ter to the competitors of Maritime Provinces, first shooting under the Dominion Militia Act held at L'Anse-au-Loup, and filled the same position at the competition held at Fredericton.
1889-90—When the regulars left Canada I, being assistant military storekeeper, was ordered by the militia department to take charge of the military property and militia stores, of which a large quantity of such stores, officers' appointments, etc., were then in charge of the D. A. G. These stores had previously been sent to Fredericton in 1885 and 1886, when storekeeper in St. John.
1891—Resigned the adjutant general's position, but as storekeeper allowed to retain my rank of captain.
Performed the duty of supply officer (staff appointment) at camp of instruction. This was the first brigade camp held under the militia act 1888, and filled the same position at all other camps held in New Brunswick until 1894. Also performed the duty of drill instructor and often the duty of adjutant as well to the military schools of instruction held under the old order from 1870 to 1883.
1892-93—Performed the duty of assistant brigade major (staff appointment) at the brigade camp of instruction held in Aldershot, N. S.
1893—On the organization of the permanent military school at Fredericton was asked by the general officer commanding and Colonel Maunsell, the commandant, to take the sergeant-majorship and help to organize the corps. I complied with the request and performed the duty until 1898, when ordered to go to Sussex to take charge of the camp grounds, etc., where I resumed my former rank of captain as ordered to before I joined the military school corps.
1897—Transferred to Fredericton to take charge as caretaker of drill hall and armories 71st Regiment, my present position.

It can be seen by this brief record that I have continuously served the empire as a soldier for sixty-six years.

In anticipation of the end week holidays, Home Halls are dropping but look special features. Japanese bonds show a reactionary disposition and in the mining department a lack of steadiness is in evidence. Dealers have declined 3-16.

Foreign stocks are heavy on continental selling. The department for Americans shows prices 1/4 to 1/2 below New York parity with the Pacific issues the heaviest. Rio Times are under 7-16, Russian 4's are 7-16, Canada's of England's return reserve 27,100,000 against 26,940,000. Bullion 38,160,000 against 37,665,000.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Coupled with the announcement of the Union Steel Company going into the hands of a receiver, were rumors of troubles in the dry goods trade but lacked confirmation. Pretense like this for circulation of rumors will be taken advantage of by the bears at every opportunity and in some respects may be worked to their advantage until we hear information to the contrary. It looks at present as if we were going to have the same kind of market today as yesterday. There seems to be some disposition not only to sell stocks short but to take profits by those who bought stocks within the past week. One of the bright spots of the financial horizon was the appearance of the smelter report for the year. It showed an increase of over a million and a half in comparison with the preceding year and the surplus after the payment of the dividend on the preferred stock equal to nearly 13 per cent. on the common. After the statement was issued the stock declined quite sharply due to the fact that the good news was discounted.

WARM LANGUAGE USED, ETC.

Mr. Curran then began his address. It occurred to him that Mr. McArthur should thank God that he was not in the dock on the charge of murder or of doing serious bodily harm. He said that if Mr. Edgcombe had not been a cool man the case might have been most serious for he might have struck McArthur who "was a bully of the town." This man should have had the law years ago. He felt Mr. Edgcombe could not get too soon to a lawyer. Most men would get a revolver, a bludgeon. It was time that someone proceeded against this man who had gone through the city for years as a roaring lion.

Mr. Mullin here objected. Objection not sustained.

He said that larceny, robbery, perjury and arson had been imputed to the plaintiff and yet Mr. Mullin maintained that it was simply abusive language. How would you like to be in a public place, going there from a house and being assailed by a big, strong bully like the defendant? There are no words of explanation giving any possible avenue of escape to the words used, and the words are such that the damages should be large. Nature has been kind to the defendant in giving him a grand physique but he used it in coping with smaller men than himself. I have had people say to me, "You aren't go into court and present the case, as he will assault you afterward."

Mr. Curran characterized Mr. Edgcombe as a God-fearing citizen who goes to his prayer meeting. Counsel for the defence refers to the plaintiff as a recent importation from Fredericton. Mr. Curran did not consider that the people of Fredericton were not thoroughly respectable.

Half of the people in the city are afraid to open their mouths to George McArthur much less to provoke a fight. Isn't it too absurd to think of that mild mannered man Mr. Edgcombe going to provoke a fight with Mr. McArthur.

