

A Yes, Sir.

Q And you told my learned friend here that you were on your way back?

A Yes, Sir.

Q Hitch-hiking back?

A Yes, Sir.

Q You weren't hitch-hiking anywhere else, were you?

A No; on the main line, No. 1 Highway.

Q Had you any money?

A I had about four dollars.

Q And you got as far as Broadview?

A Yes, Sir.

Q How did they find you in Broadview?

A I was in uniform, Sir.

Q Whereabouts did the Police contact you?

A Well, I was on the street waiting for a ride.

Q And the Police asked you for a pass, or something?

A It was four o'clock in the morning, and he asked me for my pass.

Q And you told them what you had done, did you?

A Yes, Sir.

Q Did you explain exactly the whole thing that you had done?

A Yes, Sir.

Q Where were you actually heading for then?

A Heading back to Camp Shilo, Sir.

Q And you had your uniform on?

A Yes, Sir.

Q You intended to return, did you?

A Yes, Sir.

Re-examined by the Defending Officer:

Q How long were you at home the last time previous to your ninety-six?

A I was home about four hours. My kid was born on January 14th, and I went home for four hours.

Q And you didn't decide then to build the house, did you?

A Well, No; not just then.

Q In other words, you were in a hurry and you didn't have time to think anything about it, did you?

A No, Sir.
