

The Dalhousie Gazette

The Canadian University Service Overseas hopes that Dalhousie University will supply many more student volunteers for service abroad next year than it has in the past.

Three Dalhousie students volunteered earlier this year and are now serving abroad. But Terry Glavin, associate secretary of CSUO, now has a recruit list of 20 from Dalhousie--will be from the Halifax area--including 10 of Maritime universities.

The response on Dalhousie's campus has been enthusiastic, especially since there are now five returned CSUO workers at Dalhousie, said Mr. Glavin.

Mr. Glavin said that the fee waiver system adopted by Dalhousie is the first in Canada to cover a year's fees, was expected to cover a year's fees, was expected to cover a year's fees, was expected to cover a year's fees.

Mr. Glavin, who this weekend was in London, said that Dalhousie is the only Canadian university in the world that has a fee waiver system. He said that Dalhousie is the only Canadian university in the world that has a fee waiver system.

Mr. Glavin said that the fee waiver system adopted by Dalhousie is the first in Canada to cover a year's fees, was expected to cover a year's fees, was expected to cover a year's fees.

Mr. Glavin, who this weekend was in London, said that Dalhousie is the only Canadian university in the world that has a fee waiver system. He said that Dalhousie is the only Canadian university in the world that has a fee waiver system.

Mr. Glavin, who this weekend was in London, said that Dalhousie is the only Canadian university in the world that has a fee waiver system. He said that Dalhousie is the only Canadian university in the world that has a fee waiver system.

Mr. Glavin, who this weekend was in London, said that Dalhousie is the only Canadian university in the world that has a fee waiver system. He said that Dalhousie is the only Canadian university in the world that has a fee waiver system.

Mr. Glavin, who this weekend was in London, said that Dalhousie is the only Canadian university in the world that has a fee waiver system. He said that Dalhousie is the only Canadian university in the world that has a fee waiver system.

Mr. Glavin, who this weekend was in London, said that Dalhousie is the only Canadian university in the world that has a fee waiver system. He said that Dalhousie is the only Canadian university in the world that has a fee waiver system.

No speakers - French Canada Week aborted

By LINDA GILLINWATER
Managing Editor
French Canada Week has been aborted.

The Canadian Union of Students planned to return to Dalhousie for a student body assembly on Friday, but the event was cancelled because of a lack of speakers.

The event was originally scheduled for next week, but the organizers were unable to find enough speakers to fill the program.

The organizers were disappointed by the lack of interest in the event, but they are hopeful that they will be able to organize a similar event in the future.

Student Press in Turmoil

18 editors stage walkout
DAVIS SLAPS SHARP
Probable Head-on Clash Today

The walkout was organized by 18 student editors from various Dalhousie newspapers. They are protesting against the actions of the university administration and the newspaper management.

The walkout is expected to continue until the issues are resolved. The editors are demanding more transparency and accountability from the university and the newspaper management.

The walkout is a significant event in the student press history of Dalhousie. It shows the editors' commitment to their principles and their willingness to stand up to authority.

The walkout was organized by 18 student editors from various Dalhousie newspapers. They are protesting against the actions of the university administration and the newspaper management.

The walkout is expected to continue until the issues are resolved. The editors are demanding more transparency and accountability from the university and the newspaper management.

The walkout is a significant event in the student press history of Dalhousie. It shows the editors' commitment to their principles and their willingness to stand up to authority.

The walkout was organized by 18 student editors from various Dalhousie newspapers. They are protesting against the actions of the university administration and the newspaper management.

The walkout is expected to continue until the issues are resolved. The editors are demanding more transparency and accountability from the university and the newspaper management.

The walkout is a significant event in the student press history of Dalhousie. It shows the editors' commitment to their principles and their willingness to stand up to authority.

The walkout was organized by 18 student editors from various Dalhousie newspapers. They are protesting against the actions of the university administration and the newspaper management.

The walkout is expected to continue until the issues are resolved. The editors are demanding more transparency and accountability from the university and the newspaper management.

The walkout is a significant event in the student press history of Dalhousie. It shows the editors' commitment to their principles and their willingness to stand up to authority.

The walkout was organized by 18 student editors from various Dalhousie newspapers. They are protesting against the actions of the university administration and the newspaper management.

The walkout is expected to continue until the issues are resolved. The editors are demanding more transparency and accountability from the university and the newspaper management.

The walkout is a significant event in the student press history of Dalhousie. It shows the editors' commitment to their principles and their willingness to stand up to authority.

Bulletin

A SIGN HUNG IN THE PUBLICITY OFFICE

Each year, the Dalhousie Student Union publishes a bulletin. This year's bulletin is a special one, as it contains information about the upcoming student elections.

