A WISE RESULVE.

Would Have Injured The Meet To Allow

The wheelman were wise in deciding not to allow liquor at the meet grounds. We Gon't suppose it's any worse to drink it on the fair grounds than anywhere else, but it's presence there would have been objectionable to many, and it would have served to lower the gathering in the estimation of a vast pumber in the community who would use that as a reason for staying away. Just why the license commissioners should have granted a permit to sell except at the instance of the local meet executive, it is hard to see. The bicyclists certainly did not ask for the privilege, and their action in refusing to remnit the sale shows they do not in any way approve of it.

Sir William Meredith, when leader of the Conservative party in Ontario always contended that the municipalities should have more direct control over licenses. Here is a case which illustrates his contention. The city coun il would ne er have dared to grant this permit, but the license commissichers being answerable only to Hardy & Co., at Toronto, can do as they like. They are not responsible to the public. In the words of the late lamented Jay Gould the public can be damined for all they need care.

And the license commissioners in West Keint are not any worse in matters of this kind than the license commissioners elsewhere. In fact they are a good deal better than those of some districts. It is the rankness of the license law which makes these things possible and not the fault of the individual commissioners. license act as it stands was never inbended as a protective measure. It was in ended as a political machine to keep the Mowat wovernment in power t has proved an and in that respe eminent success.

PRIZE FIGHTS AND PUBLIC MEET INGS IN TORONTO.

Evidently The Planet man received his education from Jem Mace, or Heenen, Sayres, or some of those old toughs, as he regards an affair like that at Carson City in the light of a five o'clock tea or a pastoral reception. Poronto News.

Well, in point of good order and de cency the Carson fight would hold itslown with most of Toronto's payilion than risk the chance of killing their political or municipal public meetings. We have a lingering recollection of transportation. a recent may dralty meeting there that much towards elevating even Corbett and Fitzsimmons. Of course this has nothing to do with the enforcement of a law that has no existence, but we only refer to the incident to show the News that rowdyism' is quite possible at other gatherings besides prize fights. And we might ask why people who behave themselves, if they do happen to be rowdies, should be prohibited from gathering to look at some pictures, while other people, who are termed eminently respectable, should be allowed to gather time and again at Toronto's public meetings and disgracefully misbehave themselves.

Having read Austin's jubilee ode and some of his other productions, we are still free to admit that he is poet laureate of England. But let it rest there. George Gordon Martin can put more real poetry in a prose letter on the division court act than Mr. Austin can put in a dozen odes. At least that's the oxinion of the cedar block pavement editor of this great family journal, but possibly after all he may not know as much about poetry as he

EDITOR'S ESSAY ON MAN.

Kansas Scribe who Finds Something new to Man that is born of woman is few of days and full of microbes. The moment he hits the earth he starts for the grave, and the longer he travels the faster he goes. His visible reward for long days of labor and nights of walking the floor goes. His visible reward for long days of labor and nights of walking the floor with a teething baby is an epitaph be can't read and a tombstone he doesn't want. In the first of the seven ages of man he's licked, in the last he is neglected and in all the others he's a target for the lying, meddlesome mischief maker—a woman who won't to her own business. If he does not marry his first love he'll wish he had, and if he does he'll always wish he hadn't.

Yet no man ever follows freedom's flag for patrictistm (and a consion) with half the enthusiasum that he will trail the red, the white and the blue that constitutes the banner of female hauty. He will brave the lion in his den, face the booming cannon, tread the ocean form keneath his feet and yet will traimble like a half-frozen agg-sucking dog, when called to account by his wife of his cussedness. He goes forth in the morning to plough come with a cross eyed mule and a roap steer, works hard all day and comes home at night to find seven half-clothed children, hungry as bears and no bread in the house, and his wife over to one of the naighborts to borrow a hat to wear at a church social.—Troy,
