In the timber forest lumbermen are using tractors to pull down large trees. Felling that usually requires the services of several men with saws and axes can be accomplished in a few moments by the use of the tractor.

ONTARIO WOMEN WILL GIVE ORGANIZED SUPPORT OF O.T.A.

Mrs. May R. Thornley Tells of Proposed Provincial Federation.

WIDE REPRESENTATION

Every Ontario Organization Is Asked To Be Present at Meeting on April 24.

That the women of Canada intend to unite in a new organization to support the Ontario Temperance Act was announced by Mrs. May R. Thornley at yesterday afternoon's meeting of the local branch of the W. C. T. U. This new organization, which will be formed officially in Toronto on April 24, will represent all of the leading women's organizations of the province, including church organizations. And to the meeting in Toronto will go ten representatives from each of the leading provincial women's organizations. The afternoon session, at which officers of the new organization will be elected, will be followed by a mass meeting of women in the evening, which will be held largely for inspirational purposes, and at which Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton, president of the Federated Women's Societies of the United States, has been asked to speak.

The object of the new organization, whose name has not yet been chosen, will be to support the O. T. A. and to secure such amendments to that act as to make it an even stronger prohibition measure. Committees of interested women have been working on this new organization for some time. A large committee to discuss such an organization was called in Toronto about the middle of March, while a smaller committee met there as recently as April 3. Mrs. May R. Thornley of this city, who spoke about the new organization yesterday, has been a prominent worker in this connection and has been in attendance at the preliminary meetings in Toronto, called at the suggestion of the Provincial W. C. T. U.

Mass Meeting Here.

An interesting discussion followed Mrs. Thornley's talk, with the result that it was decided by the local branch of the W. C. T. U. to call a similar mass meeting of women in London, to which representatives from the various women's organizations would be invited. It is expected that other cities will fall in line.

"I personally hope to see the federated organization become a permanent one," declared Mrs. Thornley, "but in the meantime the desire is to show the strength of the women of the province and their united desire that not only should the O. T. A. be preserved, but that it should be made even stronger in the enforcement of a temperance policy. I believe we have in our new organization the support of the thinking women of the province."

Mrs. H. W. Paddell, the president, was in the chair for the meeting. It was decided that the prizes offered in the recent poster contest would be presented on the occasion of the oratory contest to be conducted by the W. C. T. U. in May. A further decision was to ask the winner of the oratory contest to take part in the program of the County W. C. T. U. convention, which is to take place in Stratford on June 25 and 26, at which Mrs. Emma Pugsley of Toronto, provincial W. C. T. U. president, is to be a speaker. The local W. C. T. U. also expects to secure Mrs. Pugsley as a speaker for the meeting of June 24. The Union has arranged to offer badges to members of the Local Temperance Legion who earn them.

Special Speakers. Special speakers yesterday afternoon were Miss Marjorie Morton, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., and Mrs. A. T. Edwards, both of whom were exceedingly interested in the proposed temperance organization.

Miss Morton was amazed, she said, that at this stage of the game Ontario should be considering another campaign on the prohibition question. She believed the people of the province were dealing too much in half measures by permitting even the manufacture of intoxicating liquors. As a strong argument in favor of the O. T. A., she pointed to the Y. W. C. A. on King street, which was formerly a hotel and the center of what was known as "Whiskey Row."

Mrs. A. T. Edwards took as the basis for her talk the life story of Queen Esther, who was the first woman to approach the seats of authority to make a request concerning law.

"Why should we women be afraid to do less?" she asked. "The O. T. A. is the best law that has been put on our statute books in our day. There are things to be said for and against it, but we haven't had it long enough for a fair trial. Do we have to have a revenue from liquor traffic to keep our Canadian people in office?"

Miss Cannell was another interesting speaker of the afternoon.

HALE STREET MOTHERS HOLD AN EGG SHOWER

Children of Shelter to Benefit—S. F. Lawrason Is Special Speaker.

