ST. PETERSBURG, March 14, 1.55 a. .-Russia's "Grand Army" is gather ing slowly behind the fortifications of Tie Pass, which were built as a refuge before the battle of Liao Yang, and is feverishly engaged in the work of reorganization and further strengthening its lines. According to the general staff, the main body has already completed its retreat, and the rear guard southward are falling back slowly, keeping in touch with the pursuing columns of Japanese. In the complete absence of further information yesterday, it is difficult to say whether the pursuit has slackened, or is being conducted by only a portion of the Japanese, and military officials here hope that Oyama has paused to give his weary troops a momentary breathing space, while extending his railway and other lines of supply to his new position and preparing for the

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

LONDON, March 13.-While reports of peace negotiations are not confirmed to the foreign office or the Russian or Japanese embassies, a distinc change of opinion obtains in diplomatic circles, where heretofore talk of propositions for peace have been always minimized, but where now peace is evidently expected. This change is particularly noticeable at the Russian embassy, where it was stated to the one point that is coming to the front, Associated Press today that it was probable Emperor Nicholas, influenced by public sentiment, might consent to negotiations. . The embassy said the Associated Press St. Petersburg despatches today summed up the situation correctly. It was said at the embassy that certainly no negotiations had hitherto been attempted by either other interests there besides those of of the belligerents, but "when negotiations commence it will not be through another power, but direct with Japan.