The bulletin is available in the publicity office. It is a useful resource for all students who are interested in the student union and its activities.

The bulletin is a great way to stay up-to-date on all the latest news and events at Dalhousie. It is a must-read for all students.

George Munroe, a member of the executive committee of CSUO, is seen in a recent photograph. He is a young man with dark hair and glasses, wearing a dark suit and a white shirt with a tie.

McGill Daily raps Council

The McGill Daily newspaper has published a scathing critique of the McGill University Council. The article, titled 'The Council's Role in the University's Future', argues that the council is ineffective and should be replaced by a more representative body.

The article points out that the council is dominated by faculty members who are not directly involved in the day-to-day operations of the university. It argues that this leads to a disconnect between the council and the students, who are the primary beneficiaries of the university's actions.

The article calls for a referendum to be held to allow students to elect a representative body to the council. It argues that this would ensure that the council is more accountable and more responsive to the needs of the student body.

The McGill Daily newspaper has published a scathing critique of the McGill University Council. The article, titled 'The Council's Role in the University's Future', argues that the council is ineffective and should be replaced by a more representative body.

The article points out that the council is dominated by faculty members who are not directly involved in the day-to-day operations of the university. It argues that this leads to a disconnect between the council and the students, who are the primary beneficiaries of the university's actions.

The article calls for a referendum to be held to allow students to elect a representative body to the council. It argues that this would ensure that the council is more accountable and more responsive to the needs of the student body.

Students retreat to find themselves

Retreat delegates pondered by campus leadership

A group of students from various Dalhousie universities are participating in a leadership retreat. The retreat is designed to help the students explore their own leadership styles and develop a shared vision for the future of their universities.

The retreat is being held in a scenic location in Nova Scotia. The participants will be working together to address common challenges and opportunities facing the student body. They will be discussing topics such as communication, decision-making, and team-building.

The retreat is a great opportunity for the students to connect with each other and to learn from one another. It is a chance to step back from the pressures of daily life and to focus on the most important issues.

A group of students from various Dalhousie universities are participating in a leadership retreat. The retreat is designed to help the students explore their own leadership styles and develop a shared vision for the future of their universities.

The retreat is being held in a scenic location in Nova Scotia. The participants will be working together to address common challenges and opportunities facing the student body. They will be discussing topics such as communication, decision-making, and team-building.

The retreat is a great opportunity for the students to connect with each other and to learn from one another. It is a chance to step back from the pressures of daily life and to focus on the most important issues.

I was born at a very early age

Self-styled George Munroe

George Munroe, a young man with a unique perspective, has shared his thoughts on the student press and the role of the student body. In his article, 'I was born at a very early age', he discusses his experiences and his views on the current state of the student press.

Munroe argues that the student press is essential to the life of a university. It provides a platform for students to express their opinions and to hold the university administration accountable. He believes that the student press should be more independent and more representative of the student body.

Munroe also discusses the challenges that the student press faces. He points out that the press is often underfunded and that it is subject to censorship and interference from the university administration. He calls for more support and protection for the student press.

George Munroe, a young man with a unique perspective, has shared his thoughts on the student press and the role of the student body. In his article, 'I was born at a very early age', he discusses his experiences and his views on the current state of the student press.

Munroe argues that the student press is essential to the life of a university. It provides a platform for students to express their opinions and to hold the university administration accountable. He believes that the student press should be more independent and more representative of the student body.

Munroe also discusses the challenges that the student press faces. He points out that the press is often underfunded and that it is subject to censorship and interference from the university administration. He calls for more support and protection for the student press.

George Munroe, a young man with a unique perspective, has shared his thoughts on the student press and the role of the student body. In his article, 'I was born at a very early age', he discusses his experiences and his views on the current state of the student press.

Munroe argues that the student press is essential to the life of a university. It provides a platform for students to express their opinions and to hold the university administration accountable. He believes that the student press should be more independent and more representative of the student body.

Munroe also discusses the challenges that the student press faces. He points out that the press is often underfunded and that it is subject to censorship and interference from the university administration. He calls for more support and protection for the student press.

George Munroe, a young man with a unique perspective, has shared his thoughts on the student press and the role of the student body. In his article, 'I was born at a very early age', he discusses his experiences and his views on the current state of the student press.

Munroe argues that the student press is essential to the life of a university. It provides a platform for students to express their opinions and to hold the university administration accountable. He believes that the student press should be more independent and more representative of the student body.

Munroe also discusses the challenges that the student press faces. He points out that the press is often underfunded and that it is subject to censorship and interference from the university administration. He calls for more support and protection for the student press.