

CONTENTS.

	PAGE
CHAPTER I
Preparation for the cruise	9
CHAPTER II
From Lynn to Nova Scotia—A heavy storm is encountered through which the Diver passes safely—Experiences of a sea-sick crew—At anchor at Bryer's Island	41
CHAPTER III
The long voyage commenced—Running through the Gulf Stream into warm weather—The mad dog takes command—Drinking water runs short and a stop is made to replenish the supply	54
CHAPTER IV
Through the Straits of Magellan—A deserted sheep ranch—Duck shooting in a strange land—We see glaciers and explore a Patagonian jungle—Our first news from home	71
CHAPTER V
Into the Pacific—We make our sleeping-bags and find them too small—Practical jokes on board—Food and water get scarce—Collision narrowly avoided—Arrival at San Francisco	90
CHAPTER VI
On shore at last—Unsuccessful attempts to sell the Diver—Hooper's rascality disclosed—The vessel at length disposed of and five of us embark on the Umatilla for Seattle	104
CHAPTER VII
Arrival at Puget Sound—Secure passage for Alaska, and purchase our outfits—Shortage of provisions on board the Haydn Brown—Peculiarities of some of the passengers	128