Dear Sirs:-

Replying to your request for a summarization of the tests made upon your product in 1934, we submit the following.

The bacteriological tests were all made for us by Dr. F.A. Starkey, Professor of Hygiene, McGill University, Montreal, and the chemical tests were made by us.

The tests showed that Streptococcus Haemolyticus would not tolerate the slightest trace of Eucozone and in no case did the organisms show any signs of life even in dilutions as high as 1 in 300, while control cultures showed luxuriant growth. These tests were repeated three times with the same result.

In other tests Streptococcus B. was destroyed in ten minutes, and Bacillus Typhosus and Staphylococcus pyogenes within one hour when sterile threads soaked in the broth cultures and dried were then soaked in the sample of Eucozone.

I have used Eucozone from time to time at home for a number of years in treatment of colds, disorders of the stomach, etc., and my family has a good opinion of it.

Very truly yours,

MILTON HERSEY COMPANY, Limited,
