

Cheque should come from the holder or owner of the cheque.

If Braut had endorsed the cheque and handed it to your Company, who afterwards lost it, a bond of indemnity could be accepted from your Company; but the cheque was never received by your Company, therefore the Department is not in a position to accede to your request for the issue of a duplicate cheque.

So far as is known Braut has already received value for the cheque from some person who mislaid or lost it. To issue a duplicate would

2