For West Australian points it would be several days faster to travel by the older channels.

Speaking of the feelings of the Aus tralian people towards Canada, Mr. Hadrill said that the attitude was one of friendly jealousy. They often re-marked with a sort of a sad smile that they would like Canada to send the Commonwealth a few of her immigrants.

The country itself was a surprise to him in point of extent and productivity The fertile coast slones with their wonderful climatic range from north to south, produced a great variety of crops and fruits, and the extent of VICTIMS OF FIRE the cattle and sheep industries was amazing.
