BRITISH EMPIRE BEST PROMOTER OF WORLD PEACE

Dominions Have Great Part
To Play, Says Hon. N. W.
Rowell.

TELLS LEAGUE PURPOSES

Large Audience in Masonic Temple Hears Geneva
Conference Report.

"Canada and the League of Nations" was the theme of an eloquent address delivered last night by Hon. Newton W.
Rowell to a splendid attendance of the men's and women's Canadian Clubs of London, in the Masonic Temple.

The speaker was introduced by Robert Greene, president of the men's Canadian Club, who occupied the chair.
In doing so Mr. Greene said:
"The speaker of the evening is the greatest man in our country to speak to us, but one of the men who has done the greatest things for our country, and who has participated in one of the greatest conferences ever held in the world."

Mr. Greene also reminded the audience that the speaker of the evening was a London boy, one of whom they were all proud.

Mr. Rowell at the outset said:
"Your president has referred to the fact that I am a London boy, and in this connection I am reminded of an incident of my early political career by seeing in this audience my old friend, T. H. Purdom."

First Political Speech.

"The first political speech that I ever delivered was in this city in the hall at the far side of Clark's bridge, in the interests of Mr. Purdom, who was then a candidate for the Provincial Legislature. This was on a Saturday evening. On the Monday evening the Conservative party held a meeting, and an invitation was extended to someone on the opposite side who wished to say anything for his party. I responded to the call, but was followed by Ed Meredith, Mr. Bayly and other Conservative orators, and the result was a headline in a local paper the following morning, 'A Youth Named Rowell Severely Castigated.'"

Mr. Rowell said that the primary function of the League of Nations is to preserve the world's peace by some other means than war. It was for the purpose of settling international disputes by peaceful means, but was not meant to supersede the usual diplomatic methods.

Would Have Averted War.

"Within the past three months," continued Mr. Rowell, "I have met a man who said to me that if there had been in existence in June and July, 1914, such a body as the League of Nations, the great war, from which humanity has suffered so much, would never have taken place. That man was Lloyd George. This shows the great necessity of the co-operation of nations in preventing war."

Will Meet Yearly.

Mr. Rowell gave some interesting details of the composition of the league, mentioning that it would meet once a year in Geneva, and that a permanent secretary-general and a large secretariat staff had been appointed, and would be stationed in that city.

"Now," said the speaker, "what interest has Canada in all this? My answer is: Canada has now made a larger investment in the world's peace than she has made in any other cause in her history. She has given 50,000 of her bravest and her best and tens of thousands more who have done glorious work. She has incurred a debt of not less than two billions of dollars, and if it was worth her while to do all this, it is worth while to put forth every effort to preserve the peace of the world, that peace which our Canadian corps fought for and helped to make possible."

"Before the war each nation looked upon the other as a potential enemy and was continually prepared for war, maintaining all the paraphernalia for defence or offence. Nations were compelled to form alliances with other nations, and the balance of power, power, and the culmination of that alliance of nations was the awful war from which we have just emerged."

"The heart of humanity cries out for some newer and better means of settling international disputes, and nations should not look upon each other as potential enemies but as potential friends. They should not co-operate for the beginning of war but in the preservation of peace."

Dealing with the work of the Geneva conference, Mr. Rowell said that the members of the league then present represented no fewer than 46 different nations, embracing all the world's greatest races and religions, and was the greatest international gathering in the history of the world. When these representatives got down to business they soon came to recognize but one thing, namely, the preservation of the world's peace.

Referring to the personnel of the league, Mr. Rowell said that the most impressive single figure was the Right Hon. A. G. Balfour, whose remarks were critical, rather than constructive; the most eloquent was M. Viviani, a child of the people, who as a boy had sold milk-nicks in the streets of Marseille; the most picturesque figure was M. Padereewski, who spoke with great earnestness, and the most striking personality was Dr. Nansen, the Arctic explorer. But the most influential
Lord Robert Cecil.

Canada's Place in League.

Mr. Rowell then touched upon Canada's position in the league. He said that according to the provisions of the Hague conference the United Kingdom of Great Britain included within its scope the whole of the empire, but in the constitution of the League of Nations the representatives of Canada and the other dominions would not accept this. They insisted that each should have the same rights of nomination as the other nations.

Another matter was the maintaining of the world-wide character of the league. It was only natural that with so many European representatives present that they should view matters from their own standpoint, and one thing that they tried to bring about was that all new states should agree to the preservation of all the characteristics pertaining to racial minorities.

Policy of Assimilation.

"Now," said Mr. Rowell, "this is entirely opposed to Canada's policy in such matters. It is not our policy to preserve these peculiarities in our foreign immigrants. It is our policy to assimilate these people and under the free sky of Canada to build up a truly Canadian nationality. A policy laid down by a world-wide organization must be world-wide in its application.
The league is not a super-state, and one of its dangers is that it might repel more than it would attract."

"The people of the new world are determined to manage their own internal affairs, and not to permit them to be managed by those outside."
"Nothing," continued Mr. Rowell, "created greater surprise among the foreign representatives of the league than the independent stand made by the representatives of the British dominions. These nations had under the aegis of the British Empire been built on the same foundation as other empires of the past and it would have seemed natural that they should follow the same way. It is founded, however, on the principle that every country within its bounds does its own thinking."

