

Maids in a Market Garden

Not one complayning,
Nor other disdayning,
For loss or for gayning;
But sisters and friends to bee ;
No grudge retayning,
No work refrayning,
Nor helpe restrayning,
But lovingly to agree.

No maid for despite,
By word or by write,
Her compeer to slight,
But partner in honestie ;
No good turns entwite,
Nor old wrong recite,
But let all goe quite.
And lovingly to agree.

And after drudgerie,
When they be werie,
Then to be merie,
As sisters and friends should be.
With chip and cherie,
High derie derie,
Trill on the berie,
And lovingly to agree ! ”

THE END