560, against 253 for $1,648,422 last year; 245 for $1,710,196 in 1908 and 196 for $1,305,459 in 1907. Almost every class makes a more or less satisfactory record.

Notably general stores with forty-four for $274,541, against fifty for $445,009, and miscellaneous with nineteen for $173,090, forty for $331,036, while only dry goods show any significant increase, this being largely due to a single failure in that class for upwards of $100,000. In addition to these there were five failures in the division embracing brewers and transferrers involving $99,183, against five last year for $18,000; ten in 1908 for $417,350, and four in 1907 for $23,708. The report as a whole indicates very satisfactory business conditions and well maintained commercial progress, and but for the increased amount involved in manufacturing, the returns for the latest quarter would have been exceptionally favorable.

The transit officer is sending to merchants and manufacturers of the city notices that if they employ any child under fourteen years of age, they are liable to a fine of $50, unless they have a permit from himself or the superintendent of schools.

Two delegates will be sent from this city to the general conference of religious workers in Buffalo, on October 25 and 26. MONTREAL DOES HONOR TO PREMIER

Liberal Chieflain is Given a Most Enthusiastic Reception THOUSANDS CHEER

Greeting Never Exceeded in His Long Political Career—Great Things in Store—The Breaking Up of the Tory Party

Montreal, Oct. 10.—Tonight's demonstration to Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the Monument National was one of the most spontaneous and enthusiastic receptions ever afforded a public man in Canada. He returned recently from a triumphant tour through the west, but nothing in his life matched the solemnly greeted accord of his tonight. The Monument National was packed to the doors by cheering thousands long before the hour for which he was announced to speak.

Sir Wilfrid came down from Ottawa this afternoon by special train, reaching the Place d'Armes about 7 o'clock. Here he was accorded an informal welcome by the leaders of Liberalism in the city and province, which was escorted to a four-in-hand and, preceded by massed bands and thousands of torch bearers, he was escorted in triumph to the Monument National.

The streets along the route were packed by masses of humanity, while awaiting banners, waving flags and masses of colored lights and rockets proclaimed the city's welcome to the premier of Canada. The enthusiasm of the achievements of Sir Wilfrid were prominently displayed, among them being references to the National Transcontinental to Canada's prosperity, to her increase in population and prestige. References to the Georgian Bay Canal, to the Hon. Bay Terray and other projected enterprises were also prominently displayed.

It was, however, in the Monument National that the great outburst of enthusiasm found vent. The building was packed to the doors with hundreds standing in the aisles and in every available nook, while tens of thousands clamored in vain for an opportunity to enter the building. The appearance of Sir Wilfrid Laurier was the signal for great outburst of cheering, the vast audience rising and cheering again and again with the enthusiasm which he has shown in his own way.

On rising to speak Sir Wilfrid said that this occasion marked an epoch in his life. He felt that he had witnessed such a spontaneous and whole-hearted welcome as was afforded him tonight, and he found it difficult to express in words the appreciation which he felt for the cordial greeting given him. Credit for this is due largely to the splendid organization work which has been done in this city and in every political organization throughout the province.

Before Sir Wilfrid Laurier spoke addresses of welcome were read to him by the Liberal clubs and short speeches were made by a number of the younger generation of Liberals, one of the most memorable of all those which had been accorded to me in my long political career.

I believe me, I am sure, and I tell you that I shall seek in vain for words to express all the gratitude which I feel for the enthusiastic welcome which has been accorded to me in my long political career. I have, as you know, just visited the western provinces of our country. Eager to tell you some idea of the demonstrations of which my colleagues and myself have been the object, I can tell you nothing which is not true, and which they were not in the least exaggerated.

I have often thought, in the course of certain manifestations, that it would be impossible for me to meet with any superior to the one on this trip, but I am obliged to say, and I say it with pleasure, that all that I have seen in the west does not approach what I have seen today in the city of Montreal.

Break-up of Tory Party "But gentlemen, however flattering this welcome may be, the principal object which this occasion affords to me, in my opinion, is to outline the political situation of our country. I come here to discuss with you calmly the questions which at the present time ought to occupy the attention of our people. We are evidently in the midst of a series of important events, and the most remarkable fact of the present time in the political history of the Conservative party, the Conservative party, as we know it—the party of Macdonald, the party of Cartier and of the present time, is in process of disorganization, and that in a short time it will be fully dissolved even if dissolution is not already declared."

"This is a very significant fact to which I am going to refer. During the last session on Ottawa it had been decided by the chiefs of the Conservative party to hold a convention during the course of which they would discuss the future of the party, and it is a fact now remarkable that this convention, after having been decided upon, had to be abandoned."

"We knew at Ottawa, it is a well known fact that there was a meeting of the heads of the party to which had been invited all the sub-chiefs of the country and that at the close of a fairly stormy discussion the plan which had been conceived had to be abandoned. "I have just told you that I know perfectly well what occurred there. Several of a programme which would have pleased the east. Others wanted a programme which would have pleased Quebec but to which Ontario could not agree. Some wanted an increase of the tariff, others wanted a lowering of the tariff, and some wanted a lowering of the tariff. The Conservative party, therefore, has no programme, and in the struggle which will take place before long there will be many programmes as there are provinces. In the province of British Columbia, which I visited with a few of my friends some time ago, a battle will be waged against the government on the question of Asiatic immigration; in the province of the west, Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, the question will be the fiscal and the lowering of the tariff; in the province of Ontario the question will be on fiscal matters, and it will not be the lowering of the tariff that is demanded but the increase of the tariff."

"In Ontario also war will be made on the question of the tariff, but in the province of Quebec the war will be in the province of Quebec that the navy is going to lead us, not to the enslaving of our people, but to the separation of Canada from Great Britain."

"In the province of Quebec war will be made on the question of the tariff, but in the province of Quebec that the navy is going to lead us, not to the enslaving of our people, but to the separation of Canada from Great Britain."
