A New Comer in Motion Pictures.

WILL BE SHOWN AT THE NICKEL TO-MORROW.

A delightful picture with May Collins, the new meteor of the screen world, in the leading feminine role, will be seen at the Nickel Theatre, beginning to-morrow, when "All's Fair in Love," a new Goldwyn Picture, is presented. Thompson Buchanan, author of many successful stage plays is the author. The photoplay was directed by E. Mason Hopper. Miss Collins is the seventeen year old leading lady who, it has been rumored, is to marry Charlie Chaplin some time at the end of the year. She has appeared in several Broadway stage productions, and has had considerable experience as a stock company actress. In "All's Fair in Love," Richard Dix plays the leading male role opposite Miss Collins. His manly bearing and his genuine ability as an actor, add immeasurably to any picture in which he appears. The comedy develops around a young girl with a fixed idea that her new husband is in the clutches of a vamp, and tries herself to play the part that she thinks will keep him forever. The muddle in which she finds herself gives rise to many unusual and laughable episodes.

What One of the Best Known Traveller in Canada Says:

"Now I am going to give you an unsolicited testimonial as they say in the patent medicine advertising. Heretofore I have had a profound contempt for patent medicines, particularly so-called liniments. Perhaps this is due to the reason that I have been blessed with a sturdy constitution, and have never been ill a day in my life. One day last fall after a hard day's tramp in the slush of Montreal, I developed a severe pain in my legs and of course like a man who has never had anything wrong with him physically, I complained rather boisterously. The good little wife says: 'I will rub them with some liniment.' I have 'Go ahead,' I said, just to humor her. 'Well, in she comes with a bottle of Hinar's Liniment and gets busy. Believe me the pain disappeared a few minutes after, and you can tell the world I said so.' (Signed) FRANK E. JOHNS, Montreal.

Colors and Heat.

So old as to be new is a scheme originally carried out by Franklin and now revived in England to test the heat absorptivity of different colors. Small squares of cloth of exactly the same material, but varying in color, are placed out on the snow in full sunlight.

At the end of an hour in one case the pieces were examined, and interesting results noted. The black cloth had sunk down into the snow until it was completely in the shade. The red piece was down to about half the distance. The light blue was only just below the surface, while the white cloth was unaffected by the rays of the sun. The yellow portion sank down to about the same depth as the red.—N.Y. Herald.

The Vexed question of Taxation.

The Sales Tax in its present form is considered by many retailers as a worse nuisance than ever. The difficulty is to adequately interpret it, except that under the act itself the minister may interpret it according to his own notion—or the notion of his Department. This is considered rather arbitrary. Besides, interpretation has hitherto been considered to be one of the functions of courts when ever anything obscure has arisen in connection with laws. It is deemed rather extraordinary that the Minister should have this power, especially in the case of an act that is jammed full of obscurities. What is necessary is to repeal the Act in its entirety and enact an entirely new one based on simple principles. In the nature of things the act must be complicated when every man who produces a little of some commodity as a side issue is classed as a manufacturer. Retailers should not be collectors of revenue for the Government at all, and the Sales Tax will never work smoothly until the revenue thereunder is collected entirely at the source—from the producers within the country and from importers in cases where the goods originate without the country.

And if the Sales Tax is to be remodelled, why not make the tax thereunder high enough to render possible the elimination of the stamp taxes, which are a source of irritation, not because the amount of the tax is great, but because so many petty transactions are involved and one's patience is taxed as well as his pocket in attending to the matter. Everyone would favor the collection of revenue through the sales tax, which, if simplified, would be productive and simply administered as well. The taxation question is a very vexed one. It is recognized that taxes must be raised and everyone is willing to pay his share, but the system is so complicated now that there is an insistent demand for its simplification. This would be achieved by putting the work on a simplified sales tax, which not only would produce the revenue required, but would fulfill fairly well all the requirements of a good tax system. The sales tax is very cumbersome as it is worked now, but in its present complicated form it is giving the public authorities unnecessary trouble and expense. From the standpoint of administration alone it would be advisable to make a change.—Maritime Merchant.
