The Boat Race at Breckville

Haulan the Winner.

A grand regatta match came off at Brockville on Dominion Day, for a purse of $1,000—$500 to first, $300 to second, $200 to third—soullers race, four miles and a turn. The parties contesting were and a turn. The parties contesting were Edward Haulan, Toronto; F. A. Plaisted, Boston; John Kennedy, Portland; James H. Riley, Saratoga; J. A. Ten. Eyck, Peakskill; A. Elliott, Toronto; P. Luther, Pittsburg; W. McKen, Toronto.

Just at the report of the pistol Kennedy cought the water, then came Plaisted, and just after him Hanlan, after which the others went in a bunch. The long clean stroke of the Toronto champion soon sent him to the front, however, though he was pulling only thrive trokes per minute, and before the contestants had gone a hundred yards he was leading the party by about two lengths. Next came Kennedy, who led Elliott by a length, and a length be bind Elliott, the rest of the pariy were bunched. Half a mile down the course Hanlan was still holding a commanding ead with his thirty to the minute stroke, while Riley, Kennedy, Ten. Eyck, and Luther were pretty well bunched in the order named, the others being all well provided the provided the fending in the party were band to the front and the others being all well provided the provided the fending in the story from a Chaltham paper about a calf that was lost in the bush for eight days. Miss Lydis Murphy, formerly a resident of Breslain, was accidentally shot at New Portage, Ohio, on the 9th of June. A little boy was carelessly handling a 'gun he had taken up in his hand when it was discharged, the whole charge entering the whole of the back of her head, killing her instantly.

Luther were pretty well bunched in the order named, the others being all well up.

At the end of the first mile Hanlan was leading by fully five lengths, while Riley, Plaisted, and Kennedy, were neck and neck, so to speak, with McKen dangerously close to them and the others not far off. Of course it was now clear that only an accident could defeat Hanlan, and he continued to widen the gap between himself and the others during the whole of the second mile. As he neared the turning buoys, however, he steered rather wildly, and must have lost ground perceptibly. He turned with a lead of seven lengths, Kennedy came next, two and a half lengths ahead of Riley and Mc-Ken, who turned together. Then came Plaisted, coming close upon them; then Ten Eyck, Elliott, and Luther, all close together. As they straightened away on the homeward stretch Riley lost ground slightly by hugging the shore too closely, and both Plaisted and McKen got the best of him in the first half of the third mile, Kennedy still holding to second place with a tenseity that did great credit to the pluck and endurance of the "little one." McKen, who was in the fourth place, now made a vigorous spurt, pulling something like 36 or 37 strokes to the minute, and in a few seconds he was almost on even terms with the lightning souller of Boston. But just at this moment, as he was lugging the shore to keep out of the current, a large skiff shot out from under the thick foliage that overhangs the bank, and striking his rowlock, capsized his shell, and left him floundering in the water. He was soon safe again, however, but of course his chance of a place in the race was lost. About this time Elliott also became entangled with a skiff, and afterwards with a small steamer, and although he pulled home and finished sixth, with his boat half full of water, he had no hope of wining a place with a leaky boat, after having been twice fouled by outsiders.

As the third mile was finished Hanlan was leading by fully ten lengths, and pulling only 27 strokes to the minute.

cout of it. From this to the finish the contest was one of little or no interest. Riley gave it up more than a quarter of a mile from the finish, and while Hanlan merely paddled home a dozen lengths ahead, pulling only about 27 to the minute, Plaisted felt so sure of second place that he did not exert himself to do anything more than to exert himself to do anything more than to lead Kennedy over the score. Riley was a bad fourth, Ten Eyck a bad fifth, with Elliott not far off, and Luther pulling quietly up under the protection of one of the patrol boats, while McKen was, of course, out of it. out of it.

Course, out of it.

The time as given by outside timers varied from 20m., 273m., to 33m. From the start to the finish Hanlan pulled a slower stroke than any of the other contestants.

Therace stood as follows:—Haulan first,
Plaisted second, Konnedy third, Riley fourth, Ten Eyek fifth, Elliott sixth, Luther seventh, and McKen eighth.
