APRIL 5, 1884

It is sometimes the case that an employer thinks he wants the services of a boy or young man, when, in fact, he really wants a girl, and don't know it. For some kinds of clerical work girls are more serviceable and more economical than boys. Boys are very good in their places, and we are even free to admit that they are, as a rule, more adjustable than girls; that is, they can be crammed into more positions and be treated with into more positions and be treated with more severity and greater injustice. Nobody thinks it a very serious matter to knock a boy about in any way. Boys expect to meet with rough treatment. Some people think it is good for them. Perhaps it is. Girls have to be treated a little more tenderly; and they ought to be. They not only deserve it, but if they are of the right sort, they appreciate it, and other people get the benefit. There are certain things that girls can do just as well as boys; while there are certain other things that they can do much better. Ist. They make excellent amanuenses, and those of them who understand short-hand, and have, besides, a good English education, need never think of getting married merely to betaken care of. They can take care of themselves. of getting married merely to be taken care of. They can take care of themselves. 2nd. They are good cashiers, being careful and honest, and having a natural taste for order and neatness. 3rd. They make good book-keepers. We have tried them and we know; and we have the concurrent testimony of a good many reliable people. And finally, they are excellent confidential clerks. The fidelity and fealty of a true woman are beyond praise. There is only one male person mentioned in history that holds a parallel mentioned in history that holds a parallel and he is "the boy" who "stood on the burning deck." We know of four or five

Much in a Little. Many proprietary medicines, if they cure at all, require so large a quantity to produce effect that it makes them very uncertain and expensive remedies. Not so with Burdock Blood Bitters. It is highly concentrated, and for all diseases of blood, liver and kidneys, one or two bottles will cure more than gallons of the facts and figures.

We would have every true man build for himself a home, be it ever so humble in the beginning. Industry and frugality and good judgment will make of it the and good judgment will make of it the most lovely spot on earth. The man without a home is like a sojouraer without a country. The richest, happiest and best man in the wide world is he who has a pretty, comfortable home of his own, a family, good health, and owes no man a cent, even though his entire possessions would not sell for a thousand dollars, and though he had not held as dollars, and though he had not held so big an office as town constable or roadmaster. We sometimes feel constrained to doubt whether a man without a home can at best be but an indifferent patriot. can at best be but an indifferent patriot. He cannot feel that interest in other people's prosperity that he feels in his own, and without such property we would have no country worthy a name. He would scarcely risk his life in defence of the hearthstone of his landlord, but let that hearthstone he his name. let that hearthstone be his own, and woe to the invader who should threaten it with desecration. The homes of people are the strength of the State. Build them, beautify them, own them and be happy. This is the fair deduction from hosts of instances, and is the true philosophy of home making and home-own

GOLD MINES IN THE MOUTH. - An interesting calculation has been made by a writer of mathematical bent, who finds from the census returns that there are about 17,000 dentists in the United States; and he estimates that they pack into the teath of the dentity of the control of the co into the teeth of the American people a ton of pure gold annually.
