University Examinations. The recent examinations for entrance to the University of Toronto, conducted under the auspices of the Education Department, have not been the success which the promoters of the present scheme so fondly predicted.

From their own presentation of the case the public ought to drop the Huron canal promoters as they would a man who had been so long and so often in the public eye. They had the affront to imagine they could get the city committed to the scheme by rushing it through the committees at a moment's notice.

Under the present regulations the Minister of Education has the whole system of examinations separating the high schools from the universities practically under his political and pedagogical thumb. The Education Department conducts all the examinations (of an immense cost to the country), which formerly were conducted by the universities, and there have been, as a result of this, some startling pieces of jobbery, trickery and deceit on the part of some of the examiners.

What are the promoters raising all the racket about now? Let them go to the University of Toronto a few nights ago the report of the examiners was not accepted, and a committee was appointed to investigate the whole question. The chief trouble seems to have been in the examinations for scholarships. Previous to the present period the examinations for scholarships were always conducted in the University buildings, under the most careful supervision and with the strictest regulations possible.

This year the papers for scholarships were sent all over the province and examinations were supposed to be conducted simultaneously at the various High Schools throughout the country. In some cases, it is alleged, the papers were sent beforehand, opened and given to the candidates for preparation for the next day. In other cases the presiding examiners gave help to their favorite pupils, gave more than the allotted time and used various other devices to ensure scholarships and honors for their pupils and schools.

It seems unjust, unfair and even impossible for the Minister of Education to imagine that examinations for scholarships (at least under the present political scheme of appointing examiners) could be held in so many different places, and under precisely similar circumstances. The University of Toronto should at least reserve the right of determining who shall win the scholarships as its entrance examinations, and the only device for making it fair is to hold them in their own building and under the wing of educational freedom, not under cover of political trickery.

The public have been quietly asking about the matter for some time past, and above, it is hoped, will clear up some of the darkness in which the whole examination was shrouded. The whole system of examinations seems to be a huge farce. We must have some system, it is true, but a much better one than the present could be devised, in which the merits of the candidates and not the interests (political and mercenary) of the examiners would be at stake.

Agents Need Not Apply. The public should be humbugged no longer in regard to the proposed Huron Canal. The World is as anxious as anyone else in the city to help along any movement that will benefit Toronto or the Dominion of Canada, but we would consider ourselves little short of fools if we listened seriously to such a scheme as that with which a certain business-house is at this moment now trying to hoodwink the people.

Imagine anything more ludicrous than the meeting on Friday night passing a resolution declaring the canal was perfectly feasible! Not one among them was an engineer or an expert in any line that would warrant him passing an opinion as to the feasibility of the work. Mr. J. L. Hughes was the mover of the resolution, declaring the scheme was "perfectly feasible."

It is said there were 600 present at the meeting, and the resolution that the canal was perfectly feasible went through with a whoop. Mr. Hughes is all right in his own line of business. We might be a more intelligent man than to venture expressing an expert opinion on a matter like canal-making. His opinion on this subject is fittingly represented in mathematics by the figure 0. Multiply his opinion, O, by the 600 who backed it up and you just get what you started out with, 0. That is what the resolution signifies. It signifies zero.

The promoters of the scheme are amusing themselves in a harmless kind of way. We cannot imagine them as serious people. If they were in earnest themselves and credited their audience with ordinary common sense they would have come before the people with the written and signed opinions of competent engineers, showing the scheme to be feasible, and that it would cost a certain amount of money; they would produce the estimates of competent persons of the amount of business waiting for the completion of the canal to take the benefit of it.

Instead of these expert opinions we have the opinion of Mr. J. L. Hughes that the canal is perfectly feasible; and of E. A. Macdonald that twenty millions of freight would annually pass through the canal. Mr. Hughes' opinion is worth the paper it is written on. Business men (we cannot say to school teachers) would consider an opinion on canal-building as worth as much weight as the opinions of our City Council would be if we found them deliberating on the literary questions that come before the French Academy. And as for the opinion of the other party—that, that is immense! It is the same party that recently staked his reputation on the statement that Canada was wildly in favor of annexation; he is the party that built an imaginary city twelve miles from Toronto and peopled it with thousands of citizens—in his imagination. The promoters of the scheme had very imprudently in putting E. A. Macdonald forward to give this opinion as to twenty millions of freight yearly. No one will put the least confidence in what he says. Last year the total tonnage of the Welland Canal was 855,535 tons of the Erie 281,905. The Huron canal is to get four times as much freight as the Welland and Erie Canal put together, and twenty times as much as the Welland Canal alone. These are facts—They give a little idea of the wild imagery of our local madcap.

methods of bringing produce to the local market. We will get our milk, butter, eggs, fruit and garden stuff delivered fresher, more frequently and cheaper than we get them now. We who work in the city cannot live in the country, but it will materially improve our condition if we have closer relations with the producers of what is supplied on our tables. On the other hand a larger suburban population will be built up and we may trust the trolley to make these people trade with us instead of at the village stores.

