

well as lessen their navigation in that part.

IV. To put an end entirely to the importation of any Tobacco from Great Britain into France, in the space of twelve years. V. To diminish annually, and in the same space of time finally to put an end to, the exportation of specie from France to Great Britain, which amounts annually to five millions of our money for the purchase of Tobacco, and the freightage of English ships, which bring it into our ports. VI. By diminishing the cause of the outgoing of specie, to augment the ballance of Commerce in favour of this nation. These are the principal advantages which France would have reason to have expected from the establishment of this company, if it had been effected." Essai sur les Interêts du Commerce Maritime, par M. du Haye. 1754.

The probability of succeeding in such a scheme, will appear from the foregoing accounts of Tobacco in Louisiana, pag. 319, 331, 348, 353, &c. They only want hands to make any quantities of Tobacco in Louisiana. The consequences of that will appear from the following account.
