JUDGE LONGLEY AMONG THE GUESTS AT BEAR FEAST

NEW YORK, March 7.—The speaker at the fifth annual dinner of the Canadian Camp at the Astoria Hotel tonight divided attention with a real Nova Scotia bear, which first appeared, carried on a litter on the shoulders of two men dressed in bearskin coats and caps, and afterward was carried to the guests with a rug. There were 200 guests, among them many women.
John S. Wilson was toastmaster. The other speakers were Dr. Barton W.
Everman of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries; Ernest Thompson Seton, Justice Langley of the supreme court of Nova Scotia; George Shiras of Pittsburgh and James A. Cruikshank.

FOUND ANCIENT TOMBS WITH VALUABLE JEWELS

ANCONA, Italy, March 7.—Workmen discovered two ancient tombs of extraordinary value and interest here today while excavating for the foundations of a hospital. These tombs date for the third century before Christ. They contained some beautiful silver vases, a pair of gold earrings set with emeralds, and a gold ring set with a carved stone. Orders have been given that search be made for other antiquities.

FIRE IN SING SING.

OSSENING, N. Y., March 7.—A fire, which practically destroyed the cabinet shop building of Sing Sing prison tonight, almost caused a panic among the prisoners. Many of them, when they saw the flames rising from the burning building, began to shout, although they were assured that the main prison buildings were not in danger. Finally the entire prison force was obliged to patrol the corridors and quiet the inmates of the cells by threats of punishment.
The cabinet shop which was a large three story building, was filled with dry wood, which made it an easy prey to the flames. The prison authorities were unable to estimate the loss.

ST. JOHN, N. B., MARCH 8, 1907

THE MANITOBA CONTEST.

No provincial campaign ever carried on in Canada has been marked by superbness and such impassioned liturgical oratory as that which closed Manitoba yesterday and which seeingly has resulted in the return of the Roblin government. And it is also as to say that no more determined effort has been made by any government to insure its own success. There can be little doubt that every method known in modern politics was adopted, that money was freely spent, and that grave irregularities will be made known when the protested elections are brought to court. It was a campaign in which the larger portion of the purchasable vote could not easily be influenced by anything excepting cold cash, and to this vote much of the Conservative success is due, for the more intelligent electors realizing the extent of the corruption existing were inclined to turn against the party in power. Yet as opposed to this, the Roblin government had the pole position, had worked up a species of excited patriotism through the schoolhouse flag policy, had spent money lavishly on public works, and had powerful corporations at their backs. Against this the charges of corruption could avail but little, though they created local excitement and perhaps resulted in reduced majorities in certain constituencies. In this campaign even the clergy have taken part. Rev.

C. W. Gordon, always inclined to the sensational, charged the government with non-enforcement of the liquor laws, and was in turn bitterly assailed by Mr. Rogers. Other ministers have spoken from their pulpits, but evidently this policy has not found favor with the people who, like their fellow citizens in the east, object to mixing politics and religion. According to early reports the government has won twenty-four seats out of thirty-four heard from.

DEVELOPING A POLICY.
Although the feeling has existed in Ottawa, originating no doubt in the frequent expressions of opinion on the part of various organizations throughout the Dominion, that the British preference should be applicable only to imports brought in British bottoms via Canadian ports, Parliament yesterday dealt definitely with this question for the first time. The reception of the resolution introduced by Mr. Logan would indicate that although the government has in the past preferred to adopt a non-committal attitude until the proper time arrived, the question has been carefully considered, and now, while it is a little too early to provide for the carrying out of this policy, no harm can be done in letting the country know the attitude of the leaders. Taken in conjunction with harbor nationalization this move is natural enough, and it is anticipated that when the country is prepared to carry out the nationalization idea it will also be ready for the change in the application of the preferential tariff. Until transportation facilities are sufficient to handle the ever-increasing business of the country, it would be extremely unwise to institute any changes which might result in a congestion of traffic, or, on the other hand, involve additional cost by the failure of the preference to apply to goods arriving through foreign ports. St. John has for some years been an ardent advocate of this policy, and the agitation developed here has no doubt had an effect throughout Canada. All these declarations by parliament, nationalization, application of the preference and others indicate the gradual development of a national Canadian policy which will prove all the stronger from the circumstance that it is being given most deliberate consideration.

Having repeatedly refused to skate in races in which the public manifested deep interest, Duffy and Logan, both of whom have of late attained some notoriety, are now endeavoring to arrange a private seance. In view of their past resistance it is no more than natural that now when they want to skate they should be refused the use of the rink. "He who will not when he may, when he will he shall have nay."

