

NOTES ON PROPRIETARY REMEDIES.

PUBERTY.

At this time the administration of a proper remedy can go a long way toward establishing normal functioning of the reproductive system of girls approaching maturity. Hayden's Viburnum Compound exerts a beneficial influence upon the nervous and reproductive system, and if administered just prior to the initial catamenia, its antispasmodic and tonic action will be found of particular advantage.

TREATMENT OF AMENORRHOEA.

When the suppression of the menses is caused by such constitutional diseases as pulmonary tuberculosis, and the regular menstrual period is overdue, it is seldom possible to effect its return before the next period. But if the suppression is acute and the result of taking a cold, worry, fright, grief or mental shock, the flow can be promptly brought on by the administration of ergoapiol (Smith).

In the former variety, ergoapiol (Smith) should be administered for ten days in advance of the regular date of the flow. For the first seven days one capsule should be given three times daily, after which the dose is to be increased to two capsules four times daily until the appearance of the flow. As soon as the flow has started the dose is again reduced to one capsule three times daily and its use continued until the period has been passed. In the second variety, viz., acute suppression, ergoapiol (Smith) is administered at once in doses of two capsules four times a day until menstruation is observed, when the dose is reduced to one capsule three times a day and continued until the flow has ceased.

Ergoapiol (Smith) produces the most remarkable emmenagogue effect without the slightest untoward action. Through the tonic influence of the remedy upon the uterus and its appendages, vitality is rapidly restored to these parts, their functional activity is improved and disordered conditions are promptly corrected.

Every physician is acquainted with the dangers attending the use of the majority of drugs capable of
