Nails, Safety Pins, Thimbles and Glass Found in Her Siomach

In the current number of the Journal of the American Medical Association Drs. Vandivert and Mills, of the Mis souri State Insane Hospital, at St. Joseph, report the case of Sallie L., a mulatto, whose appetite for nails, bolts, tacks and all manner of hardware re-sulted in her death at that institution ecently. Her gratification of this re-narkable appetite extended over seven

The case of the woman puzzled the physicians, and her actions became more unaccountable as the end drew near. She seemed to thrive, although partaking only slightly of the hospital fare, and on her death the physicians decided upon an autopsy to relieve their professional curiosity. In her stomach they found 1,446 separate articles of hardware which would have been of much greater benefit somewhere else. These included 453 nails, of all sizes; 42 screws, 9 bolts, 105 safety pins. 115 hairpins, 136 common pins and quantity of table utensils, grape seeds and the like.

In spite of this the woman was able to eat and digest a considerable quantity of ordinary food up to within two weeks of her death.

NOISES IN THE EARS

This may arise from quite a variety of cases. In the first place it may be due simply to an accumulation of wax in the cars. This is often caused, too, by put ting water in the ears while washing o after bathing. Noises in the ears may even indicate actual disease of the or gan, and is then often attended by more or less pain and deafness. Constipation is sometimes a cause, says the Family Doctor, and one which is easily remedied. Bloodlessness, too, may lead to noises in the cars, and then the usual ac companiments are weakness, giddiness breathlessness and palpitation.

for Men, Women and Children of All Ages.

One's first duty is to eat plenty. Be preful to select nourishing, digestible od. Don't fail to masticate—that is, o chew up all food thoroughly. Then see that the stomach is in a fit condition digest, that the howels are active and that all wastes are regularly passe out of the body. Right here 15 most people have great trouble. They allow the system to grow sluggish—half-digested food stays in the stomach and bowels, where it ferments and decays. This causes headache, biliousness and bad complexion.

Once digestion is impaired and the bowels fail to perform their natural function each day, you can be sure that ill-health is straight ahead, and uniess the muscles of the stomach and bowels are given sufficient strength to carry out Nature's work, cure is impossible.

Certainly no remedy can claim so great a number of perfect cures as DR. I was also subject to a great stiffnes, in my joints, especially about the knees and shoulders, and experienced much pain in my muscles. To cure my chest troubles—I first rubbed on 'Nerviline' conjously for two days, and 'Nerviline' copiously for two days, and then put a Nerviline Porous Plaster over the sore region. I got quick relief. Rub bing the sore muscles and aching joints with Nerviline did more than all othe treatments combined. Giving the Dog His Dues.

A dog will die for a master who starves and beats him, while man—divine man himself—has been known to sneak away from a friend in trouble, disavowing all obligations. It was a philosopher none too cynical who said tht the more he saw of men the more he thought of dogs. The dog is always genuine, always frank, and houest and faithful. He shows more honesty in one way of his fail than some flowesty in one way of his fail than some honesty in one wag of his tail than some men do in a whole lifetime. Speechless, he can express more love than a man can, and he never expresses it falsely. His befall, till death itself.

Men can clasp hands and pledge loy-Spiritualist. He was on one occasion induced to attend a seance, so that he might be converted to the cult. He was asked whose spirit he would most like to appear, and he said at once "Lindley Murray." In due course they informed him that the famous master of grammar was in the rooms. Dickens asked, "Are you Lindley Murray." and the spirit and two you Lindley Murray." and the spirit are swered. "I are!" All hope of making Charles Dickens a Spiritualist was gone from that more as Spiritualist was gone and he has the spirit and the can find love for the lowest and meanest, and his love survives kicks, curses, deand his love survives kicks, curses, d sertion everything. The dog grows into the life of the man he loves, and be-comes a part of him—very often the best part. His mind becomes a reflection of the mind of his master. Properly trained, he unerringly performs a part of his master's work, and more he does work that only a dog has intellect and faithulness to do. And when a man has lost this part of himself can he go and buy it again Not much! Almost as well might he who has much! Almost as well might he who has lost a limb attempt to buy another as good. Gold is all-powerful among men, but it will not buy a good dog. It will buy friends, as friends go, by the soores and hundreds; it will buy human fidelity, as human fidelity ordinarily goes? but it will not buy a dog that can fill the place of the faithful one that has died.—Memphis News-Scimitar.

HEALTHY CALLUREN

AKE A BLESSING.

Healthy babies are good babies, and the good baby is a blessing in every, home. Nothing can give the mother or father more pleasure than to see baby play. Every movement is watched with delight; every new word spoken brings pride to the fond parents. It is only the sickly baby that makes home wretched —and, mothers, it is not baby's fault ween he is sickly ween he is sick. You are the one to blame. Perhaps you give him candies, cakes and other food which his little stomach is unable to digest. Then when he is cross and ailing you give him some "soothing" mixtures to quiet him. That is wrong—remember his little stomach is not as strong as a grown person's, and also remember that every spoonful of "soothing" mixture you give him only does him more injury—it does not remove the cause of his fretfulness-it merely dopes him into an unnatural sleep. What is needed to make beby healthy and happy is Baby's Own Tab-lets—a medicine with a guarantee of safety. About them Mrs. Mathies Mc-Carmick, West St. Peters, P. E. I., writes: "We have used Baby's Own Tabiets with good results. They are certainly a blessing for mothers that have cross, sickly babies. They sweeten the stomach; give refreshing sleep and make baby fat and healthy." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Kindness to Horses in Switzerland English people travelling on the continent have often been troubled to see the unkind way in which animals are treated, more especially in Paris, Italy and Spain. Some of the continental countries have only lately established ocieties for the prevention of cruelty to animals. In Switzerland there has for som time existed a strong animals protection society, which has now organized classes for cab drivers, coachmen and all who have charge of horses. These classes are very largely attended by cab drivers and others who intend to take up a line of life in which they will have much to do life in which they will have much to do with horses. Examinations are held per iodically, the examiners being veterinary surgeons, police inspectors and cab pro-prietors.

An examination was held the other day, the pupils having been examined in what they had learnt during their course ons—that is how to drive, the of lessons—that is now to drive, the broker kind of harness and the proper way of harnessing, how to look after and feed horses, and what horses can be expected to do and what not. 'Students' who wish to attend these classes but cannot the students' are given assistance afford to do so are given assistance from a special fund for the purpose.— Basle Correspondence Pall Mail Gazette.

ANIMAL MEMORY

The memory of animals running through generations is one of the astounding facts of science which it is most difficult to account for. Take any animal whose daily life entails a certain line of work and put him in an environ-ment where neither he nor his children unto the one hundreth generation will be able to carry out this work. Then bring the remote descendant into the original environment of his fathers and he will go about the duties of his kind as if he had been schooled to them. as if he had been schooled to them. Recently it was found that some beavers were living in their village near Avignon on the Rhone. For at least 300 years they had had no trees to fell for their dams, so for thirty generations they had burrowed in the banks and built mud walls about their lodgings with their tails. A Polish count became interested in one of the colonies and re-moved a few of them to a forest grown Immediately the beaver tablished themselves by a stream, cut their trees and build their villages as their fathers had not been able to do for three whole centuries.-Chicago
