The Delegato-Apostolic and the "Liberals." A correspondent of the Paris Monde writing from Rome on the 12th September anounces the result of the mission of the Delegate Apostolic as follows:-

Delegate Apostolic as follows:

"Letters from Canada recently received at Rome bring good news of the success of the mission entrusted to Mgr. Conroy by the Holy See. In the ecclesiastical Province of Quebec, visited by Mgr. Conroy in the character of delegate apostolic, dissensions existed among the faithful which were all the more lamentable because they were groundless. They had for origin or pretext the name liberal, which a certain number of Canadians who are good Catholics assume or by which necessary is a waste of seed, but too thin seeding induces late ripening and a diminution of crops. Whether, taking all circumstances into consideration, a greater or less quantity of seed is better, each farmer must decide for himself. No castiron rule will suit alike every variety of iron rule will suit alike every variety of soil and every degree of fertility. A good English authority gives the quantity of wheat usually sown as 100 pounds per acre. The number of seeds in one pound averages 10,000. Others, over-zealous, have taken this as a term of disparagement and applied to those who used it innocently all the condemnations the Holy See pronounced against the real liberals or the revolutionary party. Now, as I have said before, the name of a simple political party was alone in question, and we know that in Great Britain, as in all the British possessions, the name of liberal is used in a sense entirely different from anywhere else; there it designates a political party whose tendencies and aims have nothing in themselves opposed to the principles of Catholic orthodoxy. I wish to insist upon this well established point, occause, in France, there have been newspapers that have sinned in thus very matter, also through excess of zeal or erroneous information. It is, moreover, by this distinction that Mgr. Conroy has been ruled in putting an end to the useless struggle to which I have referred. By his prudence as well as by his zeal and talent of persuasion he has known how to pacify the minds of men, dispel misunderstandings, and draw more closely around the Catholic for Canada the bonds of the most unfailing and perfect charity. It is fitting to add that in this work of pacification the failing and perfect charity. It is litting to add that in this work of pacification the delegate apostolic found powerful auxiliaries among the most influential of the clergy and the episcopate. The Herring Fishing at Fraserburgh.

Describing the scene at Fraserburg during the two heavy fishing days lately, the Abcrdeen Free Press says:—

"Scattan galore" was the universal greeting, and certainly the quantity of scattan landed during these two days was quite unprecedented. More than 40,000 barrels of fish were made up, which at an ordinary computation, means in £. s. d some £70,000—not a bad harvest in two days for a small town"—some rivals would even dare to say—"village!"

The Herring Fishing at Fraserburgh.

The Herring Fishing at Fraserburgh and Astrima for years, says: "I have the herring for Society and Strome or one."

Rufus Astrima for years, says: "I have been bottle of would not buy it if I could get no more."

Rufus Robinson, on Nunda, N. Y., writes: "One small bottle of your Eclectric Oil restored the volume services: "One small bottle of your Eclectric O even dare to say—"village!"

When the boats are berthed, then begins the busy time for the fishermen. The herring have to be taken out of the nets into the hold (if that has not already been done at sea), and then scooped into baskets—four of which make a cran—and
