Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

"WE ALL, LIKE SHEEP."
How strong is that instinct in human nature, which makes us want things not for their own intrinsic utility or beauty but just because other people have them!

Some friends of ours who have a nine-year-old daughter, moved from the city to the country last year. As the country school was some distance from her home and the daughter had to be gone all day, her mother put up a lunch and packed it in a very dainty little wicker basket which had been given her one Christmas.

She Preferred a Lard Pail.
After the little girl had been going to school a few days, she came home one noon and said she didn't want to carry that wicker basket any more. "Why not, Mary?" "Because none of the other girls have them." "What do they have?" "They all bring their lunch in five-pound lard pails and I want one, mother. I couldn't want to carry that old basket." I don't have more picturesque example of the herd instinct in human nature—the instinct which makes a perfectly good garment ugly to its owner the second season, which helps create best sellers and mobs and dance halls and skating rinks and goodness knows what else. I should not have thought one could, but last night I came upon an example that is quite as picturesque in its way—and, in contrast with these, even more so.

An Even More Picturesque Example
Do you remember the chapter in Samuel where the Israelites asked Samuel for a king? Samuel told the Lord about it, and the Lord told Samuel not to refuse them, but to "protest solemnly unto them" and to tell them what a king would be like. So Samuel does just that. In eight vivid verses he gives a very telling description of the good old style of king. "He will take your sons and appoint them to be his horsemen." "And he will take your daughters to be confectioners and cooks" "And he will take the tenth of your seed

Airship Service Round the World.

The ambitious scheme for inaugurating an airship service around the world by the Great Northern Pacific Syndicate of Liverpool is well under way, and it is hoped to have the first airship in service by next May. Liverpool is to be the principal jumping-off ground. The airships which the company is endeavoring to secure are of two types. The larger ones, which will only call at chief centres, are of the rigid class, capable of carrying 150 persons. Non-rigid airships will transport passengers from the smaller towns to the larger craft. Three routes have so far been outlined: From Liverpool to York, Hull, Copenhagen, Stockholm, Petrograd, Peking, San Francisco, New York, Queenstown and Dublin. From Liverpool to London, Paris, Cairo, Colombo, Perth and Melbourne or Sydney. From Liverpool to Cardiff, Lisbon, Sierra Leone, Cape Town and Buenos Aires. Efforts are being made to acquire some of the vessels which were under construction for the Government at the conclusion of the war.

A National Housing Scheme.

One of the most interesting of the national housing schemes so far put in hand by the Public Utility Societies in England is that known as the Swanpool Garden Suburb, near Lincoln. It will possess many novel features. The lighting, heating and cooking arrangements will be supplied by means of electricity and waste steam from adjacent works, and on completion the suburb will be a little township without a coal fire, without a gas fire, and with no burners, no gas rings, and no gas cookers.

Swanpool suburb is intended mainly for the use of the employees of a large engineering firm, and waste heat and steam from the works will be utilized in the installation of a combined system of central heating and hot water supply for every house. Electricity, generated at a central station, will be supplied to each house for lighting and cooking purposes, and will also provide street illumination and power for laundries, sewage pumping and other public works.

It is estimated that the installation of the hot water and electricity service in each cottage will cost £25, but as a set-off against this expenditure there will be a saving, estimated at 84 pounds per cottage, an expenditure which would otherwise have been required in the provision of larger chimneys, grates, copers, and so on. The central power station and the supply mains are estimated to cost an additional 250,000 pounds for the 3,000 houses which will comprise the completed suburb, and will be erected on 250 acres.

The engineering firm referred to has taken a leading part in the promotion of the Public Utility Society, and has subscribed 10,000 pounds in loan stock towards its funds. Two of the firm's directors have between them subscribed a further 100,000 pounds in loan stock.

The scheme is run by a management committee of twelve members, including a number of the workpeople, who will occupy the houses. In addition there is a woman's consultative committee formed for the purpose of giving advice as to housing from the woman's point of view.

This is to certify that I have used MINARD'S LINIMENT in my family for years, and consider it the best liniment on the market. I have found it excellent for horse flesh.

SUCCESS.
I bring them gold who seek me not
For what I bring of gold alone;
I bring them fame who strive to claim
More than the laurel wreath I own;
I bring all things that men desire,
And every joy which men deserve,
If they will bear their daily care
And labor with a will to serve.

They must not seek me for my fame,
Nor follow me for selfish gold;
They must not ask an easy task
To gain the treasures that I hold;
For I shall spurn the selfish man
And leave him by his race accursed.
But I shall crown with my renown
The man who ranks his service first.

I'm neither yellow gold or fame,
Nor days of ease, though all I
The jeweled crown which marks
the king,
I am the will to be of use
Whatever the place man may possess.
Who does his best shall meet the test.
A task well done is real success.

Order Per Trans- Atlantic Aerial Post.

Messrs. Glanfield & Son, the well-known London clothing manufacturers, were agreeably surprised at receiving on Wednesday morning, from their Newfoundland representative, Mr. Donald Nicholson, an order for clothing, which was enclosed in a letter carried by the Vickers-Vimy plane in its wonderful transatlantic flight. The envelope bears a surcharged stamp, and is marked "By aerial transatlantic post." Mr. Nicholson remarked in his letter: "I am pleased to say that your products enjoy a good sale here, and when the aerial post is perfected I hope to transmit regular orders to you by this method." Mr. Nicholson is to be congratulated upon his enterprise, and Messrs. Glanfield & Son upon the possession of such a unique souvenir.—The Outfitter.

Fall Styles The First Showing.

A limited quantity of very smart frocks for Fall and Winter were opened by us on Friday last, and are to-day on view in our Showrooms.

These are exclusive French and American models, no two alike. Among the selection may be seen:—

1. Black Satin Sonple, heavily piped on sleeves and overdress.
2. Black Plaid Silk Jersey, round neck, self buttons, side fastening, loose girdle. (An ideal model, giving long slender lines.)
3. Navy Ribbed Silk Jersey, round neck, and Russian Blouse effect.
4. Navy Serge, trimmed Military braid, Sand Jersey Vest and Cuffs.

This showing includes some beautiful models in Serge and Satin, Serge and Fur and Serge and Military Braid.