The $25,000 Deposit—The Challenge Accepted. Editor World: At the public meeting at the Pavilion on the 8th inst., His Worship the Mayor publicly pledged his support to the proposals of the Toronto Aqueduct Company, provided the company would deposit $25,000 with the City Treasurer as an evidence of good faith. He also pledged the support of every member of the council (by what authority I know not) to the same course in the same event.

On the other hand we have the statement of Sir Casimir Gzowski, who says of the feasibility and commercial value of the project, that it is a "dream." We know nothing of engineering ourselves, but have this much common sense that we will accept the opinion of an engineering expert like Mr. Gzowski in preference to the lunacy of the Bellamy theorist.

THE FAIREST AT THE FAIR.

MANLY TORONTO LADIES GRACE THE EXHIBITION. Beauty, Favored by the Weather—Tan's Hair, Moustache and Boy Riders Judged—The Ring—Interesting Equine Races—Contest, Between Donkeys—Incidents of the Day.

The Exhibition decked itself in its finest array to welcome the ladies Saturday. Nature put forth her brightest smiles and the day was beautiful. The principal feature of the exhibit is the model Manitoba farm, which occupies the central part of the building. One part of it, which attracts a great deal of attention is the sample of Manitoba earth which is shown in a most interesting and beautiful display.

One of the exhibits which justly claim most attention is that made by the Toronto Equine and Motor Company, Ltd. The stable is situated in the northwest corner of the Main Building, and is, as a gentleman was heard to remark, "very elaborate and complete." The room is 15 by 15 feet and is a bath room fitted with all the modern improvements in the sanitary line. The room is fitted with a 10-foot high, handsomely paneled and decorated wall. WARNING TO VISITORS.

Look to Your Pocketbooks—Some Victims Who Will Go Home Sadder and Wiser After Their Experiences—The New Among Thousands Who Keep Our Detective Busy.

It is certainly that for the next two weeks our city will be crowded with visitors, and the capacity of our hotels tried to the utmost. Toronto's annual Exhibition, has a continental reputation. Its fame has gone abroad, and you will hear of it everywhere—in the farmhouse at night; in the village inn; at the railway stations in the towns and cities. As September approaches on every side the question is asked: "Are you going to the Exhibition?" "What Chicago is this year one might say Toronto is every year. Indeed, many who have been to the World's Fair say that for variety, completeness and interest for the educational benefit and for the pleasure of the eye, Toronto is in no way inferior to Chicago. In fact, some say that, as our fair is compact, and can be thoroughly studied and examined, a person can derive more benefit from a visit to Toronto than from a trip to Chicago. As a consequence of this thousands of thousands will rush into the city to enjoy a brief holiday, and to enlarge their minds by the study of the latest appliances designed to assist labor. Where such multitudes gather there are unfortunately some few who will be unfortunately so unfortunate as to be the victims of a watch or pocketbook thief. It is in the intention of sight-seeing, but to try and take anything and everything in sight—without a watch or pocketbook, and the ones who keep our detectives busy, and who render it necessary for visitors to look well after their

Feetbooks. In spite of the many warnings visitors receive; in spite of all one can do to make people careful, there will be a number of victims who will mourn the loss of a watch or pocketbook. A well-known private detective said this morning: "Why do you believe or can you credit that there will be some people come to this city during these two weeks, and go away again without buying their boots at guinea brothers. Seems impossible, you think. They hear as soon as they enter the city that fifty per cent. can be saved by buying their boots and shoes at two-forty young-street, and yet you will find a few who will not learn what to do with their money. They will buy their boots and shoes at high prices here. Now, how can such people be warned? Do not be surprised, then, if you hear that pocketbooks have been picked, watches stolen and some have returned home sadder but wiser."
