

Great Cast Appears in "Three Weeks"

Noted Novelist Advised Twelve Studio Executives in Selecting the Leading Players.

Probably no motion picture cast ever before was selected with so much care as that of "Three Weeks," the Goldwyn studios' film version of Elinor Glyn's famous love story, showing Monday at the Nickel Theatre.

Mrs. Glyn herself came to the Goldwyn studios from London to assist in the filming of her novel, and collaborated with Alan Crosland, the director, in selecting the players.

First came the Queen—one of the most famous characters of modern fiction. She must be beautiful, dignified, mysterious, subtle, with a mixture of fierce Slavic passion, and the repression of a woman worn down by cruelty—but above all, a regal, commanding Queen.

Aileen Pringle, a little known screen actress then, was chosen for the role—not for any "commercial value" her name might carry—but because she was the living, breathing Queen as described by Mrs. Glyn in her novel. Then "Paul"—tall, handsome, blond, typically English—was to be chosen. The choice—Conrad Nagel, prominent screen leading man, selected not only because he fitted the physical requirements of the role, but because he is recognized also as one of the outstanding actors of the screen.

John Sainpolis, noted character actor, was signed as the dissolute, brutal, Balkan king, Stuart Holmes and Robert Cain, both finished film players, were cast as "Fetovitch" and "Fetchoff," the king's unscrupulous aides.

Mitchell Lewis, Dale Fuller and Nigel de Brullier were selected to play the native servants of the Queen, and lend their ability to minor but very difficult roles.

Claire de Lorez, noted screen beauty, was brought to Los Angeles from New York to play the part of Mitzi, wild, passionate gypsy girl who charms the King, and indirectly causes the death of the Queen.

H. Rover-Smith, for years a prominent stage actor of New York, was lured to the screen for the first time in "Three Weeks" and plays a relatively small part as Sir Charles, father of Paul.

HOME STUDY.

I bought a large white polar bear, and kept him in a shed; I wished to study Brin there, by love of nature led. "I'll study him," I said, "gadsook, I'll count his snowy hairs, and then some day I'll write a book, and shed new light on bears. The writer spends his life in snow, and doesn't care a hoot; that's all the people really know about this splendid brute." The bear, he yearned for polar seas and icebergs large and tall, and every night he jarred the breeze with dreary carterwaul. He loathed the trim abodes of men, abhorred the human odor, and longed to roam and howl again on some far Arctic shore. Then came the neighbors in a group; I heard the spokesman say: "You turn this Brin from his coop, and let him fade away. Night after night we hear him yell, too long his noise we've stood; and then he has a rancid smell that spoils the neighborhood. Your talk of study will not wash; if you must study things, get yourself a Hubbard squash, draw charts of that, by jings. Go get yourself a bale of hay, of that that study make; it will not rear around and Bray and keep the town awake. We've brought an ax, we've brought a gu, we've brought some TNT, to let your bear get out and run, and we count one, two, three!" The student who'd improve his mind and learn Dame Nature's curves should leave the habits of men behind, for neighbors have their nerves.

ENGLAND GALE SWEPT.

LONDON, Jan. 2. England is being swept to-day by a furious gale, the worst in thirty years. It began yesterday causing great havoc, and to-day it caused a further serious rise in the waters of the Thames Valley, where roads have been inundated and rendered impassable for miles around Windsor and Staines. It caused the suspension of flying at Croyden, the cancellation of some channel steamers, and the postponement of many events. Most of the south of England watering places are inundated, and at Folkestone a motor lorry was blown off the driveway into the sea, while at Portland a street car was blown off the track. The fishing fleet is tied up and the result is a shortage of fish and mounting prices.

QUEBEC, Jan. 2. Residents up and down the north and south shores of the St. Lawrence have been watching with great interest the antics of what they call the mystery ship which has been sailing a straight course down the centre of the channel toward the Gulf of St. Lawrence since Saturday afternoon with no living soul aboard. CANADA'S POTATO TRADE WILL BENEFIT.

OTTAWA, Jan. 2. That Canadian potato shippers will be materially assisted in their efforts to obtain a new market in England, Wales, Scotland, Irish Free State and Northern Ireland by the recent order of the Ulster Ministry of Agriculture imposing a ban on United States tubers following similar action by the British Government, is the opinion expressed here to-day by the Federal Department of Agriculture. Official circles look upon this step as one in the direction of development of trade within the Empire, although the embargo in each instance was placed for the purpose of preventing the introduction of the Colorado beetle or potato bug into the British Isles.

LONDON, Jan. 2. The portrait of Lady Astor, which has long proved a source of embarrassment because it hung on the stair case in the House of Commons, was finally taken down to-day. Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made in ounces about 5c.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 2 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and wholesome. -Four 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex in a 16 oz. bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. If desired, thus you make 16 ounces—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly relieves all inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma. Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing action on the membranes. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction, or money refunded. Applied Brakes in Time

Reports vary as to the distance the two trains were apart when they pulled upon a straight stretch which enabled the two engineers to see each other in time to apply the brakes. The official statement from the Company is that the two trains pulled up a mile and a half apart and later pulled up to each other so that the passengers were in no danger. Other reports say they were not more than 100 yards apart, and the story published by the Journal says thirty feet separated the trains when they were brought to a standstill.

Oldest Man in the World Seeks Young Wife

Lives on Bread and Still Works at 150. Constantinople, Dec. 17.—The oldest man in the world who celebrated his 150th birthday here recently, is seeking a young wife to-day. He insists that she be less than sixty-five, the age of his fifth mate.

Zorah Agrah, whose age is authenticated by a birth certificate and the testimony of a dozen old men who say he was old when they were boys, is a Kurd by birth. He remembers events in Constantinople of more than 120 years ago.

"I have always been too poor to eat much meat," he said, explaining his gerat age.

"I don't care for vegetables and fresh fruits, but I like dried peas and beans which have been well cooked. I adore raisins and fresh figs and I still stuff myself with them at every opportunity. I eat all the honey and raw sugar I can lay my hands on. I have always eaten about eight pounds of bread a day.

"I've never smoked or tasted alcohol or coffee. As I drink tea continually, I only take a sip of water once or twice a month."

Zorah has been a "hamal" or porter for more than 100 years. The "hamals" of Constantinople take the place of motor trucks and moving vans.

"I have had wives in great moderation," continued Zorah, as he sipped his red tea. "I took three at the same time when I was a young man. When these died I took another and several years ago I took a fifth. She is sixty-five now and too old for me, and I am now looking for a younger one."

A one-strap slipper of black satin is attractively embossed in steel beads. A twist of two-toned velvet trims a cylinder-shaped hat of black grosgrain. Fast Trains in Near Crash on the C.P.R.

STOPPED A SHORT DISTANCE APART.

OTTAWA, Dec. 26.—(By Canadian Press)—Pounding toward each other at a speed estimated at from 40 to 60 miles, both trying to make up lost time, two Canadian Pacific Railway passenger trains almost plunged into each other Wednesday morning between Carleton Place and Almonte, just west of Carleton Place, it became known here to-day with the suspension of Engineer E. Wood, of Ottawa, and Conductor Michael O'Connell, of Ottawa, whom it is alleged, failed to read train orders. Both were members of the crew of train No. 555, the Pembroke local. The other train involved was the fast Winnipeg train eastbound, due in Carleton Place at 9.30 regularly, carrying hundreds of passengers.
