While Kenora, Ontario, is known for its racism, the native people are suffering from mercury poisoning.

Two Japanese experts on environmental mercury poisoning found two reserves near Kenora.

They found symptoms of mercury poisoning. Cats at White Lake reserve are dying the same disease as Minamata and Niigata. The Japanese experts showed up in humans.

So far, all the measures taken in Canada have been from concerned laymen. "If you don't start taking serious result than we can do urban engineering at the public meeting at the March.

Dr. Masazumi Harada, Dr. Harada, and Dr. Kumamoto, and Dr. Minamata Disease in Japan. It was very shocking. Please make in Japan."

Dr. Harada showed a film in uncontrolable spasms that wouldn't respond to treatment. They dragged themselves.

Before the disease was discovered, people of that town called it a curse. Then he showed a film.

After their investigation, experts then spoke at the Medical Science Centre in Keewatin. They told the government to organize support to force the release of all its reports of the companies from the area.

Dr. Jun Ui said, "It is the worst area it is worse than it is in Japan. The mud covers the various river mouths."

Dr. Jun Ui told the people of the area to take their own hands. "The two physicians said the conditions of the native people are like that in Japan," the rebel.

People can get mercury poisoning from types of food in the area which drink the polluted grass along the shore. The central nervous system of people act something.

In 1956, when Minamata was with heavy metals, the struggle into their own law which places the blame that it is not polluting suffered harm, the compensation, plus 100% them to clean it up.

The two Japanese officials the information area and fed the same developed Minamata. Canadian Government will not be released from.

Dr. Ui said the pulp mill in a country that had been a paradise with green trees expressed surprise in the whites and the Indians living conditions on the ground.

And, he added, "all the meeting with the Status of Pollution in Ottawa. Government are irresponsible attitude. Some know."

In July, ten White Lake people at least some of whom were poisoning, were brought to the Patients' Federation, who victims of the disease experts - doctors with disease.