Mr. McArthur admits that he did hit the plaintiff, Mr. Edgcombe, who should know, says the defendant did hit him. Mr. McKinney says, "He acted as though he was going to beat him," and Mr. McKinney is Mr. McArthur's own brother-in-law.

"Abused, beaten and spat upon, what else could Mr. Edgcombe do but hasten to his attorney and bring this matter to the courts of justice?"

"I am going to tell Mr. McArthur that it is high time that this line of action of his should stop and that he should cease the talk of the alms, and lean more toward the classes of the millionaire and gentleman."

"When Mr. Mullin said this case was graft, I could not believe my ears. If he means this is a blackmail case to rich money from Mr. McArthur he puts an interpretation not given to it by anyone else."

"I am not going to say, because the defendant is a rich man he should be spared, but it is an element. 'You can't touch me—You may get a verdict, but I am worth $125,000. I will appeal the case to Fredericton and then to Ottawa if necessary. Though I don't want you to give the $125,000, I want you to give a good substantial amount. Put yourself in Mr. Edgcombe's place and consider that you have been insulted, abused and spat upon."

"Give this amount as a warning to others of his stamp. If Mr. Edgcombe broke a contract, Mr. McArthur should have held him here to this court hands. Has one thing transpired before your eyes to show that anyone was trying to create prejudice against Mr. McArthur. It's the province of the newspapers to make fair reports of judicial proceedings. I entirely agree there is a prejudice against Mr. McArthur, but it is created by his own vile words and his own rash acts."

Mr. Curran then referred at some length to a reason why the newspapers should report a case of this kind so fully. The newspaper notoriety is a compliment to the position Mr. McArthur occupies in the city. Mr. Mullin knows the higher a man's position the greater duty to be a law-abiding citizen, and if such a man goes astray then people talk about it much more than if he were a resident of the lower end of the city.

My relations with the defendant have always been cordial and I am sorry he placed himself in this position. My expressions are not my individual ones but rather as a counsel for the purpose of securing justice for my client. I hope the amount of damages will be a substantial benefit to the defendant as well as to the plaintiff.

Judge Landry then addressed the jury. He said the case did not represent many difficulties, except perhaps in concluding upon the facts. There are really two things to consider, whether the defendant is guilty of having uttered the words attributed to him, and whether the words are actionable.

You are to conclude whether Mr. McArthur uttered the epithets claimed against him. The words are in themselves actionable. If the plaintiff convinces you these words were uttered before other people they are actionable. This applied to the words, "You are a thief—You are a — — of a thief." These are actionable statements. In regard to the other statement, "All you have stolen from other people." This is not actionable in itself but to it a meaning is given by the plaintiff in the pleadings which makes it actionable if you find it so.

So far as the case is concerned his honor said there had been no proof of special damage and he then explained at length the different views of the case and also of the different forms of damage should the jury find the defendant guilty. He then submitted the following to the jury:

(1) We find the defendant guilty or not guilty on the first and second counts at —

(2) We find the defendant guilty or not guilty on the third and fourth counts at —

If guilty:

(4) We assess the damages on the third and fourth counts as —

(5) Did the defendant assault and beat the plaintiff?

The court was then adjourned until 2:15 o'clock.

WEDDINGS.

MAGEE-MERCIER.

The wedding of Miss Mary Louise Mercier, second daughter of George E. Mercier, of Dalhousie, to J. Hal Magee, barrister, of St. John, was celebrated at Dalhousie yesterday morning. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Rev. Geo. Gaudet of St. Paul's officiated. The bride, who is one of Dalhousie's most popular young ladies, was dressed as a princess gown of white tulle with white tulle, trimmings of baby Irish lace, she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and maidenhair ferns. The happy couple left for Moncton on the Ocean Limited. They will spend a few days there with the groom's relatives before taking up their residence in St. John.

LEONARD-SAUNDERS.

A pretty wedding, which has just been announced, took place on Aug. 7, when Rev. Dr. Raymond united in marriage Rebecca J., only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Saunders to Edwin A. Leonard. The bride was attended by Miss Nellie Press, as maid of honor. The groom's present to the bride was a gold bracelet, and the bride presented the maid of honor with a ring set with sapphires. The couple have received many beautiful presents, among which is a handsome dinner set from L. Cohen and employees where the bride was formerly bookkeeper.
