FREDERICTON NOTES

Fredericton, N. B., Oct. 10.—Dr. Lafleur, of Montreal, reached the city yesterday morning and left again last evening for home. He came to consult with Dr. Atherton on the case of F. I. Morrison, who has been a sufferer for a long time past from nervous indigestion.

FIND SUNKEN SCHOONER

Beaufort, N. C., Oct. 10.—An unknown schooner has mysteriously sunk in four feet of water due west of the Diamond Shoal lightship. Just when the vessel went down is not known, but it must have been some time last night, as it was not until this morning that the lightship crew described topmasts standing out of the water. Nowhere was there visible any sign of the crew of the four-decked schooner, and not yet has there been any word to indicate their fate.

SCOLDED, SHE SUICIDES

Portland, Me., Oct. 10.—Early this morning, Mrs. Cora Burgess, of South Portland, wife of John O. Burgess, a milk dealer, committed suicide by hanging because her husband had scolded her. According to the story told by Medical Examiner Lombard, Mrs. Burgess had suspected her husband of keeping company with another woman and before he started out

NO INDIGESTION OR SICK STOMACH

Hearburn, Gas, Headache and Dyspepsia go and You Feel Fine in Five Minutes

Take your sour, out-of-order stomach — or maybe you call it indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter — take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 30-cent case of Pepsin Diarrhea and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation — food souring. The Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice, your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, general fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, gas, biliousness, sleeplessness, belching of gas, hiccups, headache, nervousness, dizziness or many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is failing, and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, if you feel like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause — indigestion of the stomach.

Prove to yourself in five minutes that your stomach is good as any that there is nothing really wrong. Simply ferment like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause — indigestion of the stomach.

CLOSING OF THE CONVENTION OF THE KING'S DAUGHTERS

The annual maritime convention of the King's Daughters was brought to a close yesterday afternoon when a special devotion and consecration service was held in St. David's church. The meeting was addressed by Rev. A. A. Graham, who welcomed the delegates to the church. He spoke of the good work being done by this order and also that of other similar organizations. The Christian work carried on by these organizations, he said, was most helpful to the church in its work. Speaking of the church work now being carried on, Mr. Graham said that fifty years ago the church paid too much attention to the preparation of the soul for death. Today it pays more attention to the preparation of the individual for the duties of life.

In a few remarks Miss Brown thanked all present for their good work and the help given in this convention. She urged them all to greater work in the new year and hoped that with the help of this convention and the discussions entered upon that it would make the way easier for the workers.

Miss Thorne, recording secretary, followed Miss Brown in a short address, and also spoke of the work to be done in the next year, and hoped for good reports at the next convention.

Saturday evening a social was given to the delegates and workers in the gymnasium. Short addresses were given by the officers and reports submitted by the committees.

TRIED TO WRECK TRAIN

Milo, Me., Oct. 9.—What is believed to have been an attempt to wreck a train on the Bangor and Aroostook Railroad by dynamite was investigated today by the officials of the road without definite result, except to locate a bag of half dozen sticks which Frank Tibbets, of this place, claims to have found on the track last night.

Tibbets was on his way to drive the cow home when on walking down the track toward Milo Junction he found a canvas bag lying between the rails. Reaching in he pulled out a stick which he recognized as dynamite. He hurried up the track to the crossing where he found Oren J. Lyford, the tinsmith, nearby. Tibbets took the stick back to his home and hid it in a box.

MURDER TRIAL NOV. 3

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 9.—James Mantir, a Greek butcher, of Manchester (N. H.), and Peter Delaney, a Somerville butcher, formerly of Antrim (N. S.), who were indicted on the charge of the murder of Ann Mullins, of St. John's (Nfld.), in Arlington, on March 27, 1898, will be brought before a jury for trial on Nov. 3, according to an announcement made tonight by District Attorney J. J. Higgins. The men were arrested last March, nearly a year after the commission of the crime.

CARNEGIE'S GIFT TO MCGILL

Montreal, Oct. 10.—It was learned tonight that Andrew Carnegie has made a donation of $100,000 to the general fund of McGill University.

A year ago an appeal was made by Principal Peterson, who stated that unless $200,000 could be raised the university would lose prestige, owing to inability to pay sufficient salaries to keep its best professors. Since then about $225,000 has been raised, while Lord Strathcona gave $500,000 for the medical faculty.

It is understood Carnegie's donation will go to the general fund. This is the first contribution McGill has received from the famous philanthropist, but the university was included in his pension scheme for college professors.

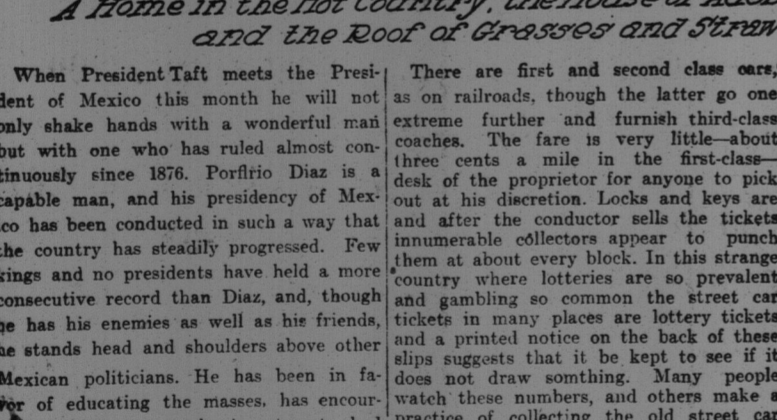

BOY SHOTS ANOTHER

Northampton, Mass., Oct. 10.—Pointing a gun at his 14-year-old cousin, Marshall Sanderson, in Whitely today, with a playful warning of "look out, I'm going to shoot," Herbert Sanderson, aged 16 years, sent a charge of shot into the younger boy's breast, causing wounds which resulted in death an hour later.

