The concerts of last Wednesd y and Thursday were the great events of the past week, and in fact for many weeks, both from a social and musical standpoint. The prominence in the musical world of the vocalists who took part, the large and fashiosable audience present upon both occasions, and the great enthusiasm displayed, all combined to give it an eclat that has seldom attended any event of a similar nature in this city. Much had been swritten regarding the wonderful tenor, Evans Williams and much was expected of him, and it is a wonderful irrbute to his ability, that, not only did he come fully up to popular expectation, but succeeded in arousing a degree of enthusiasm that has never been equilided in St. John. At the close of his first solo, The Holy City, Mr. Williams was recalled several times, and when he finally decided to respond in the way that best pleased the audience, the wild harrahs that went up from hundreds of throats was sufficient evidence that he had scored a great triumph. It was an ovation that has never before been accorded any artist in this city. His every appearance was the signal for prolonged applause, and after each number he was recalled many times. Mr. Williams reception here means the addition of other bright laurels to those he has already won.
