WISE AND OTHERWISE.

A young composer has just written for a soprano voice a beautiful song, entitled "Would That I Were Young Again." It has been so much time wasted. The woman can't be found who will sing it.—Tid-Bits.

Aunt Mandy (at concert)—Now, what's the next thing to be done? Uncle Josiah—They're going to sing "For a Thousand Years." Aunt Mandy—For the land sake, Josiah, you'd better sell the tickets, or telegraph the children what's keepin' us.—Chicago Tribune.

"What are ye looking in de dictionary for?" asked the messenger boy. "I'm looking for the word 'perambulate." "Why, dat means somethin' like plain walk." "Yep; but it sounds slower, an' I t'ought maybe I ort ter have it in me business."—Washington Star.

"My son," said the eminent financier, "you might as well understand at the start that you cannot have your cake and eat it at the same time." "But, dad," asked the young one, "what's the matter with keepin' my own cake and eatin' the other feller's?"—Indianapolis

My Wife's Brother. My wife's brother's been vis'tin' us,
An' he's th' excit'nest little cuss
At ever drawed the breath of life
Er whittled my desk with a big jackknife. Fust day he kim he tuk the cat An' hitched 'er to my ol' silk hat; He bored a hole right thro' the brim To make a horse an' cart fer him.

When he got out, fust thing he did,"
He licked our next door neighbor's kid;
An' bled his nose an' blacked his eyes—
An' then I had ter 'pologize.

Nex' day et rained. He tuk his ball An' played a game in our front hall; He used the hat rack fur first base An' smashed the hall clock in the face.

Then, yesterday, he went ter play, An' first we knowed, he runned away; A p'liceman found 'im after dark Up with the monkeys in the park.

For seven days he's been our guest, An' cach day's been the excitin'est; To-morrow he's a-goin' hum, An' nex' time—we won't hev no room!

To be generous in praising another's good qualities is praiseworthy, and it is to be hoped that no one will be rendered less generous by a story like the following, berrowed from Good News:

An Irishman who as working on a new railway said one day to the fore-

We have believed in higher prices abroad, and as we read the situation there higher prices look certain. With the Northwest crop cut short 30 p.c., as the best and most reliable authority say they will, we may see the old-fashioned prices before the end of August. Wheat at about 61c for September is low when all the conditions and contingencies are taken into account. Oats opened off and have ruled more or less easy to weak all the morning. Receiving houses were sellers, and those who have been considered as manipulating the market in the interest of Eastern parties were open sellers, but were buying through brokers. Cash oats in the sample crowd were in fair supply and weak. The demand seemed to let up all at once. Receipts are increasing.
