"A Little Nonsense Now and Then"

Chemistry Professor — To-morrow we will take chlorine, and Tuesday, arsenic.

"Did you mail that letter I gave you yesterday?"
"N-no, my dear. I whistled to the mah in the postal airplane, but he couldn't come down after it."
—Ottawa Citizen.

A young registrant, claiming exemption, was asked, "How many people are dependent on you?" He replied: "Two, sah. Paw, he depends on me to find washin' for maw; and maw, she depends on me for to hunt wood-choppin' for paw."

Brown: "What made you start clapping when that woman stepped on your foot in the car?"

Barlow: "I was dozing. I thought mother and the girls were having a musicale at home and one of them was signaling that it was time to applaud."
—Boston Transcript.

"Can any little boy," asked the teacher, "tell me the difference between a lake and an ocean?"

"I can," replied Edward, whose wisdom had been learned from experience. "Lakes are much more pleasant to swallow when you fall in." — Adelaide Chronicle, Australia.

A colored conscript on his way to the train with a number of other prospective soldiers was greeted by a friend.

"Hello, Mose! Where you goin'?" asked the friend.
"Ah ain't goin' no place. They's takin' me," answered Mose.—St. Louis Post-Despatch.

"How is business?" asked the Kansas City drummer, who was visiting Petunia for the first time, according to the Star. "Business?" replied the proprietor of the Tote Fair store. "Say, come here! See that hole in the sign post out there? A woodpecker made that. Took him nearly a week, and he wasn't disturbed but three times!"

Corporal Bilkins had arrived in France after a few day in England.

"How much money have you got left?" asked Corporal Wilkins.

"Well, I've got six shillings, a quid, two farthings, nine pennies, a franc, half a pound, four sous, and 50 centimes, but I've only got two dollars in cash."
—Camp Dodgers.

"The way the Germans count their prisoners," said the office boy, "reminds me of the circus barker who stood in front of the tent and barked:

"Walk up, ladies and gents. Walk up and see the remarkable African hyena. Measures 16 feet from the tip of his nose to the end of his tail, and the same distance back again, making 32 feet in all. Walk right up, gents and ladies."—Trench Life.

Much encouragement is found by the Cologne Gazette in a statement that the German general staff had correctly predicted how many Americans would arrive at a given date; "It shows how carefully our staff works out its calculations and avoids surprises." One is reminded of the Irish pilot who was boasting that he knew every rock in the channel, when the boat struck. "And, bejabers," he added, "that's wan iv them."

An Atlanta merchant has frequent occasion to rebuke Ike, his darky porter, for his tardiness in reporting for duty in the morning. Ike is always ready with a more or less ingenious excuse, relates the Atlanta Journal. "You're two hours late, Ike," exclaimed the employer one morning. "This sort of thing must stop. Otherwise I'm going to fire you. Understand?" "Deed, Mistah Edward," replied Ike, "it wasn't mah fault dis time. Hones'. I was kicked by a mule." "Kicked by a mule? Well, even if that were so, it wouldn't delay you for more than an hour. You'll have to think of a better excuse than that." Ike looked aggrieved. "Mistah Edward," he continued, solemnly, "it might have been all right ef dot mule kicked me in dis direction, but he didn't —he kicked me de odder way."

A. W. DIMOCK, who died recently in New York, was one of that city's most famous all-round men. Dimock, who was born at Yarmouth, N.S., was a characteristic "Blue Nose," and much of his success in life is traceable to his early training in Nova Scotia. Dimock was in turn a writer, financier, explorer, fisherman, cowboy, steamship magnate, chemist and assayer. At the age of 23 he dominated the gold market in the United States; at 30 he was head of the Bankers' and Merchants' Telegraph Co., and President of the Atlantic Mail and other steamship lines. Among his intimate friends were numbered, President Grant, Commodore Vanderbilt, Jay Gould and Walt Whitman.
