Itching Skin

Distress by day and night—That's the complaint of those who are so unfortunate as to be afflicted with Eczema or Salt Rheum—and outward applications do not cure. They can't.

The source of the trouble is in the blood—make that pure and this scaling, burning, itching skin disease will disappear.

"I was taken with an itching on my arms which proved very disagreeable. I concluded it was salt rheum and bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. In two days after I began taking it I felt better and it was not long before I was cured. Have never had any skin disease since." Mrs. Ima S. Ward, Cove Point, Md.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures all eruptions.

One hundred miners were buried by an immense avalanche near the village of Prapeto, Italy, on Thursday last. A violent storm was sweeping over the locality and it was feared that other avalanches might come. A detachment of forty soldiers had gone to the scene hoping to save some of the buried miners.

The steamers of the Navigation company commenced their summer work on Monday, the Princess between Charlottetown and Pictou and the Northumberland between Summerside and Pointe-a-Chene, as on former season. The Minto and Stanley completed their winter work on Saturday. Up Hill today the Northumberland was not able to get into Pointe-a-Chene for ice.

JUDGE Wurtele, of the Court of Appeals, died in Montreal on Monday in his 70th year. He formerly represented Yarmaka, in the Quebec Legislature in the Conservative interests. He was a prominent political figure during the administration of Chapleau, Monseigneur and Ross, and held successively the office of Speaker and Provincial Treasurer before being appointed to a seat on the bench.

On Saturday afternoon last, Archibald Dunn, a fisherman for the lobster factory of Clow and Dunn, Murray Harbor North, was drowned while out setting traps. It appears he went out alone in his boat about three o'clock, and three hours afterwards, the boat, without its occupant, was found drifting about by James Condon. Search was made for the body where Dunn had been at work, and four traps were found, but no trace of the body.

THREE murderers were hanged in Chicago on Friday last. The crime for which they were executed was one of eight murders known to have been committed by them. They were known as the car-barn bandits from the locality where they committed the crimes. The leader of the gang, Peter Niddermeier was an avowed atheist; but he was completely unrepentant and had to be borne to the gallows on a chair. The two others kissed the cross and died without a tremor.

This business portion of Toronto was swept by fire on Tuesday night of last week. The fire started at eight o'clock in the premises of Currie & Co., neckwear manufacturers, Wellington Street West, on the north side. Spreading to the east it quickly communicated with a large building occupied by Fugley and Dingman Co., soap manufacturers and several other firms.

The soap and oils in the building proved to be great fuel for the flames, and in a few moments the building was vomiting flames which swept by the wind, ran across the roofs of the buildings to the north, to the east and to the west, and soon swept across street to buildings on the south side. The buildings from the Currie building to the east, clear to Bay Street were all destroyed. The fire swept all the north on west side of Bay Street almost as far as King, being checked only four doors below King from the west side of the Bay. The flames fastened on a number of buildings on the east side, and those occupying a small block from Wellington to Malinda Street were either burned or badly damaged. While efforts were being made to prevent the flames from reaching King St., they swept across the south side of Wellington Street east and away through Front St., and worked havoc there. Every engine and every man in the fire brigade by this time was at work, but the compact character of buildings and the inflammable nature of their contents, combined with a high wind, defied all efforts. Building after building caught and burned. There were many narrow escapes. From the Hendrie Carriage Co. building on Lyons Street near the Esplanade, 200 fine horses were taken out without injury, half an hour before the stables were burned down. Among buildings burned are Brook's big dry goods store, Warwick Bros, Copp Clark, Ltd., Gage Co., Eddy's warehouses, Kilgour's, Fairbanks Scales. The estimated total loss is fifteen millions. The area swept by the fire was fourteen acres. The buildings destroyed numbered one hundred and five. It is estimated that the number of persons thrown out of employment is six thousand.

News of the War.

London, April 25.—A despatch from St. Petersburg says it is reported that while five hundred Japanese were crossing the Yalu River on rafts they were attacked by Russians and all were killed. The Russian casualties were also heavy.

The despatch adds that the battleships Orel and Borodino were ready for trials when it was discovered that the Borodino's draft was twice as much as water, two more feet than will permit her to pass Cronstadt posts. The Shanghai correspondent says that spies informed the Russians at Kin Chan that Japanese warships conveying transports with thirty thousand troops were moving northward. According to the Daily Mail New Chung correspondent it is generally thought possible in naval and military circles that peaceful settlement for Eastern trouble can be reached through mediation.

St. Petersburg, April 22.—The Emperor has received the following telegram from Viceroy Alexieff bearing today's date: "I respectfully report to Your Majesty that today during the placing of mines by some steam launches, Lieut. Pall and twenty men were killed through a mine exploding prematurely on the stern of one of the launches."

St. Petersburg, April 22.—The following telegram from Viceroy Alexieff has been received by the Emperor: "Quite a series of reconnaissances have been made in the region of the Yalu. It is believed that the Japanese are concentrating in considerable force. It is believed that they have about one division to the west of Wiju. They are also beginning to concentrate troops in Wiju, from which place they have moved the Korean population."

Information has reached me that quantities of material, apparently parts of pontoon bridges, are being collected on the Island of Malakka. Our scouts have killed ten Japanese scouts, one of which appeared to be an officer. On our side at least our scouts executed daring reconnaissances by which it has been ascertained that there are only a few troops south of the River Ransok but that the Japanese there are occupied in preparing boats. A Russian detachment of two officers and 29 men proceeded either in three boats. The detachment was, however, discovered by the enemy and shots were exchanged, three of our riflemen were killed. Staff Captain Smeison and 11 riflemen were severely and Lieutenant Pashkin and four men slightly wounded. The detachment returned to our bank of the river under cover of two of our guns."