TOUGH CROWD.

A cub reporter was recently detailed by his office to "cover" an assignmen-tary where he was thrown in contact with a number of police reporters. He returned to the office and was solicited by a fellow cub reporter to help him work. "Oh, very nicely," remarked the young man, "but those reporters are the roughest literary gentlemen I ever met."

A number of military men in Washington Hotel were giving an account of an incident of the civil war.
A quiet man who stood by at last said:
"Gentlemen, I happened to be there, and might be able to refresh your memory as to what took place in reference to the event just narrated.
The hotelkeeper said to him:
"Sir, what might have been your rank?"
"I was a private."
Next day the quiet man, as he was about to depart, asked for his bill.
"Not a cent, sir; not a cent," answered the proprietor. "You are the very first private I ever met."

SIXTY-ONE UNKISSED YEARS.
Milwaukee holds the record for the unkissed, according to a statement made under oath by William Bartel.
Bartel is 61 years of age, and testified that he had never been kissed by a woman, nor had he ever kissed anyone.
He was a witness in a case where a saloon had been raided as a disorderly house. It was intimated that Bartel had hugged and kissed a young woman present. Bartel denied the imputation, and with dramatic pose and flashing eyes said:
"I have never kissed a woman in my life, and no woman ever kissed me, and never will, so help me, God."

IN DOUBT.

On a famous rifle range there was an important team match one day, and the murder of young Prince Yung-chin will take place, as has been told, about the middle of the first moon of the new year.
"The ceremony of putting up the topping of the young Prince Yung-chin
Should Arrive It Better.
Towne—That's the local weather forecaster who just passed us.
Brown—Indeed! He isn't a very healthy-looking man, is he?
Towne—No. He says the climate here doesn't agree with him.
Brown—Yes? wonder if that's why he keeps changing it so much.

TWO GROWLERS.

An old gentleman, pointing to his favorite dog, said proudly:
"That dog certainly seems almost human at times."
"Yes," said his wife, "he growls over his food as much as you do."

NATURAL QUERY.

The multimillionaire was asked if he would take the stand.
"Oh, I don't know," he answered, "what's the stand worth?"
"I wish," said Henry Hank, wistful-ly, "that I was one of those here Fillipencer fellows that likes dog fer dinner."
"Yes, fer?" inquired Fatigued Philip.
"Yes," said Hank, "a good dinner sicked out yer every day — comin' right over de fence at yer!"

STEVE ADAMS JURY AGAIN DISAGREED

WALLACE, Idaho, March 7. — The jury in the trial of Fred Tyler, after being in deliberation since 11 o'clock yesterday morning, tonight announced through foreman George Eilers that it was impossible to agree on a verdict, and was discharged by Judge Woods.

NOT AFRAID.

As at the time the signing of the Declaration of Independence the issue of the Revolutionary struggle was still doubtful, all those who signed it risked both their lives and property. One of the signers, named Charles Carroll, was very wealthy, and after he had affixed his name one of the others said, "There go many millions."
"Oh, no," rejoined another, "for there are many men of the same name, and they will not know whom to take."
"Not so," said Charles Carroll, and added to his signature the words "of Carrollton." This is his only name to which the residence is attached.

BELGRADE. — Prince George of Crown put spavansje puv spavansje padose a miraculous escape from being killed by a bomb which exploded in his gun room, was awakened the other night by a fire in his bed room chimney.
The Prince who is always ready for any form of excitement was highly amused by the incident, and as he announced the fire exclaimed: "What will they say about it this time? I suppose that they will make out that I started the fire myself!" King Peter wishes the Prince to sit for a bust by a Bohemian sculptor, but he refused on the ground that he always felt "dangerous" and wanted to "throw things" when he was obliged to sit still.

JOHN N. B. FRIDAY, MARCH 8 1907

THE SUFFRAGETTES VOW VENGEANCE

Will Make it Warm for Parliamentary Opponents.

Meetings to be Held in Ridings Represented by Members Who Attack the Sacred Cause

LONDON, March 7.—If the words of certain women tally with their dictionary definitions, there is a terrible curse hanging over all the members of the House of Commons who oppose Mr. Dickinson's Women's Suffrage Bill when it comes up on March 8th.