A Home in the Hot Country, the House of Adobe and the Roof of Grasses and Straw

When President Taft meets the President of Mexico this month he will not only shake hands with a wonderful man but with one who has ruled almost continuously since 1876. Porfirio Diaz is a capable man, and his presidency of Mexico has been conducted in such a way that the country has steadily progressed. Few kings and no presidents have held a more consecutive record than Diaz, and, though he has his enemies as well as his friends, he stands head and shoulders above other Mexican politicians. He has been in favor of educating the masses, has encouraged foreigners to make investments, had built railroads, established manufactures and brought his country to a place where it is receiving recognition from the rest of the world.

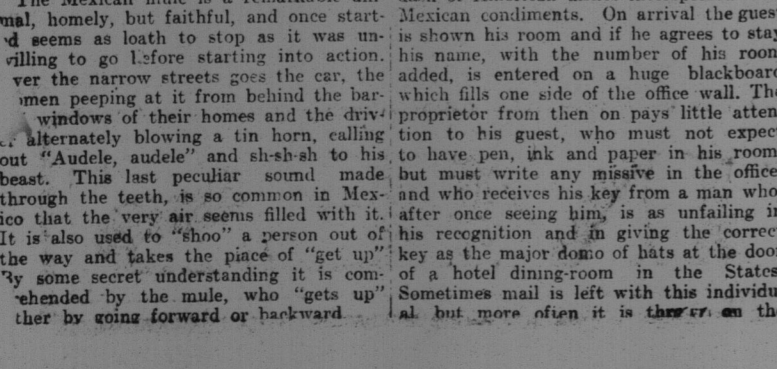

Gambling A Street Scene in Mexico

A Street Scene in Mexico

An innovation and the man chambermaid, black, usually offers to show the newcomer how to lock the door with every appearance of imparting valuable information. One can get a comfortable meal in the large Mexican restaurants because the head waiter usually speaks English. Whether the menu be in French or Spanish, he approaches and in an obsequious manner says in "Americano," "We have so and so." "The spaghetti is very nice today," or asks the guest to point out what he wants on the bill of fare. This he jots down in Spanish and hands to the waiter. The men were arrested last March, nearly a year after the commission of the crime.

A Mexican Beast of Burden - A Carraador

A Mexican Beast of Burden - A Carraador

It is the life of the people that interests most in this country, with its Italian blue sky and its tropical green. It is the people who really constitute Mexico. As a rule, they are small in stature and they do not live to be old. This is partly due to the immense burden they carry and to unsanitary lives. In fact it is an exception to see a white-haired Mexican, and when one does he is a striking object, his dusky skin forming a marked contrast to his gray locks. As elsewhere, the soul of the artist is delighted, and there are few countries that can give more artistic old adobe houses, with their fronts of green, blue, red or white, it seems possible for the average Mexican to be awkward. Unconsciously he assumes graceful attitudes, whether wetting his lips over the counter of a pulque shop or hawking his wares. He never hurries and he is pleasing in his movements, though his clothes be of the scantiest and his torn sombrero be stretched out in his hands for stray centavos.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S QUEER COUNTRY

By K. L. Smith

A Mexican Beast of Burden - A Carraador

There are first and second class cars, as on railroads, though the latter go one extreme further and furnish third-class coaches. The fare is very little—about three cents a mile in the first-class. The Rio Grande is a small stream, yet once across it another world dawns on the American. One dollar of United States money is worth two dollars in Mexican money, and all railroad measurements are kilometers instead of miles. One never buys a yard of goods in a store, but a meter, which equals a yard and a tenth. This seems odd enough to the "Americano" but it is the street cars that interest him the most. It seems incongruous to see a tram car, antiquated though it may be, passing through narrow, precipitous streets of places that antedate Columbus' advent. The tracks are irregular, and nine times out of ten the car, which may be a second-hand one brought down from "the States," is a mule car driven by a man who is dressed in rags, with a torn sombrero on his head and a faded zarate thrown artlessly over his left shoulder. On his feet he wears leather sandals, provided he is fortunate enough to have a foot covering, and in his hand he wields a long quirt with which he lashes the mules.

VENTILATING FANS MAY PROVE DANGEROUS

The French government assumes nowadays a most paternal interest in the welfare and general health of its working people. So the government has for long ordered two officials to study the action of ventilating fans in big factories and other establishments where many workmen were crowded together and breathed air that was supplied largely by big machine fans working through giant ventilating apparatus. These gentlemen have reported back to the French cabinet that in most instances the fans used in French factories have not only no utility for the good of the workmen, but that, on the contrary, they create in the premises where they are placed a veritable whirlwind of dust before it is permitted to enter the working rooms of the factory, mill or big store.
