DISPUTED VOTES.

Before the Speaker declared the amendment lost, Mr. Taylor, the Conservative whip, stated that Mr. Wood

(of Hamilton) had voted, although he was paired with Dr. Bergin. Major

Sutherland, the Government whip, replied that Dr. Bergin had canceled the pair. Mr. Taylor admitted that it had been canceled, but for one night only.

When asked if he desired to have his vote recorded, Mr. Wood replied,

KILLED BY A GOAT.

Attle Patrick McGrath Mortally Injured by Blumberg's Billy.

New York, Sept. 23 .- Patrick J. Mc-Grath, the 3-year-old son of John Mc-Grath, who lives on York avenue, New Brighton, S. I., died yesterday as the result of injuries which he received on Wednesday last by being bucked by Herman Blumberg's goat.

The boy is supposed to have teased the goat. The animal was seen to dash at him with lowered horns and buck him in the stomach. The child was knocked against a fence and his head injured. Blumberg was arrested.

GALT MAN'S INHERITANCE

Succeeds to General Lumsden's Estate

Through the Latter's Death. Galt. Ont., Sept. 24.-The Galt Reformer publishes from the Aberdeen Journal, of Scotland, an account of the death of Gen. Sir Harry Lumsden. eldest brother of John M. Lumsden,, of that town, which recently took place at Belhelvie, in that shire. The article also contains a history of the family, which shows it to be one of the most distinguished of Scotland. By the death of his brother, Mr. J. M. Lumsden becomes heir to the estate of Belhelvie, in Aberdeenshire, it being entailed. The Reformer has not learned whether Mr. Lumsden intends removing to Scotland to take possession of the estate, but it is sure should he so decide, that all the citizens will regret his departure. Since coming to Galt, Mr. Lumsden has taken an active interest in everything pertaining to the welfare of the town, and has always given his support to whatever tended to improve or develop unless the chair had authority to maintain order, the committee could not do business. "Keep your temper," some one called out, in a not very soothing voice, from the Government side. Mr. Foster's eye fell upon Dr. Lord and Lady Aberdeen in Huron Landerkin, who happened to be one of the members who were standing in front of the first row of Ministerial desks. The doctor was laughing, and the irate ex-Minister, with increasing temper, asked whether "this mob rule was to prevail." As an outcome of their discomfiture over the result, when the House went into committee of supply the leaders of the Opposition refused for a time to allow the Interior estimates to be passed until the Government should find a Minister of the Interior for the vacant portfolio.

Mr. Foster pointed out that no bad results had arisen from leaving this portfolio open for a few weeks. There was nothing extraordinary in it. 1884, when Sir Charles Tupper had been appointed High Commissioner, the portfolio of Railways in Sir John Macdonald's Government had been left vacant for more than ten months, including the whole of an important session of Parliament.

The House adjourned at 2:20 a.m. after it had been agreed to pass the remaining estimates at next sitting. The supplementary estimates will be down not later than Friday. BRANDING BUTTER AND CHEESE

AT STRATFORD. At 9 o'clock the City Council, with the Twenty-eighth Battalion Band, proceeded to the station and escorted their Excellencies through the principal streets to the skating rink, where the children of the public and separate schools, together with a large number of citizens, had assembled. The children rendered patriotic airs and Mayor Davidson presented an address on behalf of the city, to which his Excellency replied in suitable SEAFORTH'S RECEPTION. At Seaforth arrangements had been made for a reception, and when the train drew up at the station the yard was black with people. There are about 3,000 people in Seaforth, and it looked as if they were all there. The fine band of the Thirty-third Battalion played the National Anthem, and the crowd cheered as their Excellencies appeared, and, ascorted by Mayor W. M. Gray, Reeve B. B. Gunn, Capt Wilberforce, A.D.C., and Mr. Erskine Mr. Kloepfer (South Wellington) urged an immediate statement of the Government trade policy. The station at Goderich was crowded when the train arrived. At the northern end of the platform there was posted the Lucknow Band in white linen uniforms, and an escort composed of a fine-looking company of infantry, the Dungannon, or No. 9, Company of the Thirty-third Battalion. Their Excellencies were received by a large committee, headed by the mayor. The procession moved off to the exhibition grounds, several thousands following. Goderich was in festal array, and the procession passed under several very handsome arches to the fair grounds, where another arch tastefully made of evergreens and sheaves of wheat and Indian corn spanned the main gateway. The viceregal carriage was driven through the very large crowd which was already on the grounds, and upon the rac track to the space immediately in front of the grand stand. Lord and Lady Aberdeen inspected all the departments and were then presented with a civic address, followed by an address to Lady Aberdeen from the Irish people of Goderich. Lady Aberdeen replied graciously. Mary Evelyn Doyle, the pretty little 3-year-old daughter of Mr. J. Boyle, then presented her Excellency with a very pretty bouquet and lisped out her welcome. Both Lord and Lady Aberdeen kissed the little tot. A deputation of ladies of the King's Daughters, headed by Mrs. Whitely, Mrs. Dancey, and Miss Beaumont, then waited upon her Excellency and read her an address and presented her with a bouquet, Lady Aberdeen replied in happy terms.
