of Evidence complete.— Blood-Stains and orther convincing Proof of Guilt.

The trial of Peter Wheeler, charged with the murder of Annie Kempton, began Friday morning at 10 o'clock, before Mr. Justice Townshend. Harrington, Q.C., Wickwire and Copp appeared for the crown, and Ruggles of Annapolis and Robertson of Kentville for the prisoner. W. B. Wallace, of Halifax, was appointed by the court official strenographer.

A jury was obtained without much difficulty, only a few on the panel being challenged. The jury selected are: David North, foreman; Nathan Eaton, Charles McGregor, Mansfield Nichols, James Brown, Robert Hamilton, Charles Newcomb, William Hardwick, J. C. Healy, George Webster, John Donaldson and William Mortimer.

The court house was filled with people, many not being able to obtain admittance. Mr. Wickwire opened the case for the crown. He commented on the evidence adducted at the preliminary examination and intimated that some new and damaging evidence would be given by certain witnesses against the prisoner.

Omer Rice was the first witness examined. He detailed the finding of the body of Annie Kempton and the tracks on the snow. His direct examination had not concluded when the court took recess at one o'clock. Nothing specially new was elicited from him.

The prisoner manifested a great deal of attention as Mr. Wickwire referred to the new evidence to be produced. Subsequently, as the evidence of Mr. Rice was given, he seemed quite unconcerned.

His lordship cautioned the jury as to their as the evidence of Mr. Note was given seemed quite unconcerned.

His lordship cautioned the jury as to their adhering to the rules in criminal cases. He stated that he proposed to sit until six o'clock this evening. Recess was then taken for an

HE FOUND SHE WAS DEAD.

He threw his coat over her and went over and told Mr. Rice. The deposition went on to state that Annie Kempton told him Grace Morine was going to stay with her that night, so there was no need of Tilly Comeau coming. It also referred to the accused seeing three men pass the house about 2 o'clock the night of the murder, and that in the evening he saw a man coming from under a well near Crabb's house.

The cross-examination by C. S. Harrington did not elicit any new evidence of a startling nature. HE FOUND SHE WAS DEAD.

The evidence of Dr. Ellison was mainly of a technical nature.
Edwin Parker called, said he was a land surveyor. Examined by C. S. Harrington, said, in company with Mr. Rice, he went out around the house and took measurements of footprints between the house and pig pen, and next day they found more tracks across the road, supposing them to be those of Wheeler when he left Kempton's barn. Asked by counsel if he found any rabbit snares, he replied: "No." This probably would be due to the snow that had fallen which might have covered them up.
The court room was crowded again Saturday morning on the trial being resumed and large numbers were unable to gain admission.
Herbin Parker was the first witness called Herbin Parker was the first witness called the detective. He was also one of the first to view the body.

Louis Jeremy, an Indian, was then sworn. He gave a description of the position of the body when he saw it. This witness said Wheeler told him when he first saw the body that it was face down, with the forehead on the floor, she resting on her hands and knees, which differed very materially from what which differed very institution with witness saw.

Detective Power, on being sworn, stated that he was sent by the attorney general to investigate the case. On arrival he proceeded at once to the Kempton house with Mr.

Rangles began a severe cross examination of Sadde Morine, but her testimony was not shaken.

Alice Morine, 15 years of age, sister of the former witness, was next examined and corroborated Sadie's testimony.

Grace Morine then took the stand and at stated that Annie Kempton was a great friend of hers. Witness asked her to go to the post office, but she refused. Witness never stayed with her at night time, and she never saw her alive after that afternoon.

Herbert Comeau, son of Matida Comeau, was next called, and said that Peter Wheeler lived in the same house with him. He was Ruggles began a severe cross examination of Sadie Morine, but her testimony was not him to be careful what he said. Witness and Wheeler frequently had conversations about women. Witness and prisoner had some difficulty over money matters and prisoner sued for $2 and got judgment. Herbert Parker, on taking the stand, said that he and the prisoner had a conversation about Annie Kempton. His evidence was very damaging to Wheeler's character, he having made boasts to witness similar to those made to Rice. those made to Rice. Charles Rice and Estelle Rice, father and followed the proceedings closely. The prisoner looked clean and fresh and wore the same cunning smile that has graced his face all along. He pays the greatest attention to the testimony of the witnesses, but does not appear to realize the position he is in.

The first witness called to the stand was Tillie Comeau, the woman with whom Wheeler lived at Bear River. She said the prisoner had lived at her place for over eleven years. Her evidence agreed practically with her previous stories. On cross examination she said all the doors of her house were fastened on the night of the murder and it would have been impossible for Peter to have gone out without her hearing him. At 3 o'clock on the morning of the murder, Peter told witness he heard some person outside of the house.

Hattie Comeau, daughter of Tillie, was then sworn and her testimony corroborated that of her mother's.

John Brooks, an Indian, who lives on the opposite side of the river from the Kempton house, on being called to the stand stated that he saw a clear, steady light in the Kempton house on the night of the murder. It was dark and the light was burning bright up to 10 p.m. At 2 o'clock he saw the light there and about daylight, it becoming very dim then.

at school on the day of the murder, and after returning home he started out to cut wood. When witness was trimming the trees he saw the prisoner coming from the direction of the Kempton house. Peter said he had been out to Omer Rice's and he helped witness to pile wood on the sled. Witness distinctly heard the 5 o'clock bell ring when Peter came along. At the inquest after the murder had been commtted Peter sent for witness and asked him if he had given his testimony, and witness said yes.

Witness said the hour was 6 o'clock, and Peter said, "You have condemned me. Won't you say it was 4.30 when you saw me! Id on to think it would hurt you to tell a little lie to get me out of this trouble."

The prisonerhere became very muchflushed and shifted uneasily about his seat, at times hiding his face from the view of the court. The witness was cross examined by Mr. Ruggles, and he said that Peter often brought rabbits and partridges home. Witness din tot see how Peter carried the game, but had on the same coat all the time. Witness said Peter was out the evening of the murder, but he came back with Hardy Benson before he (witness) went to bed. Witness heard his mother telling Wheeler to go for milk in the morning. Witness slept quite near Peter's room, and if he had gone out that night he would have propably heard him.

200 lbs. He is strongly built, good style and fine proportion, with exceedingly fine disposition. He is an extra fine readster, and can show a 2.40 clip on the road any day. Almont is sired by the famous Hernando, 2891. Hernando's veins are filled with stout and speedy blood of the golden Hambletonian Clay Mambrino Chief combination. Hernando, than whom few horses stand higher in equine fame in the maritime provinces, is a son of the great Almont, 33, well-known as one of the greatest progenitors of speed both in the first and succeeding generations.

In Almont's roll of honor are to be found such great performers as Fanny Witherspeon, 3.16; Fledmont, 2.17; the stable companion of the great Electionepr, on Palo Alto farm, California; Col. Almont's Dame Lulu, full sister to Nellie T., trial in 2.27, by the celebrated Allright, who has such performers as Black Pilot, 2.40; and many others in the list with faster records. Lulu was a prize-winner and one of the finest daughters of the greatest speed-producing sires in the Maritime Provinces.