"We are going to make it warm for them," says Christabel Pankhurst, "We will storm their constituencies, and they shall be only too glad to get out." They have already begun the process of making it warm for one of the members of the House of Commons who opposes Mr. Dickinson's Women's Suff-
8th.

Another Gathering Planned.
Claxton Hall, where the feminine army lately mustered for the attack on the House of Commons, will be the scene tomorrow of another gathering to support the Dickinson Bill, the fate of which is awaited with daily increasing anxiety.

If the bill is brought to a division there seems to be every chance of its passing, but the division will not be reached unless the speaker grants closure, because the government has given only one evening for its discussion. Immense hostile amendments will open the floodgate of talk, and if closure is not granted the bill will be talked out.

Saturday's rout of the Progressives in London seems to have greatly strengthened the opposition to the bill by the Liberals, who ascribe the defeat on that momentous occasion largely to the women rattlepates. The suff-ragettes scorn this idea.
"The coward," says Christabel Pankhurst, "are only seizing this event as a peg on which to hang their real views of women's suffrage. We have known their opinions all along, but they have been too cowardly to declare them."

NOT LIKELY TO PASS.
Apart from amendments to the bill there are no fewer than eight motions to reject it. One of the chief grounds for the Liberal hostility is expressed by Mr. Henderson, who points out that the bill as it stands simply multiplies the rich man's plural vote, as he could procure votes for his wife, daughters, nieces, and aunts.

If the bill passes and gets through the House of Lords, which is altogether unlikely, it is possible that it may even lead to an early dissolution of parliament, inasmuch as precedent, since the Reform Bill of 1832, demands dissolution as soon as possible after the enfranchisement of any body of electors.

BRITISH LORDS ARE STILL SAFE

Government Has Modified Its Intention.

Liberals Formerly Anxious to Promote Agitation Against Upper House
Alter Their Tone

LONDON, March 7.—The insincerity of the Government's attack on the House of Lords becomes continually more apparent. When questioned today in the House of Commons as to when the Government was going to submit proposals to curtail the "Lordships' claws, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Prime Minister, evaded the issue, pleading that the financial purposes were likely to absorb a large part of the labors of the House for some time to come.

The Standard today says there is good reason to believe that the government has seriously modified its intention in regard to the House of Lords. Large numbers of Liberals who were formerly anxious to promote agitation in the country against the Upper House, have completely altered their tone. This circumstance is due, without doubt, to the moral effect of the House's election, the reduction of the Liberals' majorities in Aberdeen and North-east Derbyshire, and the Progressive and Socialist riot in London.

BRIDE, BURNED, RIDES IN SNOW TO SAVE HUSBAND

Midnight Dash for Aid After Carrying His Body From Burning Home.

HIGHMORE, S. D., March 7.—Andrew H. Lien is dead and his bride of a few months is in a critical condition from her heroic, but vain, efforts to save her husband.

After carrying him, his body blistered by the fumes of her burning home, to the barn and covering him with hay, the courageous young woman, whose own night clothes had been nearly burned off and who was prevented from returning to the house by the fire, rode on horseback through the snow three miles for aid. It was midnight, and the mercury stood at 10 degrees above zero.

Wrapped in a neighbor's dress she rode back. A doctor arrived an hour later, but Lien died this morning, and the wife, burned, frozen and suffering from nervous shock, may follow him. He was lighting the fire with kerosene when the explosion occurred.

CRUELTY TO GOLDFISH.

It may not be generally known that there is cruelty in the keeping of goldfish. Half of such captives die from sheer want of rest. As fish have eyes so formed that they cannot endure the entirely wrong place, as is evident from the way in which they dash about and go around and around until fairly worn out.

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, March 7.—The National Assembly today decreed the Republic of Salvador to be in a state of siege. President Zelaya has issued a violently worded proclamation against Honduras, Guatemala and Salvador. Previous reports that the Honduran troops are triumphing over the Nicaraguans have been confirmed.

WALKER A FORGER AS WELL AS EMBEZZLER

HARTFORD, Conn., March 8.—That Wm. F. Walker, the defaulting treasurer of the Savings Bank of New Britain, is also a forger to the extent of several thousand dollars is now asserted, and the grand jury at its session Tuesday will consider this charge.

The state attorney says he is "impelled on evidence to show that Walker forged notes payable to himself as treasurer of the Connecticut Baptist Convention, and by so doing has been able to cover up his stealing for several years.

dition of Archie Roosevelt, the President's son, who is suffering from a encouraging this morning than at any time in the last 18 hours, though the patient is still in a critical condition,
