AFTER EFFECTS LEAVE THE VICTIM WEAK AND DEPRESSED.

MISS EMMA HUSKINSON, A CAPTAIN IN THE SALVATION ARMY TELLS HOW SHE REGAINED HEALTH THROUGH THE USE OF DR WIL LIAMS' PINK PILLS.

From the Sun, Orangeville, Ont.

Among the oldest and most highly residents of Orangeville is Mrs. John Huskinson, whose daughter Emma, has for a number of years been an acute sufferer from the after effects of malarial fever. A reporter of the Sun hearing of the wonderful effects which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have had on Miss Huskinson, called at her home to enquire into the truth of the rumor. After stating the reason of his visit, he was kindly received by Mrs. Huskinson, who gave him the following facts of the cure : "Some years ago," said Mrs. Huskinson, "my daughter Emma, who is now captain of the Newmarket corps of the Salvation Army, was attacked by malarial fever. She was under a doctor's care for a long time and although she recovered sufficiently to go about, the after effects of the fever left her very weak and the doctor did not seem able to put any life into her. She had frequent beadaches, was very pale, and the least exertion would greatly fatigue her. We thought a change night do her good and con sequently she went on a visit to Toronto. While there she was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and at once purchased a supply. Before she had finished the second box she noted covered sufficiently to go about, the a marked change for the better; her appetite improved, her color return

It is universal and boundless. eryone participated in it, and the keynote was honor to the veterans who have conferred such distinguished honor upon this country.

Toronto went wild yesterday. Dignity was thown to the winds, and citizens of all classes and creeds, of all ages and loth sexes, vied with each other as to who could best show their enthusiasm and joy at the return of the brave boys from South Africa. was short, Ald. Cox of this city found time at the park to speak as follows:

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen and Members of the 1st Royal Canadian Regiment,—As in the days of old, when a conqueror came home in triumph it was the castom to send forth a herald to great the returning victor and to bring him on his way, so to-day we have been sent by the city of Toronto to meet in the pleasant and loyal city of Peterboro the heroic sons of Canada who have come back safe and victorious from their duty and sacrifice fighting the Empire's enemies in the Empire's cause. Captain Barker and his men with their sun-browned faces are to us the living memorials of the one great and glorious result of the bitter fight; that result being the closer knitting together of the Empire. On behalf of the city of Toronto I welcome here in advance all the heroes who come to us to-day—once more to conquer, this time not the enemies of the Canadian people. In conveying this greeting it will be fitting also for me to express to you, Mr. Chairman, and the citizens of Perrotror, the thanks of the cityzns of Perrotror, the thanks of the cityzns of Perrotror, the thanks of the cityzns of Perrotror, the thanks of the two cities of Toronto, and Peterboro are beating together in Joy and happiness over the returns of our noble young veterans, and in closing I think I cannot express better the feelings of us all than in the verses of a well-known author:

The day will seem brighter, when the boys

The day will seem brigater, when the boys come home.

And our hearts will be lighter when the boys come home:

Wives and sweethearts will press them in their arms and caress them.

And pray God to bless them, when the boys come home.

Our love shall go to meet them, when the boys come home, boys come home; And the fame of their endeavor, time and change shall not dissever From the nation's heart forever, when the

From the nation's heart forever, when the boys come home.

The citizens of Peterboro manifested immense interest in the khaki-clad soldiers. The town was splendidly decorated, and when the train bearing the warriors to Toronto steamed out at 10.30 a.m. an immense throng of cheering citizens were on the station platform.

Anxious About Home.

Anxious About Home.

The trip up to Toronto on the train was of unique interest. It was easy for one to imagine being on a transport train in South Africa, surrounded by so may soldiers in khaki. The boys were in splendid spirits, and asked many questions regarding the friends whom they had not seen for over a year. The men were entitled to a go-as-you-please pace, but they showed their respect for Capt. Barker by observing all his requests regarding their home-coming. regarding their home-coming.

"Walker" Was in Everything.

One of the most interesting returning heroes on the train was "Walker," a fox terrier. The canine was a wire-hair, with anything but a jubiliant countenance, but he was very freadly when the newspaper corespondents shook hands with and complimented him on his record for 'Walker' has been through every engagement in which the Royal Canadians took part. When 'Walker' went out to South went out to South When 'Walker' went out to South Africa he was the property of Pte. Findlay, who was the first man of C Company to meet death on the battlefield. The dog was then taken care of by Pte. H. S. Bingham of Barrie. The dog is now fondly attached to the soldier who adopted him, and he will go to Barrie to take up his residence.

