With a primitive yet ingeniously made tool, like an adze, in the construction of which a blade is tied fast to a bent handle of bone, these natives laboriously pick out the heart of a great cedar log, and shape its outer sices into the form of a boat. When the log is properly hollowed, they fill it with water, and then drop in stones which they have heated in a fire. Thus they steam the boat so that they may spread the sides and fit in the cross-bars which keep it strong and preserve its shape. These dugouts are sometimes sixty feet long, and are used for whaling and long voyages in rough seas. They are capable of carrying tons of the salmon or colachan or herring, of which these people, who live as their fathers did, catch sufficient in a few days for their maintenance throughout a whole year. Onegets an idea of the swarms of fish that infest those waters by the knowledge that before pets were used the herring and the colachan, or watelefish, were swept into these boats by sa amplement formed by studding a tenfoot pole with spikes or nails. This was swept among the fish in the water, and-she boats were speedily filled with the creatures that were impaled upon the spikes. Salmon, sea-otter, otter, beaver, marien, bear, and deer (or caribou or moose) were and still are the chief resources of most of the Indians. Once they sold the fish and the petry to the Hudson Bay Company, and ate what parts or surplus they did not rell. Now they work in the canneries or fish for them in summer, and hunt, trap, or loaf the rest of the time. However, while they still fish and sell furs, and while some are yet as their fathers were, nearly all the coast Indians are semi-civilized. They have at least the white man's clothes and hymns and vices. They have churches; they live in houses; they work in canneries. What little there was that was pictures; we also they are now a lot of longshoremen. What Mr

To prevent grease collecting in sink-pipes wash down the pipes every day with boiling hot water, which will melt the grease and carry it down to the sewer. If this does not entirely clear, then put some soda into the water and pour it slowly into the pipe boiling hot.

A close examination of the discriminating tariff which Newfoundland has declared against Canada shows that the duty is increased on pork, butter, tobacco, kerosene, cornmeal, hay, potatoes, turnips, cabbages and other vegetables. As the hay and vegetables must go from Canada it looks very much as if the Newfoundland Government has cut off its nose to spite its face. It's easy to see who will pay the duty in the case of Newfoundland.

easy to see who will pay the duty in the case of Newfoundland.

The McCarthyites have received a set back in Waterford, Ireland, by the election of Mr. John E Redmond, a Parnellite, over Mr. Michael Davitt by 1725 votes to 1229 a majority of 496. The result was due to the fact that three-fourths of the workingmen was the fact that the same thing will occur in Limerick and Dubjin at the general election, so that the Parnellites, instead of being annihilated in the great struggle now within measurable distance, will hold a few seats. But there is nothing in connection with the Waterford election to justify the belief that a vast majority of the Irish people will waver in their allegiance to the constitutional leaders. Mr. Redmond's election will encourage the Parnellites to continue the fight which most of them has begun to regard as hopeless, and the reconciliation for which the patriots had yearned has been perforce indefinitely deferred. As a party, the Parnellites, are in a far better position with regard to money, than their opponents. The majority of the Parnellites are financially well-to do, and only two or three of them receive anything from the party treasury. In the background at present stands Mrs. Catharine Parnell, widow of the late leader, nursing a fierce resentment, and prepared, if need be, to spend the bulk of her large fortune in punishing the men whom she regards as the murderers of her husband. Bearing in mind these facts, it is not difficult to understand the persistent refusal of the Parnellites to release and share the coordinate of the party of the Parnellites to release and share the coordinate of the Parnellites to release and share the coordinate of the Parnellites to release and share the coordinate of the Parnellites to release and share the coordinate of the Parnellites to release and share the coordinate of the party of the par not difficult to understand the persistent refusal of the Parnellites to release and shar the £40,000 locked up in Paris.

Deepest Lake in the World.

By far the deepest lake known in the world as Lake Baikal, in Siberia. It is in every way comparable with some of the great lakes of America, for, while its area is only 9,000 square miles, making it much that the state of the great lakes, and about the exact equal to Lake Erie in superficial extent, its enormous depth, 4,000 to 5,000 feet, make the total volume of its waters almost equal to those of Lake Superior. Its level is 1,350 feet above that of the Pacific Ocean, but, notwithstanding, its bottom is more than 3,000 feet below it. There are many other deep lakes in the world, but so far Baikal takes the palm. Lake Maggiore is 3,000 feet deep, Lake Como 2,000, and Lego-di-Garda, another Italian lake, nearly 1,900 feet in depth. Lake Constance averages about 1,000 feet, and Lakes Superior and Michigan fabout 800 feet.

Judgment has been rendered in favor of the St. Leon Mineral water Co. against one E. Masicotte. The defendant opened a business in Place d'Arms, Montreal, where he sold what he called the genuine St. Leon Water and so deceived many people. The case was instituted under the Fraudulent Marking of Merchandise Act. The trial was a long one. Numerous "experts" and "analysts" gave evidence which upheld the pretensions of the company. Judge Desnoyers found Masicotte guilty and condemned him to pay a fine or go to jail.
