

were shortly afterward put to death. Mackay was the only one that was left alive.

Why was he spared?

Because he was so skillful. He was a beautiful candles to give light, their wonder knew no bounds. He was too valuable to be put to death and his life was spared, and after a time the persecution passed away.

Alexander Mackay, Missionary to Uganda.

machinist, and could do much that they had never seen or heard of. When they saw the turning lathe at work, or even saw him melting down the fat of an ox and making it into

Then, as he worked, he would tell them how the British people were once savages, and how by the knowledge of Christianity they had become civilized. Then he would