Amherst's Winter Fair

The Maritime Winter Fair at Amherst was opened by Earl Grey. His Excellency was accompanied by Lord Lascelles. The governor-general in his opening address praised the farmers as the backbone of the country and advised the people to stay on the farm. There were 5,000 people present. The Fair was a splendid one. In the poultry-department alone there were over 1,000 entries. There is also an increase in the dairy and short horn classes of cattle. At six o'clock the governor-general was banqueted. Governor Fraser, of Nova Scotia, and Premier Murray, Hon. Sydney Fisher, Governor McKinnon, of P. E. Island, and many other leading men sat down.

Joker's Corner

DIVERSIONS OF THE RE-ECHO CLUB

At the second meeting of the Re-echo Club, some of whose proceedings have already been chronicled, the question arose whether the poet was at his best who gave to the world the classic poem about The Little Girl:

"There was a little girl
And she had a little curl
Right in the middle of her forehead,
And when she was good,
She was very, very good,
And when she was bad she was horrid
Some members held that poets had at times risen to sublimer poetic flights, than this, while others contended that the clear-cut decision of thought it expressed placed the poem above more elaborate works.

When those who criticized it were invited themselves to treat the same theme in more worthy fashion they willingly enough agreed, and the results here subjoined were spread upon the minutes of the club.

With a lady-like air of reserve tempered by self-respect, Mrs. Felicia Hemans presented her version:

The Marcel waves dash'd high
Where the puffs and frizzles crossed;
And just above a roquish eye
A little curl was tossed
And that little curl hung down
O'er a brow like a holy saint;
Her goodness was beyond renown,
And yet—there was a taint.
But that Little Girl just gloried
The temper that she had;
Ay, call it deadly sin,
Freedom to be real bad!

Then Mr. Stevenson went out into his own garden and plucked this:

In winter I go up at night
And curl that curl by candle-light;
In summer quite the other way
I have to curl it twice a day.
When I am good, I seem to be
As good as peaches on the tree;
But when I'm bad I've awful ways
I'm horrid, everybody says.
And does it not seem hard to you
I have to choose between the two?
When I'm not happy, good and glad,
I have to be so awful bad!

Mr. Kipling took a real interest in the work and produced the following:

"What is the gas-stove going for?"
Asked Files-On-Parade.
"To curl my hair, to curl my hair,"
His Little Sister said.
"What makes you curl so tight, so tight?"
Asked Files-On-Parade.

"I'm thinkin' 'twill be damp tonight,"
His Little Sister said.
"For you know that when I'm good,
I'm just as good as I can be,
And when I'm bad, there's nobody
can be as bad as me."
I'm thinkin' I'll be horrid in the night,
because you see,
I'm thinkin' I'll be horrid in the mornin'."

—Carolyn Wells, in Harper's Magazine for December.

A lady was very solicitous about her health. Every trifle made her uneasy and the doctor was called immediately.

The doctor was a skillful man and consequently had a large practise. It was very disagreeable to him to be so often called away from his other cases for nothing, and he resolved to take an opportunity of letting the lady see this. One day the lady observed a red spot on her hand and at once sent for the doctor. He came, looked at her hand and said:

"You did well to send for me early." The lady looked alarmed and asked: "Is it dangerous, then?"

"Certainly not," replied the doctor. "Tomorrow the spot would have disappeared, and I should have lost my fee for this visit."

A LOGICAL DEDUCTION
The tailor whose philosophy is recorded in Tit-Bits gave voice to a conclusion compounded equally of humor and wisdom.

"Mr. P., how is it you have not called on me for your account?"

"Indeed! How, then, do you get on money?"

"Oh, I never ask a gentleman for if he doesn't pay?"

"Why, after a certain time I conclude he is not a gentleman, and then I ask him."

A minister's little daughter was visiting a family in a parish which her father had recently left. One day she explained to her hostess that he hoped the people of the church would not send for him to conduct funerals, but would have the present pastor of the church. Thinking she might have given offense, she looked up with a bright smile and added: "But, of course, he would be very glad to attend your funeral."

"Pat," said his young wife, "I wish you wouldn't put your knife in your mouth when you eat."

"An phwere would yez hev me put it," said Pat in astonishment, "in me eyes?"

A CHRISTMAS QUESTION

What can you give for Christmas? It is not the gift that is bought, but the love that goes with the giving.

The remembrance and the thought, that fills the life with gladness, and eyes with happy tears, that warms the coldest winter.

Of the heart along the years, what can you give for Christmas? Just keep your tired hands still, for a gift that is wearisome doing its message does not fulfil;

But a simple memory token, of love you can always send, that will breathe a silent greeting, from the heart of friend to friend.
