A SUGGESTION

Bearing in mind that the majority of that they enter upon these with en-thusiasm, it is worth while for the citizens of St. John to ask themselves if they are doing enough to encourage this branch of youthful activity. The only game that draws is baseball, and when two teams are largely made up of imported players of reputed skill it is not possible to make the game pay. When local amateurs try to form a league and have a series of games, they meet with financial failure. When this pastime in the city, it follows that in other directions successful organization is hopeless. But why is it not possible in a city of forty thousand people to have an amateur athletic as which would be able to put its men up against the champions in other cities in all games of strength and skill? Are we grown so effeminate that we scorn physical exercise? Even the Boys' Brigades have but a limited membership, and in the general arena of out door sport, apart from the success of our young ladies in lawn tennis-St. John does not figure at all. There is here a fine opportunity for the exercis of judicious energy. There is enough strength and skill, either going to wast because of no encouragement, or dirothers are not so easily available, to make for St. John a name of which every citizen would be proud. The city needs public playgrounds, and it needs an organization of men with some means who would be willing to devote a little of their time to the task of forming an association, or associations, intended to encourage youths to practice and excel in manly exercises, rather than spend their time in the tanyard or on the street corner learning lessons

THE VERDICT.

Despite the strong efforts put forth by Mr. Mullin, K. C., on behalf of his client, there is probably no disinterested citizen who does not feel that the verdict rendered by yesterday's jury was warranted by the disclosures that have been made.

The calm and clear address made by Mr. McKeown, followed by the slucid and able charge of Judge Landry brought into sharp relief the materia portions of the evidence. Whatever eling of sympathy there might be for a prisoner so young and so misguided. the jury had also to remember his unfortunate victim, and have in mind their own duty to the people. What part Goodspeed may have had in the crime has yet to be determined, but we have the assurance of the crown counsel that the whole matter will be further sifted, and as far as the most searching inquiry, may reveal the facts justice will be done. Nothing less would satisfy the public mind, or remove the sense of insecurity which has prevailed since these terrible revelations of youthful criminality have been made Beyond question there is something be hind the strange loss of memory which afflicted some of the youthful witness es, and on the streets of the city today are other boys who need to be care fully looked after by the authorities. The city will not for many a year for get the shock of recent events, and the memory of them should stimulate the citizens to more definite and united action for the benefit of boys who if permitted to run wild may develop the terrible tendencies which have hurried Higgins and Goodspeed into their present hapless condition.

Up in Ontario they are trying the experiment of holding fairs without any pecial attractions. One of these was eld at Richmond, near Ottawa, yester successful in point of attendance the Star has not learned, but the Ottawa Journal thus describes its general features.

"There will be no horse racing or special attractions whatever although these have to a greater or less extent been the leading fatures of the fair for a number of years. Addresses are to, be given at advertised hours by the expert judges of stock, explaining the type of animal required by the British consumer. These addresses will be illustrated by means of live animals and poultry which will be brought into the ring. Some $200 has been offered for exhibits by school children of injurious weeds, insects and birds, etc. There will be a model kitchen and diningroom in which demonstrations in cooking will be given. The fair will include a number of other features of the same nature."

It may be possible in Ontario to run

such fairs successfully, but if the plan were tried hereabouts there would have to be a very active campaign of edu-cation before the crowd would attend in such numbers, for example, as at the recent St. John and Halifax exhibi

There was a large and representative gathering in St. Peter's Church last evening when the new organ was formally dedicated.

The audience almost filled the church and included a number of invited guests, members of parliament, aldermen and civic officials. In addition there was present many prominent citizens, the recognized musical critics, and the citizens in general who appreciate a thorough musical treat.

The organ, one of the best in the lower provinces, was blessed by Rev. Fr. White, His Lordship Bishop Casey being unable to attend. The dedicatory sermon was a short and simple one, consisting of a psaim and prayer. The organmme was as follows:
