SCHOLARS IN CHINA.

They Rule the Country Where All Fereigners Are Called Boers. The scholars rule China today. Dress is of more moment there than in any other country, yet the scholar, al-though poor and meanly dressed, is received with honor by the highest in the land. "The superior man" of the classics is the equivalent of the "good man" with us. This man, his character and his conduct are the constant theme of approbation. His virtue, his honor, his social relations, his manners in public and private, are carefully defined. His dignity is among his high-est qualities and must be maintained at any cost. In contradiction to the popular idea of dignity, however, the superior man will play battledore and shuttlecock with his feet and fly kites, while the boys, like old men, stand sedately by and look on. This he does as a method of instruction and to show the children how the superior man can relax when his high purpose is to entertain and educate the young. To the Chinese the foreigner is a boor and a barbarian. It seems a hopeless task to teach him politeness. The Chinese wonders why the foreigner leaves his own country at all. Is it too small for him to make his living, or has he come to observe the su-perior people? If so he is to be commended. But; alas, what a boor he is! -National Geographic Magazine.

An Oversight.

Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, the famous theatrical manager, was present at a supper in London a short time ago where Signor Grasso was an honored and much feted guest. When the banquet was over and every one was departing, Grasso was so con-fused and carried away by the attentions and embraces which had been showered upon him that he thoughtessly directed his taxi driver to drive him to the stage door of the theater at which he was playing. "What on earth does he want to go back to the theater for at this time of the night?" asked one of those who were waving him adieu. "Ah," said Sir Herbert Tree, "I expect he has forgotten to kiss the fire-

THE PEOPLE WE LIVE WITH. Keeping on Amicable Terms With

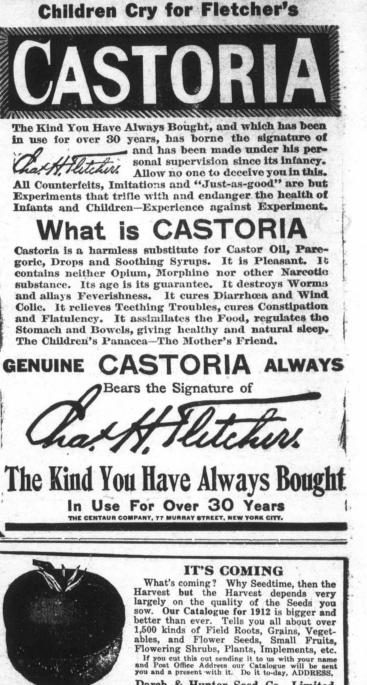

Relatives Should Be Cultivated. Getting along with relatives, accord-ing to a writer who sees things as they are and not as they ought to be, but who simply because of that can-not be termed a cynic in any sense of the term, is an art. The first rule to observe, if you would remain on friendly terms with your relations is, cut out sensitiveness. If anyone's ten-dency toward "thin skin" is to dis-turb the family peace, let it not be yours. Write down in large capital letters and stick up on your looking-glass where you can see it two or three times a day the motto: Never mind! Getting along with relatives, accordmind!

It is well to recall also the fact that It is well to recall also the fact that there are some subjects that cannot possibly be argued with safety with some people. We all have our mule opinions. There are subjects at which each of us lay back our ears, plant our feet and balk. These are to be avoided. With grandfather it must be the

The burning of the great Equitable Life Building in New York with the loss of six lives and the destruction of property, money and securities to an extent as yet unknown, is another reminder of the fact that there is practically no such thing as a fre-proof building. There are buildings to which fire will not communicate from the outside when proper care is taken as to keeping shut the fireproof doors and windows, but any building which is used for residence or business purposes under modern conditions has enough combustible material inside of it to burn it when a fire once gets sufficiently well started. This has been proven often enough before, but the destruction of the Equitable Life Building in New York is another reminder.

pales. The pain was so great at times I would almost scream. "I lost weight and had no appetite. I tried everything I ever heard of for piles, as I was willing to take anything to get relief. It was useless, however, and I almost gave up in despair. "One day a friend gave me a sample of Zam-Buk and told me of a friend of his who had been cured. I decided to try Zam-Buk, and the relief I got was en-couraging. I used three boxes, and at the end of that time I was completely cured. I wish I could have got Zam-Buk years ago; it would have saved me a great deal of misery." Zam-Buk will also be found a sure cure for cold sores chapped hands, frost bite, alcers, blood-poison, varicose sores, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises, and skin injuries generally. develop a system of octaves, a circle of fifths and a lot of other harmonical technics, and these back in the days when our ancestors had not even evolved the simplest forms of melody. Whether or not we shall finally arrive at an understanding of and a liking for something that shall ap-proach the "harmonious discords" of the Chinese, close observers claim to have discovered among the musicians and lovers of music a steadily in-creasing sensitiveness to harmonies creasing sensitiveness to harmonies the existence of which was formerly unknown. Subtle harmonies of to-day, it is added, are understood, which, 40 or 50 years ago even, would have been deemed incomprehensible. At any rate, the musicians have grown bolder and bolder in doing the things that used to be forbidden.
