The Daily Tribune.

J. L. STEWART, Editor.
ST. JOHN, N. B., NOV. 18, 1872.

Murders as Pests.

The desire to be "interesting creatures" afflicts a great many of the race.
Children make unwholesome speeches and form many naughty actions because they are under the impression that their conduct makes them objects of special interest. Wives pass years in bed, or repeating on couches with shawls wrapped about them, because they feel that being invalids makes them appear important.
The desire to be considered different from other people by reason of virtue, suffering, or even crime, is the hidden spring of many actions in this world.

The morbid interest taken in murderers has elevated that class of criminals to the rank of society pets, and only the bare possibility of being hanged deters from becoming murderers many who are hungering for popular sympathy and appreciation, who are longing to be interviewed, studied and described, who burn to have the world interested in their workings of the criminal machinery, and pruned over their motive for committing murder and their degree of sanity when the deed was done.

Criminals of all kinds, more particularly murderers, have become the pets of the church, the press and the philanthropists, and have been made to feel that they were the most important of mortals. The notoriety given by the press causes them to glory in their crimes, and the ministrations of the clergy teach them to look to God for His blessing. Such a thing as a murderer being ashamed of his crime is unknown among modern murderers.
The sweet consolations of religion are poured over their wounded spirits without a day's delay. The silk gown of the barrister quickly rattles between them and justice. "We propose to show that we were justified in filling the defendant with the most powerful of the coarsest of the Great Britain of the time that caused him to get classed among the noble army of government."

John Scanlan, now in jail in New York for the deliberate murder of a man in whose shop Scanlan's brother was shot to death three years ago in the midst of a disturbance begun by himself, is pious and hopeful. He trusts in the Lord. He has faith in the triumph of right. If the injustice of man deprive him of his life by hanging, a grovel of immortal glory will succeed the black cap. He rejoices in the benefits of the clergyman who offers him spiritual consolation by declaring that his walk and conversation are with the Lord and his people. And he is only a type of many who have preceded him. He is a fitting representative of the majority of those who commit capital crimes. In no time to consider whether criminals are not encouraged in their evil courses by the morbid interest shown in them after they have done something sufficiently horrible to make them interesting creatures. Can society afford to make pets of murderers? Should not something be done to discourage the growth of the race of Thugs who cut throats and then calmly and piously talk of a blissful hereafter?

The disasters caused by gales and consequent high tides in the Baltic Sea are immense. At Stralsund alone eighty vessels have been wrecked and the town inundated. Islands were swept clear of the goods, flocks and habitations of the people, and on one island all were drowned. The terrible suffering of the afflicted inhabitants may be imagined. Modern civilization, in the form of telegraphs and steamers, makes known the distresses of the unfortunate and sends aid to them quickly.
The woes of Boston are nothing to the suffering of the afflicted people. Hitden is in the Baltic Sea, nine miles long, one mile in width, and contains five hundred inhabitants. It belongs to Pomeranian Prussia. Stralsund, a town of Pomeranian Prussia, is situated on the strait that separates the island of Rügen from the main land, is approached only by bridges, and has a population of about 30,000.

NOTES AND NEWS.

The horse epidemic continues raging in parts of Nova Scotia.
The new Masonic Hall at Amherst is fast approaching completion.

The Halifax papers report eight dead and many injured from the late Zion Church, Halifax, is to have a calico ball on Thanksgiving day.

A colored woman named Cooper, has mysteriously disappeared from Windsor.
A Montreal boy fell from the top of a four-story new building into the cellar, and is expected to recover.

Crown Prince Frederick William is indisposed and was compelled to postpone his journey to Switzerland.

A young man named McDonald, was recently suffocated by gas while he was sleeping in a room at Poyouk Forks, N.S.
Six thousand loads of seaweed, driven ashore by the gale, were hauled away for manure at Salmon River, N.S., a few days since.

The Amalboite river is in great error. The water is fast, though cold, and building at Fort Garry is still going on with a perfect rush.

The Swiss indulged in a grand public celebration of the five hundred and sixty-fifth anniversary of Swiss independence, on Sunday.

The season for large hog stories has commenced. A 13 years old porcine weighed 640 pounds when killed and dressed, at Tusket, last week.

At Mahone Bay, N.S., on the 7th inst., a child of Mrs. Werthe was burned to death by his clothes taking fire from a spark out of the stove.

Members of the press have organized themselves into an executive committee for the better management of the reporters gallery of the Quebec Assembly.

Within six weeks Mr. Robert Watson, of Cumberland Bay, N.S., has lost two children and three daughters through typhoid fever. Only one son is left of all his children.

