Thomas P. Gorman discusses in the Arena for September what he calls "The The Week's Events in Brief-The Cream Dominion's Original Sin." Mr. Gorman is editor of the Ottawa Free Press, and as he signs his paper he is entitled to that consideration which is due to a man who cided has "the courage of his convictions." His day view of the original sin of the dominion is that confederation was brought about in a manner not in accord with constitutional methods. There is not much doubt about this. The constitution received a severe wrench at the hands of the framers phrase of the New York papers, "a back Canada any more.