An egg shower for the Children's Shelter, held last night in connection with the regular meeting of the Hale Street Mothers' Club, resulted in twenty dozen eggs for the children of that institution. The chief feature of the meeting was a travel talk by S. F. Lawrason, who gave an interesting account of his trip to Egypt. A nominating committee was appointed, including Mrs. Schaefer (convenor), Mrs. J. M. Morrison, Mrs. Talbot, Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Warner. Today will see the last sewing meeting of the season held at the home of Mrs. H. Steels, 76 Beattie avenue, when garments will be made for the Child Welfare Association. The program included vocal solos by Mrs. Rush and Master Tommy Hoskin and readings by Miss Gladys French, the latter two winners of gold medals in the recent contest at the Hale Street Church.

Deplores Airing Family Skeletons in Public

If You Must Have Family Spats, Don't Embarrass Your Friends by Staging the Bout in Public—Quarrel's Place Is in Home.

This is a sad world, mates, with too little sunshine in it, so far be it from me to abridge, abate or curtail any innocent pleasure. But it does seem to me that there are certain diversions that should be indulged in only in the privacy of home.

One of these is the family spat. Apparently a large number of men and women get married for the sole purpose of providing themselves with a sporting partner, with whom they can put on the gloves at a moment's notice with, or without, the slightest provocation. Life has no dull moments for them, because they are always saying something that draws blood, or framing a retort that will cut to the quick, and the excitement of a battle to the death is perpetually thrilling their nerves.

Without doubt, it is a merry and adventurous existence for the doughty domestic warriors who enjoy that kind of thing! I would not be cruel enough to deny them the chery pastime of going to the mat over every trivial difference of opinion. But I do contend that conjugal quarrels are an indoor sport that should be pursued only when the participants have sought the seclusion of the cabin grantees, as they used to say in "Pinafore," and when all the shades have been pulled down and the keyholes stuffed with cotton.

Possibly the lack of an audience might take off a little of the edge of the bout for the battling husband and spouse; but, oh, how immeasurably it would add to the comfort and happiness of those of us who are the innocent bystanders, and who are forced to look on, sick with horror at these encounters!

In all good truth I know of no other situation so miserable and so embarrassing as to be called upon to referee a fight between a married couple. Their quarrel is, to begin with, a matter with which we have no concern; one in which we do not desire to meddle; one in which we ardently wish to take neither side. It makes us feel like cowards to keep silent while a man hurls deadly insults at his wife, and we writhe in vicarious shame while a woman vituperates her husband.

We have the sense of having assisted in an indecent orgy when a husband and wife strip every ray of reserve away from their relationship and fling open the doors of their skeleton closets and rattle their bones in public. Nor are we consoled by the knowledge that the people who make public exhibitions of their tempers must enjoy doing so or else they would not do it.

Yet we all number our friends husbands and wives, otherwise estimable and charming individuals, who always stage their fights in the most conspicuous place they can find, and who seem to prefer an audience to privacy.

When you meet them for an evening's diversion they are having a preliminary set-to. Perhaps the husband has come home late from the office, or has forgotten to mail a letter, or possibly the wife has kept her husband waiting while she did her hair over the second time. During the selection of the dinner they get warmed up to the work and put in some punches with real steam behind them. They clinch, and bite, and gouge over the selection of a play, and they reach for each other's vital spots and get in dirty jabs at the supper dance that follows the play.

Doubtless the fighters are enjoying themselves but a pleasant time is not being had by all. The blashed onlookers know not what to do. They do not know whether to rush in and make it a free-for-all fight or to try to mediate between the warring couple, or whether to pretend to have been suddenly stricken deaf, dumb and blind. And they wind up by feeling outraged that they should have been placed in such a mortifying position, and wishing heartily that husbands and wives could keep their quarrels for home consumption and not inflict them on their friends.

The same strictures apply to the woman who henpecks her husband. That also should be one of the quiet home joys that should be strictly confined to the domestic circle.

I raise no voice of protest against the woman who has wit and strength and determination enough to oust her husband out of his position as head of the house and assume it herself. It is a matter between the husband and wife, and if he hasn't enough spunk to fight for his rights he deserves to lose them.

But why cannot the bossy women be content with exercising their tyranny quietly and unobtrusively? Why do they insist upon rattling the chains by which they lead their husbands until they call public attention to them?

Think of the women you know who always say "MY house," "MY car," "MY children." Who always walk ahead of their husbands and point out a seat, and say: "John, sit there," and who always tell John where to get on and where to get off! And think how all the rest of us are embarrassed for poor John!

