Mayor pointed out that a strip of 20 or 12 feet in width was removed from Mr. Trench's property the Mary street bridge and Mr. Trench immediately came back that he would hold the city up for $1,000. The situation was lost. Ald. H. Minshall and Wood only supporting it.

HUERTA IS OILY

MEXICO CITY, April 20.—President Huerta, replying to queries from newspapers, said last night: "Mexico awaits with tranquility the development of events growing out of the controversy with the United States, and in the remote case of friction between the two countries, the people of this republic will bear no animosity toward the people of the United States, whose neighbors they are."

JEW AND THE GENTILES DEBATE

ing what he does at present, would have voted. That was the reason William street residents were acting now. They were unanimous, and in that they were in an unusual position. The city was not asked to spend one copper.

Mr. Watts said he had been referred to as the father of the opposition. He was not ashamed of this, as the child was a very healthy one. He did not want to create hard feelings but was honest in his convictions. He had not a word to say against the Jew. All nations were required in Canada, but it was essential that all should be assimilated. The Jews were very fine people, but they were clannish and hard to assimilate. A synagogue was not like an ordinary church. The Sabbath of the Jew was not that of the Gentile. The Sabbath of the Gentile was the holiday of the Jew. The habits of the Jew were not the same, their worship and their synagogue were different. Around an attempt was attracted their national and social life. Wherever it is, will be a public meeting place. If a number of foreigners were put in the midst of a residential district it would be objectionable.

Ex-Ald. Minshall.

Ex-Ald. Minshall also addressed the Council. He was perhaps the largest ratepayer of the street, having invested $20,000 in good houses along the thoroughfare. He was not opposed to the Jews having a synagogue in Ward Two, but did not like the present site. The by-law was not a new invention. It had been used effectively in a Colborne street case last year. Mr. Minshall said he would be one of a number to take the property already purchased off the hands of the Jews and they would not lose one cent. He reminded Ald. Ward of an attempt he made once to drive foreigners out of Eagle Place and have them segregated in one part of the city.

H. H. Powell conceded it was a difficult question. The problem was not confined to Brantford, but was being faced elsewhere. Those of foreign race who had a different standard of living, who did not assimilate were really objectionable to the communities of Anglo Saxon people. A synagogue would form a rallying point on William street and would depreciate the value of surrounding property. Mr. Powell thought the Jews should get a lot where they would be surrounded by Jewish people.

Ex-Ald. Middlemiss pointed out that William street was one of the oldest in the city and it was hard work building it up to the standard it has now attained. A statute was provided for the very purpose of protecting residents placed as they were.

Mr. George Winter said not one of the Jews owned a foot of land on William street, while every ratepayer on the street was opposed to their project. Could a stronger case be made out for the by-law? Moreover, the ratepayers offered to take the synagogue lot off their hands.

Mr. Lister said that the synagogue would depreciate the value of surrounding property. One deal now pending would go through if the synagogue was not built. If it were, it would not go through.

Mr. M. Saipe

Mr. Saipe, who headed the opposition to the by-law, proved a very pleasing speaker. He thanked the council for generous treatment in the past to the Jews, who had not been treated as foreigners but as real citizens who had the right to vote, the right to live and to whom the glad and of fellowship had been extended.

Mr. Saife first challenged the statement of Mr. Watts that William street was unanimous against the synagogue. He for one was a resident of William street and was not against it, and he knew of others. He objected to the statement that the Jews were very hard to assimilate. Mr. Watts had referred to them as stubborn. Surely Mr. Watts didn't want to convert them and assimilate them and then again wanted to put them down. In reply to the statement that Sunday was a holiday for the Jew, Mr. Saife challenged his opponents to show where Brantford Jews had ever outraged Sunday as a day of worship for the Gentile. The Jews not only worshipped Saturday but they kept Sunday decorously, because they are trying hard to assimilate. In reply to the statement that there was not the same worship, Mr. Saife said: "We don't worship idols but you will find the unseen God is worshipped by the Jew as well as by the Gentile. And if it is worship, it is worship sincere."