The Western Town Lines have generally agreed upon higher freight rates, from 15 to 30 per cent, to this effect about December, or about the time of the close of navigation on the canals and lakes.

The results of Montreal will soon position the Quebec Parliament for power to establish a University in that city. They refuse to admit that church power is vested in this important assembly.

Speaker Blais of the Quebec Assembly has dismissed a number of seasonal clerks for interference in Opposition canvassing, either personally or through their relatives, in this case, Douglas election for Lewis and Dufferin against himself and Langlois.

The membership of the Young Men's Christian Association in Montreal at present consists of 430 active; 407 associate; 43 honorary; and 31 life. Total 900 members. The rooms are daily visited by about 100 young men. The library is valued at over $5,000.

A field between the boys of the Park street and Clark street grammar schools, in Portland, Me., culminated Friday morning in an encounter with pistols, in which the son of a post office clerk shot a boy named Finnigan in the thigh, causing a bad flesh wound. They are each about 14 years old.

The high price of coal in England is leading to the development on a very extensive scale of coal mining in India. All the railways which have their termini in Calcutta now use Indian coal. On the river Ben-gal coal is used largely. Good coal has also been found in Assam.

At the close of the French and German war, quantities of steel shot were sent from Great Britain to enable the late trained French farmers, whose lands had been overrun by the contending armies, to produce a crop for the ensuing year. Part of the second year's produce of these shot is now being shipped for the English market.

Several Ontario lumbermen complain that applications put in by them for timber limits in Quebec by the Crown Lands Department some three months ago, offerers pay as much as $1500 bonus more than any one else would tender, have been passed over by the Commissioner in favor of speculators of the Glasgow Lumber Company.

The total loss to the U. S. Post Office Department by the Boston fire is comparatively trifling. The Old South Church is to be used as a Post office, at a rental of $23,000 a year—$10,000 less than was paid the Church committee by business men. The new Post office was not damaged by the fire that a portion of the building will have to be taken down and rebuilt.

Edward Elms, who was recently robbed of $117 at the Truro Hotel, succeeded last week in identifying some of the money as it was being passed, and by great good luck he recovered nearly $100. The party found passing the money was named Thomas Loft, who was arrested, examined and it is asserted, clearly proved to be the thief. The prisoner's lofty aspiration to wealth will be checked until the next Supreme Court, and it is probable that during his confinement he will have to pass a more difficult but honest path.

There is a chance that Alfred Eugene Lagrange, the prince of swindlers, who got more goods on credit in New York, and won the affections of more women than ordinary rascals usually do, has a chance to escape the twenty or thirty civil and criminal charges now hanging over him.
He was extradited on a charge of burglary—the robbery of his own store—and this charge is said to have been trumped up for the purpose. Legal authorities say that if the charge on which his extradition was procured cannot be sustained, he will have to be set at liberty.

THE MISSING MAN.

His Mysterious Disappearance—Was He Foully Murdered by Burglars?
The Search for the Body—The Anguish of the Bereaved Family.

The DAILY TRIBUNE of Saturday, November 22, contained the following paragraph:

A laboring man named John O'Donald was missing since last night. He was an employee of the Sewerage and Water Department and had charge of the lamps placed on excavations being made in Charlotte, Princess and Prince William streets.

After placing and lighting the lamps last night he went home for tea and left again to attend to his duty about 7 o'clock since which time no information has been had of him. He is about 50 years of age, of medium height, square built, sandy complexion, had slightly grizzled hair, and was a man of steady habits and exceedingly civil and faithful; and from the fact that all the lamps in charge were found lighted this morning, it is inferred that he must have been visited and tripped before he was taken away.

It is unnecessary to state the directions in which he was last seen, as he was found recovered his pay and taken it to his wife at ten o'clock, the next morning, it is inferred that he must have been visited and tripped before he was taken away.

This was on the following day, copied into the various city papers, and O'Donald did not having been found, a reward of $500 was offered by the Water Department for his recovery. John O'Donald has not yet been found, nor since the night when all of health and strength he left his family has any trace been found as to his whereabouts, and the terrible mystery which the now terrible mystery may be revealed. Neither the police nor the Water Department have been inactive in their search for the missing man, and while his whereabouts are not known, the directions in which he was last seen, as he was found recovered his pay and taken it to his wife
at ten o'clock, the next morning, it is in-
tripped before he was taken away.

The Quebec Legislature.

Wednesday's Opposition introduced three important Bills, viz: Mr. Laframboise, one to amend the law relating to Elections; Mr.
Tremblay, a law to amend Parliamentary elections for the Province of Quebec by ballot; Mr. Fournier, a Bill to prevent corrupt practices at Municipal and School Commissioner elections.

