Periodicals.

The September Kindergarten Magazine gives nearly a hundred pages of important and readable matter. A complete account of the methods pursued in the Boston public kindergartens is followed by a full report of the annual kindergarten department meeting held during the national congress at Buffalo: the opening chapter of "A Twentieth Century Gertrude," by Ellen Lee Wyman, and the Mother Play Study series conducted by Susan E. Blow. Dr. John Dewey discusses in an able article, "Imagination and Expression." (Kindergarten Literature Company, Chicago, publishers.)

The September number of the Annals of the American Academy contains the following papers: "The Growth of the French-Canadian Race in America," by Professor John Davidson, of the University of New Brunswick; "The Union Pacific Railway," by Dr. J. P. Davis; "Financial Procedure in State Legislatures," by E. L. Rogart; "Uncertainty as a Factor in Production," by Professor Edw. P. Ross, of Stanford University; "The High School System," by Dr. L. R. Harley, and "Courses in Politics and Journalism at Lille," by Dr. E. P. Oberholtzer. There are as usual Personal Notes, Book Reviews, Sociological Notes and Notes on Municipal Government. The whole number forms a large volume of 220 pages.

Hypnotism has now a special organ to promote its interests and exploit the views of its votaries. It is entitled the Hypnotic Magazine, devoted to an Investigation of the Science of Hypnotism: Its Uses and Abuses: and its Therapeutic Possibilities. It is published by the Psychic Publishing Company, Chicago; and the second number, now before us, is certainly very attractive in matter as well as in typographical appearance. The first article is the "Report of the Chicago School of Psychology," by Dr. Herbert A. Parkyn, formerly, we believe, of Toronto; and other articles are "Hypnotism in Everyday Life," by C. T. Hood, M.D.; "Baldness vs. Mental Treatment," by Cuthbert Wolf, M.D., and "Hypnotism as an Aid to the Anesthesia of Chloroform and Ether," by Chas. Gilbert Davis, M.D., besides Notes, Reviews, etc.

The September Century contains a variety of fiction. No serial story of the present time is attracting so much attention as Mrs. Humphrey Ward's "Sir George Tressady." Mr. Howell's lively story of Saratoga, "An Open-Eyed Conspiracy," is continued; and Mrs. Amelia E. Barr contributes the first part of a novelette, "Prisoners of Conscience," which deals with life in the Shetland Islands, and is illustrated by Louis Loeb. The short stories of the number are "Sonny's Diploma," by Mrs. Ruth McNery Stuart; "Abner," by Lynn Roby Meekins; and "The Healing of Meechum," by Frank Crane. Mr. Richard Burton gives an account of the life of Mrs. Stowe, the author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which is illustrated by several portraits, including the frontispiece, from a daguerreotype taken in 1852, and a facsimile of the original MS. of the story. Other illustrated papers are Mrs. Pennell's account of a "Midsummer in Southern Spain," illustrated by Mr. Pennell; a description of the "Prehistoric Quadrupeds of the Rockies," by Professor Henry Fairfield Osborn, with pictures of the extinct beasts; the second paper of the late E. J. Glave, describing his "Journey to the Livingstone Tree"; and Professor Sloane's chapters in the "Life of Napoleon Bonaparte," describing the Emperor's efforts to maintain himself in 1814 against the allies, his exile to Elba and his return. A paper of interest is an Arizona miner's account of his hard experiences in "The Gold Fields of Guiana," illustrated by photographs, some of which show the manner of carrying on placer diggings both in the Barima river region of the disputed territory, and in the Potaro river district to the south. "The Bicycle Outlook" is discussed by Isaac B. Potter, Chief Consul of the New York Division of the League of American Wheelmen; in the editorial departments attention is given to several leading public questions.
