THE SITUATION.

Russo-Roumanian forces have caused a halt to the Teuton advance in Western Moldavia. Not only that, but it is announced that they have advanced a mile and a half in the region of Pralea. Furthermore, at other points they have succeeded in beating off fierce Hun attacks. Berlin in the course of its official statement, admits that their opponents have apparently recently received large supplies, including munitions.

It is announced that during Monday, Premier Lloyd George and his war cabinet had an important conference with the French and British Commanders-in-Chief, and that as the outcome, measures were taken for the augmenting of the British military strength. The details ar given elsewhere in this issue.

trary, King Constantine and his advisers continue to act in a most deceptive and secretly aggressive way. While affecting to comply on the surface with the stipulations of the Allies, he is evidenly engaged in a conspiracy with von Falkenhayn, who is there, representing Germany.

A CORRECTION

The Expositor last evening in its account of the hockey match played on Monday after noon between the news printers and the job printers of the city, placed a heading over the article to the effect that The Expositor tied Hurley's. On the alleged Expositor team there were no less than three players from The Courier, while the job printers' team included men from several plants. As at least one of the newspaper men's goals was scored by a Courier player, The Expositor did not tie Hurley's team.

The Expositor and Courier are scheduled to play a game next Tuesday afternoon, between five and six o'clock, so with their own team represented we will anxious ly watch for their "heading."