Continuing, he said he believed in freedom for all in the matter of worship, saying "the great Master of your own religion would tell you that."

Mr. Saife also objected to the charge that the synagogue would be a gathering point for Jews. He said that Jews had been resident here for seven years and asked if anyone knew their gathering point. They had met at different places and had caused no annoyance. Those opposing the synagogue had submitted no facts or figures showing that it would be a menace to the health or comfort of the community. If the Jews were to go to their own neighborhood where was that neighborhood? Would they show a Jewish settlement in the city? If the city created a segregated area, they would only make a rod for their own backs. It was the curse of cities, the segregated idea, and Brantford would be sorry for any such step. Every ward in the city had some Jews residing in it. Surely Brantford was not going to have a pale, as in Russia. This city must be too enlightened, too advanced for that. It was said a synagog would prove a rallying rendezvous, a village pump, as it were, and Mr. Saife proceeded to show that Hamilton, Toronto and Kingston had synagogues erected on residential thoroughfares. In Brantford there were 300 Jews, including 70 male adults. Some 35 were engaged in business on front streets and they were all Russian emigrants out here eight years, and with bridges burned behind them. They were keen financial men, not found in criminality, not in bar rooms and not undesirable. Of the other 35 adults, about 12 were rag and bone men and were not the worse for it. "They were asked to come here; you will do business with them because they pay 100 cents on the dollar. Are they a menace?" asked Mr. Saife, amid applause.

Continuing, he said there was no one more loyal to King George than the Jew. The Russian Jew could never return to his home. He would not if he could. When he sees a good thing he takes it. He is out here looking up to the Canadian, trying to follow him, trying to assimilate and trying all the time to become a real citizen of this great country. (Applause)

Other Speeches

Rev Gringorten and Mr Sam Fox also spoke briefly in opposition to the by-law, and were followed again by Mr. Watts and Mr. Saife, who were patiently listened to.

Ward Starts Fight

Ald. Ward thereupon started a fight, declaring that the by-law was introduced with indecent haste, and he charged that it had been snatched away from his committee.

Mayor Spence repeated three times the ruling he gave two weeks ago that the matter was one for Ald. Pitcher's committee.

Still Ald. Ward was not satisfied. Ald. Broadbent rose to remark that he could not see what good Ald. Ward's quibbling did to settle the question. It was really painful to busy men at the council to have to submit to it.

Thereupon Ald. Ward said he had an amendment to the by-law. He believed Jew and Gentile could get together. A practical suggestion had been made by ex-Ald. Minshall and should be followed up. He suggested that the by-law be laid over for one month.

After some more skirmishing, on the Mayor's suggestion, and with Ald. Pitcher's consent, the by-law went to the committee of the whole, came back and will come up two weeks hence.

ONE TRIP QUITE ENOUGH FOR HIM
Gets Slugged, is Robbed Twice, is Arrested, Once as Spy and Again as Murder Suspect

ELK LAKE, Okla., April 21.—Twice thrown into jail, knocked in the head by thugs, and twice robbed of all his money, all one brief trip to California, was the experience of D. C. Coffman, 40 years old, who has come back to his farm near here and declares he will stay there in future.

Mr. Coffman left here in February for California. While eating supper in a restaurant in Denver he was arrested by detectives and locked up on a charge of killing a man in the state to which he was bound. Through an acquaintance he established his identity and was released.

In San Francisco he was attacked by thugs, who beat him and robbed him. He was compelled to wire home for funds to return. At El Paso he ventured across the river to Juarez to see the sights, and was arrested as a spy and held in jail three days after which his valuables were confiscated. He was given 15 cents with which to get out of the country.

After paying his street car fare across the river, Mr. Coffman had a nickel left for his expenses until he reached Elk City. He declares Oklahoma is good enough for him.
