CHICAGO'S LONG, COSTLY MISTRIAL

Jury Deliberated 54 Hours in Shea Case and Could Not Agree—Heavy Costs.

The famous trial in Chicago of Cornelius P. Shea, head of the Teamsters' Union, on a charge of conspiracy, arising out of the great strike in 1905, has resulted in a mistrial after a cost to the country of $40,000, and to the defence of $23,000.

After fifty-four hours' deliberation the jury was discharged without having agreed on a verdict, seven of the jurors standing for acquittal and five for conviction.

Nine ballots were taken, but the guilt or innocence of any one particular defendant was not voted on. The jurors split on the question of whether or not a conspiracy had been entered into by the defendants and never got beyond that point.

The strike of teamsters in connection with the leaders were indicted for conspiracy began April 6, 1905 and continued for 136 days. It was one of the most riotous disturbances ever witnessed in Chicago. Fourteen persons lost their lives as a direct result, and the number injured mounted into the hundreds. More than 3,000 extra policemen and deputy sheriffs were pressed into service to keep order, to maintain peace, and for a time it appeared that the state troops would have to be called.

The strike was started ostensibly to assist the garment-workers, who had been locked out by the National Wholesale Tailors' Association in November, 1904. At that time the firm of Montgomery, Ward & Co. was not a member of the Wholesale Tailors' Association and was conducting its clothing-cutting department on a union basis. The firm employed but nineteen cutters, the garments being sent out to be made up in other establishments.

On December 6, 1904, the cutters were called out from the Ward firm on the ground that it was making up garments to be made up in shops which were at the time engaged in a fight against the union. The places of the nineteen men had long been filled, and the strike was regarded as a closed incident by the firm before the teamsters took up the cause of the garment-workers.

APPEAL TO TEAMSTERS.
For months, the garment-workers appealed to the teamsters to aid them by refusing to haul goods to the strike establishments. The teamsters were under agreements with their employers and refused to violate them. During the month of March, 1905, the garment-workers appealed to the Chicago Federation of Labor, and that body requested the teamsters to lend their active assistance.

The matter was discussed for several weeks and committees were appointed to visit the employers but without result. At last the teamsters agreed to assist the garment-workers by calling a sympathetic strike, provided the central labor body would furnish the necessary funds. An assessment of 25 cents a week was levied on all members of unions affiliated with the central body and the strike was called.

Just why the firm of Montgomery Ward & Co. was singled out by the leaders of the teamsters has never been explained. The firm employed few garment-workers and even had it made a settlement with the union it would not have altered the situation. Other firms employing hundreds of garment-workers were not interfered with by the teamsters.

STRIKE IS CALLED OFF.
For the first three weeks the strike was confined to the Ward firm, Shea refusing to extend it to any of the clothing manufacturers. The garment-workers then released the teamsters and the strike was virtually called off. When Shea and his committee asked for the reinstatement of twelve teamsters who were employed by the Ward firm, Robert J. Thorne of the company stated that they would be employed if there were any vacancies, but that no man hired since the strike began would be discharged to make room for a former employee.

The fight then became a teamsters' issue, and it spread rapidly to the department stores, express companies, wholesale grocers and other firms doing business with Montgomery Ward & Co.

A summary of the strike may be made as follows:
Number of days strike lasted .. 105
Deaths directly due to strike .. 14
Arrests during strike .. 1,108
Number of men fined .. 774
Number of men discharged .. 281
Held to Criminal Court .. 43
Held to Juvenile Court .. 7
Fined under peace bonds .. 3
Strikers indicted by grand jury .. 27
Non-union teamsters indicted .. 8
Fines against strikers and non-unionists .. $9,711.95

The above summary does not include the conspiracy indictments against the leaders, but covers only riots, assaults, intimidations, malicious mischief and carrying concealed weapons.

SAVED FROM DEATH BY AN ICEBOAT

Three Lads Afloat on a Floe in the Great South Bay Rescued by Men in Dinghey.