"The smaller states of Europe are as dependent on the great powers that they do not enjoy the freedom and independence of the British dominions."

"We have been accustomed to discuss our affairs on a basis of perfect equality with the statesmen of Great Britain," continued the speaker, "and there is no reason why we should not discuss them in the same way with other powers; but for Canada and the other dominions there is in the future a more real independence, a greater influence in the world's affairs by their remaining for all time a part of the British Empire than as nations standing outside. With the experience and knowledge that we have gained we are aware that in a world reeling from the shock of an awful war the greatest power for peace, for freedom, for order and for stability today is the British Empire."

Heid Close Attention.

Mr. Rowell's brilliant and statesmanlike speech held the close attention of his hearers throughout, and at its close he was, on the motion of the chairman, accorded their enthusiastic thanks by a standing vote, the chairman remarking that they were all proud of Canada's representative at the Geneva conference.
The joint Canadian Clubs are to be congratulated on the splendid success of the gathering.

Health Board Wants Council
To Take Over Plumbing Inspection.

Recommendation that the inspection of plumbing be placed under the direction of No. 2 committee of the city council, instead of the board of health, and adoption of regulations for restaurants were the two most important developments at a special meeting of the board of health last night.

The restaurant bylaw will be referred to City Solicitor Meredith before being brought before the city council for approval.

Details Not Completed.

Considerable detail work remains to be done on the plumbing bylaw before it is sent to the council again. Chairman Cunningham said that so far as the board of health was concerned the plumbing regulations should only relate to sanitation. They should have nothing to do with licensing or making a "closed trade" in any way. J. H.
Saunders agreed with this. He thought permits to do plumbing should be issued in the same way as building permits.
There should be no fee for the permit, and the inspector should be paid by the city. Ald. Drake also held the opinion that the combination of the plumbing and building inspection departments would be a good move.

Changes to bring this about probably will be recommended to the council.

Must Display Licenses.

The principal clause of the restaurant bylaw will require eating places to display licenses from the board of health.
These could be cancelled by the mayor if the places did not live up to the requirements. The original bylaw went beyond the powers of the council, City Solicitor Meredith advised. Changes were made last night to remedy this.
As with the plumbing bylaw the clauses were framed with a view to public health only.

Keep Cat in Basement.

Provision was made for the thorough protection of food from all sources of contamination. Cats will be permitted in restaurant basements to war on rats and mice, but they will not be permitted in the kitchens. All other animals will be barred from the premises.

Employees suffering from communicable disease, or in the "balance of communicable disease exists, will not be permitted to work. Garbage will have to be removed every twenty-four hours except Sundays and holidays.
Pools on display will have to be covered.

Those NASTY
LITTLE PIMPLES

That Come On the Face Are Caused by Bad Blood.

Many an otherwise beautiful and attractive face is sadly marred by the unsightly pimples and various other skin troubles, caused wholly by bad blood.
Many a cheek and brow cast in the mold of beauty have been sadly defaced, their attractiveness lost, and the possessor of the "pimpley face" rendered unhappy for years.

Their presence is a source of embarrassment to those afflicted as well as pain to their friends.

There is an effective remedy for these facial defects and that is Burdock Blood Purifiers, the old reliable medicine that has been on the market for over 40 years.

It drives out all the impurities from the blood, and leaves the complexion clear and healthy.

Mrs. James Williams, Waterford, Ont., writes: "My face was covered with pimples for nearly a year. I used different kinds of remedies to get rid of them and finally thought there was no relief. A friend dropped in one day and told me I should try Burdock Blood Purifiers. I did so and used three bottles, and found the pimples were all disappearing from my face, and now I have a clear complexion again."

Burdock Blood Purifiers are manufactured only by the T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ADMIRABLE RENDERING OF THE "CRUCIFIXION"

Fine Program by Choir of St. John the Evangelist Church.

A musical treat of unusual excellence was enjoyed by the congregation of the Church of St. John the Evangelist on Monday evening, when Stainer's "Crucifixion" was rendered by the church choir of 45 voices.

The soloists taking part were George

E. Matthews, tenor, and James P.
Abrams, bass. The performance was conducted by Sydney G. Martin, organist and choirmaster of the church, and the score was played by Miss Anne Arnold.

An especially well rendered chorus number was "Sing While the Gates."

A short service by the rector, Rev.
A. L. G. Clarke, preceded the musical service.

DURHAM COW GIVES
BIRTH TO TRIPLETS

SPRINGHILL MINES, N. S., March 10.—A Durham cow with a good family tree, belonging to Rupert S. Bown, dairyman and milk dealer of Rodney, has given birth to triplets, and agricultural circles in the neighborhood are quite excited over the event. All three calves are doing well, and the experts are of the opinion that they will live to a ripe old age.

Mr. Bown intends to rear the calves for breeding purposes. The question which veterinarians raise is: Will the three young heifers repeat and follow their mother's example in a practical demonstration against race suicide?

The calves' paper, whom they will never see, was the Holstein bull Marsance Poche, Canada. He was turned into beef several months ago.