Believe me, dirty linen should be washed at home, and family quarrels staged there. That is one of the main things for which homes are designed.

HANDLES 36 JUVENILES IN LAST THREE MONTHS

Juvenile Court Explained to the Empress Avenue Mothers by Major Bradshaw.

Thirty-six juveniles have been dealt with in the juvenile court during the past three months, ranging in ages from eight to fifteen years, according to Major J. W. Bradshaw, probation officer, who addressed the members of the Empress Avenue Mothers' Club at the regular meeting held last night in the school. The president, Mrs. Bryant, was in the chair.

Of these thirty-six children, eleven have been made the wards of the court, and twenty-two are out on probation. The remainder have been dealt with and then dismissed, said the speaker. Major Bradshaw's talk, which dealt entirely with the workings of the juvenile court in London, was exceedingly enlightening.

Principal Rex Fowler, of the school, spoke briefly following Major Bradshaw, after which a very fine program was given, including vocal numbers by Miss Adeline Thompson, accompanied by Frank Humphries, violin numbers of Gordon Guymer, accompanied by Miss Hazel Taylor, and readings by Miss Jean Coleman. The club is arranging a shower of eggs for the public homes, to be held on April 17. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

Your doctor advises internal cleanliness

HE will tell you that the first results of constipation—headache, sleepless nights, biliousness, backache, etc.—warn that the body is flooded with intestinal poisons. In time, these poisons may cause the breakdown of health and lead to serious disease. In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Hence, doctors urge internal cleanliness—regular and thorough removal of food waste from the body.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Why Physicians Favor Lubrication Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Not a Medicine

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water it is harmless.

Get rid of constipation and avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

DR. F. W. LUNEY URGES VACCINATION IN TALK

Gives History of Protection From Smallpox by This Method, at School.

Vaccination was the subject of an address delivered by Dr. F. W. Luney last evening at the regular meeting of Wortley Road Mothers' Club, which proved of great interest to the members. Dr. Luney urged everyone to be vaccinated and not to take the risk of catching smallpox.

The speaker stated that it was towards the end of the eighteenth century that it was discovered that persons who were infected with cowpox were immune to smallpox.

"The death rate up until that time was thirty out of every hundred," he stated, "and since the discovery of vaccination, smallpox, until recently, has been of a less virulent type, and the death rate has been much lower, accordingly."

"During the last five years, however," he continued, "the cases have been so severe that every one is urged to be vaccinated."

He explained that vaccine was obtained under most sanitary conditions, that each tube is guaranteed to contain no foreign bacteria, and that protection from smallpox was guaranteed for seven years after vaccination.

Following the address a lively discussion on the subject took place and the mothers asked the speaker many questions concerning vaccination.

During the business session, which was in charge of Mrs. William S. Lowe, the president, reports of the relief committee showed that splendid work was being carried on. Arrangements were made for an egg shower, to be held Monday, April 14, and the eggs received will be divided among the needy families and school children. Mrs. Calder will preside at the next meeting, at which the election of officers will take place.

An enjoyable program was presented, including readings by Irene Denon, instrumental numbers by Fred Blackledge, and selections by the Chrysos Orchestra. Dainty refreshments were served later.

THE QUALITY OF BULK TEA.

The quality of Bulk Tea is always unreliable for several reasons. In the first place, being unlabelled its origin is unknown and there is no one who has any particular responsibility for its goodness. In the second place, it is exposed to the air and therefore very quickly loses its flavor and freshness. Even if it were as good as "SALADA" in the first place, it would rapidly deteriorate and in any case it would be impossible for any dealer to follow consistently the same quality throughout the year. "SALADA" always maintains an unvarying high standard, possible through skillful blending.—Adv't.

REFUSE TO GIVE FREE RADIO CONCERTS.

A number of French musicians, singers and instrumentalists, after several months of co-operation with the broadcasting station in Eiffel Tower, have decided that they will no longer permit their music to be broadcasted without payment. The Paris Orchestra now refuses flatly to allow its concerts to be broadcasted, and the Syndicate of Musicians have both instructed their singers and instrumentalists not to allow the broadcasters to transmit their efforts. Part of the difficulty is understood to have been occasioned by the fact that various restaurants and dance halls in Paris have discharged their musicians and instead have installed radio receivers.