Another pet that was thought much of by those who came over on the Idaho was a little monkey, which Sergt. Lew Till can carry in his inside pocket of his tunic. Coming up from Peterboro the monkey nestled comfortably around the lamps in the car, with an occasional gymnastic feat on the bellrope. Some of the boys are carrying around live parrots with them, and there are other curios too numerous to mention, which will soon be displayed to friends.

Commanders of Sections.

The men were divided into sections, Capt. Barker commanding, and Lieut.-Marshal, Staff-Sergt. Lablond and Color-Sergt. Mention assisting. No. 1 sectioe was in charge of Sergt. H. W. A. Dixon, and was composed of 18 men of the Qteen's Own. Lance-Sergt. Freemantle was in charge of No. 2 section, and Sergt. Ramage of No. 3. Sergt. MacGregor, who had charge of No. 4, left Peterboro early in charge of the baggage car. In addition to these sections of C Company, there were a number of Commanders of Sections. C Company, there were a number of men from other companies in the R. C. R., in charge of Col.-Sergt. Holmes who was acting sergeant from Blockmfontein to Toronto. The men of the mounted force came

The men of the mounted force came home in charge of Sergt. Till.

The soldiers were by no means apologetic for coming home. They say their usefulness was exhausted in South Africa, they have positions here being kept open for them, and they were anxious to get home again anyway, so when their year of service was up they decided to return vice was up they decided to return, although they would have stayed to a man, had they thought their pre-ence was of any necessity to t Empire.

The train reached North Toronto station on the minute of 1 o'clock, and whistles and bells throughout the city, as per previous arrangement, told the waiting thousands on the streets that the boys had safely steps of from the train into the arms of their relatives on the platform. There were some affecting scenes, and the police with difficulty quelled the mad rush toward the sald'ers.

After the soldiers had been grant-ed a short time for greetings with their relatives and friends. Chief Graes tt rode up to Mayor Macdonald's carriage.
"It is 1.30. Shall the procession start?" he asked.

The Mayor acquiesced with a wave of his right arm, and a minute afterwards a band was playing on the

That all Toronto was out is a foregone conclusion, and such a wild, cheering, happy lot it would be impossible to beat. Men, women, children, old and young, everybody was on the streets, and not one but went home with a cracked throat from the vigor of their welcome.

The procession in itself, not counting the carriages, was about a mile and a half long. At the end, led by the Q. O. R., were the returning boys. The cheering and enthusiasm was moderate until they hove in sight, when with one accord the multitude yelled their welcome. All along the route the enthusiasm was the same. There seemed to be no the same. There seemed to be end to the gloriousness of the wel-

At the corner of Queen and Yonge streets there was but little difficulty in the two portions of the procession passing. On reaching the Armouries the procession stopped. The partici-pants then lined on each side of the pants then lined on each side of the street to enable the contingent to pass through. One end was at the Armouries and the other at King and John streets, by way of Queen and Spadina. The boys, led by the band of the Q. O. R., then marched through. This was the occasion for a tremendous outburst of cheering.

Celebration Marred by Death

Celebration Marred by Death.

Yesterday, the day of rejoicing over the return of the soldiers to Toronto from South Africa, was marred by one fatal accident, and another, which will probably result in the death of a young woman. There were several other accidents of milnor importance, and as a result the downtown hospital doctors were kept busy strending to the injured ones.

Miss Eliza Augusta Magee, an aged woman, was almost instantly killed by belag knocked down by a passing carriage while walking over the crossing at the corner of Gerrard and Jarvis-streets. Miss Magee was a visitor in the city from Picton, where for some years she had acted as nurse and companion to Rev. Mr. Shorey. The cause of the patient's serious condition is an extensive fracture of the skull received yesterday afteraoon. Miss Threikeld came downtown early in the afternoon, accompanied by her mother, to witness the celebration. When the storm blew up Mrs. Threikeld and her daughter hurried from the corner of King and Yonge-streets to the St. Lawrence Market, where they believed they could catch a car before it became crowled. While they were waiting for the trolley a gust of wind blew a large plece of planking from the roof of a nearby building, which struck Miss Threikeld on the head. The girl was rendered unconsclous by the force of the blow and was carried in that condition into the Market drug store. From there she was taken to the hospital, and up to an early, hour this morning she had not regained hersenses. The physicians hold but little hope for her recovery.
