FACTORY COMMISSION

WILL RESUME
Enquiry Into St. John's Conditions Not Yet Completed.

The Factory Act commission, which has been silent for some time, will probably resume its inquiries in the course of a week or so. The centres, whose industrial conditions are yet to be examined into, are St. Stephen, Fredericton, Woodstock and Moncton.

The investigation into conditions at St. John has not yet been completed and the commission will therefore reserve St. John for the closing of its hearing. It is generally conceded that the result of the commission's labors, but whether it will please every one is another question.

INCIDENTS IN THE TAIL.

From An Account of the Battle Written By a Japanese Field Officer For Leslie's Monthly Magazine.

As I was rushing over the sandy stretch in front of the Kullencheng I almost stumbled over a private who was seriously wounded, spite of blazing haste as I then was, I could not stand the temptation of stooping over the poor fellow, I said: "Are you wounded?" On the pallor of his face broke a broad smile, he raised his hand—he said, in a voice as slender as a cobweb thread, "His Majesty, Benial," then he added, "Oh, it is very slight; let your heart be at ease. Only I pray you to bring the battle to a victory for our country."

GRAND DIVISION DATE CHANGED

The session of the Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance of the Province of New Brunswick, which was to have taken place in this city on the twenty-sixth of the present month, has been postponed until the month of November. The change of date has been made in consequence of the proximity of election day.

Husband—Do you know that every time a woman gets angry she adds a new wrinkle to her face? Wife—No; I did not, but if it is so I presume it is a wise provision of nature to let the world know what sort of a husband a woman has.—New Yorker.

POLITICS ON THE STREET.

The Strength of the Liberal Ticket is the Subject of Much Discussion Today.

The nomination of Messrs. O'Brien and Keown to carry the Liberal standard in this constituency was the sole topic of discussion about the street today. Opinion as to the possible strength of the O'Brien-Keown combination varied. Some affirm that it is the best fortune that has come to the Liberals of this constituency for a long time. They seem to think that it will reconcile discordant elements and bring victory more within the possible than it was before.

But that the O'Brien-Keown nomination does not by any means meet with general approval is apparent from expressions heard on every hand.

One of the delegates to the Liberal convention last night was heard to say this morning that O'Brien's nomination was not at all unanimous, as it is tried to make the public believe it was. He for one was not a supporter of O'Brien and if he had had an opportunity to vote against him he would most certainly have done so.

He did not question for a moment that O'Brien had enough supporters present to elect him in the face of any opposition, but that very fact in itself, he said, was going to hurt him on election day. He could not swallow without murmur the O'Brien pill and he would therefore vote against the Liberal city candidate on November 3rd.

This Liberal was not the only one who expressed himself thus. There were others, who while they said they would vote for McKewen, they would not vote for O'Brien. So there is everything to show that the hoped-for reconciliation has not taken place.

The Globe has been in the habit of complaining against persons in the government employ taking active part in political matters. Yet some of the delegates at the Liberal convention, men upon whom O'Brien presumably trusted for his nomination, were government employes.

Many Liberals regard the situation as hopeless and are not backward in saying so. In a large number of instances they declare that they will take no part whatever in the election, not even cast their ballot.

Four drunks faced Magistrate Ritchie this morning, and sullenly responded to their questions.

Patrick Kerrigan stood at the head of the class, and never failed to answer any question put to him. He acknowledged he was drunk when arrested on Water street, and when fined $4 or 10 days, chose the latter, saying, "I ain't got no money, I'm from Boston."

William Atchison was the last brilliant member of the quartette; he had nothing more to say, common as it was, and could not claim any foreign place as residence. His fine was fixed at $5.

Herbert W. Perry seemed covered by the most story. He got drunk, he gave Officer Perry a fine ring, and when cornered exhibited a close and intimate acquaintance with the manly art. His style was modelled after the French, and he succeeded in giving Perry a nasty kick on the nose, which seriously marred the officer's beauty, but he told him he hoped he realized the gravity of the charge; it was one which made him liable to a year's imprisonment. As the jail was not suited for long term sentences he let Perry off lightly, and imposed $10 or four weeks for drunkenness and $10 for two months for assault and resistance.

Fredrick Benson also proved himself a combatant of no mean order, though he stood at the foot of his class. Benson was enjoying the sleep induced by too great indulgence in the ardent; but as he chose the Union Depot for the scene of his slumbers, Officer Collins was compelled to wake him up and make him move along. This so enraged Benson that he rushed at the officer like a whirlwind and only Collier's great strength could bring the man under control. He pleaded guilty and got $8 or 30 days.

SHIP LABORERS HAPPY.
Outlook Bright For This Winter—Satisfactory Rates Arranged.

M. J. Kelly and F. W. Daley returned yesterday from Montreal where they were conferring with the agents of the steamship lines in reference to the winter port business. They say that their conference terminated satisfactorily. So far as they know there will be no change in shipbuilders' rates this winter. More publicity will be given of the result of the conference after a meeting of the Shipbuilders' Association, which is to be held on the 17th of this month.

The summer season at Montreal, Mr. Daley says, has been very disappointing to shipbuilders. Many of the steamers entering the Montreal harbor this summer left with just part cargoes.

The outlook for the winter season in St. John, Mr. Kelly says, is bright. Plenty of work is expected and the men are already getting together.

INTERRUPTED HONEYMOON

Advance Agent Gives His Story of Last Night's Fiasco at the Opera House.

With reference to the report on page four of today's Star, that the actors forced Manager Drew's hand last evening and prevented the performance of the "Cracker Honeymoon" from taking place, Mr. Coleman, advance agent for the company, says that the trouble was mainly due to Mr. Drew.

"The facts are," said Mr. Coleman, "that I am owed over $134 by the Puritan Co., and my wife nearly $60. I heard rumors a few days ago that Mr. Simmons was going to break the general agreement in regard to wages and get a foreclosure on the receipts. These were talk also of Manager Drew and Miss Houghton saying what they could get while here in this city and then leaving the rest stranded. These reports forced me to protect myself and in the conference with Mr. Drew he agreed to give me $10 a night for seven nights and $15 for one making $85. This shows I had no intention to hold up the company. I had the right to see all incoming money, but I did not wish to hurt the show. Mr. Drew felt this was fair and all he would have given me had last night's performance gone on would have been $10. The other members were willing to play and my wife was on hand and all made for the performance. It got noised around that Mr. Drew was not going to let the performance take place and after some minutes of excitement Mr. Drew did announce there would be no show, and Mr. Smith accordingly informed the audience.

"If the 'Cracker Honeymoon' had gone on the company would have cleared about $100, but Mr. Drew chose to be obstinate. I had no malice against Drew, and he knows it, for I went to considerable financial inconvenience to prevent him from being arrested, in connection with lawyer's fees against the company."

At the present time the lawyers are in conference and it is hoped to have the performance take place tonight as advertised.