Mr. Fournier, among other high-handed and unwholesome proceedings, mentioned disposal, on political grounds, of two men or being allowed opportunity of being heard in their defence. He instanced the conduct of Mr. Chauveau in informing the electors of Charlevoix that, if they elected an Opposition member, they would not receive any Governmental grant.

In reply to Mr. Fournier, Mr. Chauveau urged that the Opposition, if in power, would follow the same policy as the Government. Mr. Fournier protested against this insult cast upon the Opposition.

Mr. Tremblay produced a letter sent by Mr. Langevin, threatening to withhold Governmental favor if an Opposition member was chosen for Charlevoix, and asked if he dared deny it. Mr. Langevin said he denied the Local House no account of his conduct as a Federal Minister. Mr.
Tremblay inquired if that authorized him to abuse his position to control by unlawful interference the local elections.

Mr. Cauchon, a pupil, with a view to investigate the working of these institutions, which he characterized as useless and costly. Mr. Chauveau said he could get his information from Le Journal de Quebec.
Mr. Cauchon's paper, in a number of able editorials of the date of 1868 and 1869, to which he referred that gentleman.

A warm personal altercation ensued, in which Mr. Cauchon expressed his purpose of ventilating this matter, and defied Mr.
Chauveau to take up the challenge. The Minister of Public Works stated that he was not afraid to meet him or them, as he had often done before, and never had he shrunk from the encounter.

UNDER THE ICE.

Under the ice the waters run:
Under the ice our spirits lie;
The general flow of the summer sun:
Shall loosen their fetters by and by.
Men and women in the frozen cold,
River of life—river of love.
The river of life—river of love.
The river of life—river of love.

Under the ice, under the snow,
Our lives are bound in a crystal ring;
By and by will the south wind blow,
And loose upon the banks of Spring Shall come the river of life—river of love.
The river of life—river of love.
The river of life—river of love.

Under the ice our souls are hid:
Under the ice our good deeds grow;
Men and women in the frozen cold,
River of life—river of love.
The river of life—river of love.
The river of life—river of love.

Under the ice we hide our wrongs:
Under the ice that has been known as long Ours the frozen in the frozen cold, River of life—river of love.
The river of life—river of love.
The river of life—river of love.

The Opening for Burglars' Young Men.
Early last evening the small doors in the shops of Messrs. James S. May, Prince William street, and James McMichael &
Son, on King street, were found to be unlocked, affording a splendid opportunity for an enterprising young man to step in and invest in drapers' goods to any extent.
Through the efforts of Sergt. Puttison and policemen William the shops were kept safe until the proprietors could give them their attention.

Fatal Accident in a Shipyard.
Mr. Robert Fletcher was fatally injured on Saturday morning by falling into the hold of a vessel now being built in the yard was about twenty feet and the injuries sustained were to the head and thigh, causing death yesterday morning.

Mr. Fletcher leaves a wife and five chil-

Nearly a Fatal Accident.
Dr. K. Williams, of Light House Hill operation, fell down the stairs of Lang's hotel, Amherst, on Friday evening, and besides sustaining injuries to the head and hip, dislocated his wrist. His escape from death was almost miraculous, but he is now using his own medicine and is doing well.

Assault on the "Globe."
The "Globe" arrived late on Saturday night, having met with a slight accident to her machinery, which, however, will occasion but a slight inconvenience.

The Gray-Mahoney Case.
The case of policeman Gray against Justice O'Mahoney for abusive language was investigated at the Portland police office this morning. Mr. V. A. Morrison appeared for the complainant and Mr. C. W.
Weldon for the defendant. The evidence adduced showed little or nothing beyond the facts already published. It was urged by the counsel for the complainant that Gray, with a message to the defendant and in preparation of a disturbance had remained to exercise his duties as a constable. On the other hand it was alleged that Gray was sent by the magistrates simply fulfilled his duty unless the evidence showed a presumption that some disturbance would occur, he had no right to remain, and in infringing became a trespasser. Justice Tappin reviewed the actions of both complainant and defendant, and judging that the action on one side counterbalanced that on the other, dismissed the case.

AUCTIONS.

terday morning.

Mr. John O'Brien delivered an interesting lecture in St. Malachi's hall last evening. The subject, the Cleveland Conover in committee by the City and Portland Councils this afternoon.

On Friday evening the coal laden wharf,
"Tempo," lying at the railway wharf, York Point, had her back broken by the

Early last evening the small doors in
William street, and James McMichael &
Son, on King street, were found to be un-
