HIS DIARY.
July 27th.—A fine warm day, and such as we have not had this season. To Water Street and meet with Hon. J. Anderson, with whom much discourse, and most of it about Scotland. I did also speak with Mr. Cowan and learned from him of the preparations which the Masons made for the funeral of their Grand Master. Anon to visit the camp at Topsail, and meet there Sir C. A. Harris, that is the Governor. He tells me that he goes abroad in August and on leave, but does not think he will return. And, indeed, he will, at his leaving, be missed by many, seeing how he did make many friends here. So to sup with Dr. Burden at his home, and divers there also. The evening a very pleasant one, and I very loath to leave.

Personal.
Miss Annie Cunningham, Divisional Supervising Nurse for the State Department of Health, Ohio, and Demonstrator in School Nursing for the Board of Education, Ohio, who is at present in the city on a visit to her sister Mrs. (Rev.) Nicholls, will lecture to Mothers at the Community Nurses' Room on Tuesday next.

Amongst the passengers from Halifax by S.S. Silvia yesterday was Sister Euphasia (Miss Mary Fanning.) Sister Euphasia left here forty years ago. Mr. W. F. Fanning is a brother.
Mr. J. P. Carey, Manager of the Furness Withy Company, together with his family left by the Sackem yesterday on a holiday trip.
Mr. H. S. Knight, B.A., son of Herbert E. Knight, Esq., Barrister, returned by S.S. Sackem. Mr. Knight was a Rhodes Scholar in 1917, and recently had the exceptional distinction of winning a first class in Jurisprudence in the Final Honor Schools. He is now completing his legal studies in London, after which it is hoped by his friends that he may practice in his native land.

Mr. Wm. Ryall, a successful Newfoundland, residing in New York, where he emigrated some 35 years ago returned yesterday on his annual visit to the home land. He is a guest of his brother Mr. Sam Ryall, Circular Road.

Vote of Sympathy.

Yesterday afternoon the unemployed met in Bannerman Park to hear the report of the Committee Messrs. H. Bennett, G. Steele, R. Jewer, who are negotiating to have further employment given. The business of the meeting however was deferred, and a note of sympathy over the recent tragedy at Great Freshwater Pond, was passed, and adjournment taken until this afternoon.

Anticipated.

He was full of zeal for the temperance cause, and was holding a series of lectures in a workmen's hall. But the audience were very unkind, and kept interrupting. So much so that at last he hired an ex-prizefighter to keep order. That night the orator contrasted the content of home life with the squallor of drunkenness.
"What is it we want when we return home from our daily toil?" he asked.
"What do we want to ease our burden, to gladden our hearts, to bring smiles to our faces and joyous songs to our lips?"
He paused for effect, and in the silence could be heard the voice of the deeper of the peace.
"Beer," he said, "the first bloke that says 'beer,' out he goes with a bang."

St. Paul's Sunday School purposed holding their annual picnic at Col. In's Farm on Tuesday afternoon, but owing to unfavorable weather on that day, the picnic was postponed.
Miss Beatrice Pike of St. John's arrived in town Saturday night on a few days' visit to friends here.
The date fixed for the Hr. Grace Regatta is August 9th, and those particularly interested in same are busy making preparations for the coming event. Let us hope that this year's races will be a record event.
Mr. Gillingham, representing the A.N.D. Co., Grand Falls, has been in town during the week.
Mrs. Edward Hancock and infant son, arrived from Buffalo, N.Y., on Saturday last, and will spend a month here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Moses Yetman, of Woodville Road.
The relatives of Michael Hayse received word recently from Boston, acquainting them of the fact that he had been taken seriously ill. Mr. Hayse was not enjoying the best of health before he left to join his children in the U.S.A., and it was thought that the trip would be beneficial to him. His friends here regret to learn this news, and trust his condition is not so serious as anticipated.

British Prime Minister.

EULOGISES WORK OF FOUNDER OF METHODISM.

LONDON.—Premier Lloyd George, in a speech at a luncheon held recently at the Hotel Victoria here to inaugurate a scheme for the restoration of John Wesley Chapel and grave in City road, E.C., touched on the subject of Europe's distrust of Great Britain, and humorously said John Wesley was responsible for international misunderstandings. "There are such things as international misunderstandings," the Premier said, in a jocular manner, and amid laughter he followed this up by disclaiming responsibility therefor on the part of either himself or M. Poincare, Premier of France, and blaming it on the founder of Methodism.

"Shall I tell you why" continued Lloyd George. "You cannot get them to understand on the continent the motives that sent hundreds of thousands and millions of young men to face death and mutilation in the Great War. They are always seeking for material reasons. They say, ah, the commercial supremacy of England was challenged, her maritime strength was defied; she was in fear of her coast. None of these things. I attended many recruiting meetings, and there are many here who did the same thing, at the beginning of the war, and I know the appeal that was made to young men. At no recruiting meeting did I ever hear a sordid appeal made to any young man. The appeal was the most chivalrous appeal that has ever been made for young men to go into battle since the days when the knight and peasants of the Middle Ages went on a Crusade to rescue the Holy Sepulchre—to fight for the weak, to protect them against the ruthless strong, a righteous indignation against barbarity. You cannot get anyone on the Continent of Europe to realize that that was the appeal that moved Britain, and not a commercial one, not a material one, and I say the difference is—John Wesley."

GREATEST RELIGIOUS LEADER.

Elaborating the subject of the far-reaching influence of John Wesley, Lloyd George referred to him as "undoubtedly the greatest religious leader the Anglo-Saxon race ever produced and said "the movement of which he was the leader was probably the greatest religious movement of the past two hundred and fifty years at least." Continuing, he said: "It was a movement that gripped the soul of England. The result is that when a great appeal is made, either to England or to America, there is always a response, and it is due to the great religious revival of the eighteenth century. The same thing applies to peace. When you press the gospel of peace and say, 'let us have peace,' they say, 'What is England after? Trade? What is it? She is after something.'"

"The idea that she is preaching peace because it is the supreme message of her faith never enters their heads. That is why I say it is very often difficult to interpret the appeal which you can make to Britain and America to those who have not had the same training as the people who have been subject to the great influences of that religious revival. Wesley was a man of peace—not at any time price, though. He offered once to raise a company of volunteers to defend this country against invasion.

He asked for guns from the Tower. Just like an ordinary recruiting sergeant, he was a man of business, and he was going to see not merely that the volunteers were raised, but that they had rifles in their hands. Expressing pleasure at the movement to repair Wesley's tomb, Lloyd George recalled that Wesley had a great abhorrence of any absence, neatness or cleanliness. "You remember what he said to a Derbyshire girl who ran to the door as he was passing, and cried, 'God bless you, Mr. Wesley,' remarked Lloyd George. "Young woman," replied Wesley, "your blessing would be of no more value if your face and apron were cleaner." Premier Lloyd George said that while he was not a Methodist he came from a sect that owed more to the Methodist spirit by John Wesley than to other movement in the whole of history. It affected a complete reformation in Wales, he said, and the were felt to-day.