BABYLON, L. I., Feb. 6.—Josiah Robbins, republican leader of Western Suffolk county, and Everett T. Rogers, a well known sportsman, saved today from drowning the three young sons of John Hall, coachman on the Harry M. Johnson estate.

The three lads, the oldest of whom is under twelve and the youngest eight, had gone to the shore for the purpose of sliding on the frozen waters of the Great South Bay. Hardly had they got a few hundred feet from shore when the ice left the mainland, carrying the youngsters with it. The three soon drifted them further and further from shore, and the sea gradually broke the huge field of ice into smaller pieces.

Unmindful of their danger, the three boys romped and played until they saw they were drifting out to sea on a piece of ice little more than two hundred feet square. Messrs. Robbins and Rogers by mere chance saw the youngsters, who in the distance looked more like ducks than children. Bending a sail on the new ice dingy of Rogers the two men sped across the ice fields at a mile a minute clip. They arrived not a second too soon, as the field on which the boys were was fast parting, and the difficulty the lads were rescued and brought safely to the mainland.

The return trip was especially dangerous, but the dingy with the five persons aboard reached the mainland in due time, and the townspeople are now planning to have the rescuers presented with Carnegie medals.

BOSTON MAY HAVE MORE FREEDOM ON SUNDAYS

Sports and Entertainments Favored in Report of Committee.

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—Radical changes in the statutory laws relating to the observance of the Sabbath are recommended by the special committee appointed by the last legislature to revise the Sunday statutes, which submitted its report at the state house, late today.

The Sunday laws recently formed the subject of a bitter controversy between District Attorney John B. Moran and Police Commissioner Stephen O'Meara of the city of Boston, a controversy which resulted in wholesale arrests and many convictions because of violations of the existing statutes commonly known as the "Blue" laws.

In a general way the report favors a freer use of Sunday by the people, with more liberties with reference to outdoor games and pastimes, but upon the important question of Sunday amusements the committee is divided and has submitted two opposing reports. The committee is unanimous, however, that the law permitting religious and charitable associations to present amusements on Sunday for religious or charitable purposes, and under which 75 per cent. of the proceeds passes to the charity, is ineffectual and inefficient and should be repealed.

The committee recommends that this part of the statutes be repealed on this account: It is a source of trouble for this section of the case that the committee is divided, Senator Buttick of Lancaster, and Representatives Webster of Boston and O'Connell of Pittsburg, believing in a "mental recreation" for the people, declare that the question of permitting Sunday amusements can be best regulated by the local authorities in city or town, by issuing licenses after passing upon each case and deciding it in accordance with the local public opinion. The other members of the committee, Senator Mahoney of Chicago, and Representatives Fox of New Bedford, McManus of Natick, Mellen of Worcester, holding that Sunday should be a day of rest primarily, but responding to a demand for some rational form of entertainment, recommend the Sunday amusements be limited definitely to lectures, concerts, or classical music, and concerts and entertainments given by public authorities. They assert that the performances given at the resorts, at parks are not essentially different from those given at theatres upon week days and they express the opinion that such shows should be prohibited.

Call Accepted.
The Springfield Tribune says: It will be heard by Springfield people with regret that Rev. W. B. Sissam has accepted the call to St. George's church, Montreal. It is not definite as yet what time he will leave, but it is expected to be shortly after Easter. Mr. Sissam has been so universally popular with all classes in Springfield that his departure from the town will be a distinct loss. Our sympathies will be with all Saints' congregation, who are thus called on to lose so exceptionally fine and able a man.

STATE SENATOR WAS EXPELLED FOR TAKING BRIDE

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 6.—Richard W. Morgan, a Republican, was expelled from the state senate this afternoon by a vote of 29 to 1, after a special committee had found him guilty of accepting a bribe. The finding was based on a statement made to the senate in March, 1905, by Morgan himself, who handed to the secretary of state $750 which he declared, had been given him by James M. Herbert and Daniel Salt in consideration of his promising to vote for Alva Adams, Democrat, for governor in the Peabody-Adams contest. Morgan voted for Peabody.
