HAIL TO THE PRINCE.

Toronto will to-day welcome Prince Arthur of Connaught, homeward bound rom Japan, to whose emperor he tore. as his uncle's envoy, the insignia of the Order of the Garter, in pledge of the close alliance between the two island nations. This was not his first experience as royal representative, and the King, who is a shrewd judge of character, was without doubt well advised in selecting him for a mission responsible in itself, and requiring tact, dignity and savoir faire to accomplish successfully. Nor will this visit be less acceptable when the honorable career of the Duke of Connaught is remembered, and his enthusiastic devotion to the duties of his chosen profession. Fortunately citizens of the empire are not now required to temper their loyalty with mental reservations. No sovercign ever acceded to a throne with a more onerous and difficult precedent to follow than that set by the late Queen of blessed memory. Edward VII has nobly maintained it and has, in addition, made for himself a place in the hearts of his people, and in the eyes of the nations of the world, dis-

Mr. Bryan, who was thought to be dead, may enjoy resurrection at any time. Democratic opinion is gravitating towards him again. #### Established SAINT GEORGE.

This is the day of the imperial St George. Yesterday the Englishman abroad went to church in anticipation of it. To-night he feasts in honor of it. He will find in himself the inheritor and exemplar of those courageous virtues which have given immortality to his patron saint.

JAMES STREET EXTENSION. The proposed extension of Jamesstreet from Queen to Richmond is now before the city authorities. A decision ought to be reached at the earliest possible moment for several reasons: (1) The congested traffic at Queen and Yonge calls for immediate re-lief. This scheme, if put thru now, would see the new street open for

(2) The moment the street is opened the Simpson Co. will start to put up a building costing half a million of dollars or more; which will, owing to disposition and the kind of building proposed, be the highest taxed structure in the city. Other important structures are con-templated and will be forthwith under way in the whole of the block from James to Bay-street, a block of about 200 feet square on James, Richmond, Bay, Queen, now covered with nothing but ancient shacks. All these new buildings will yield the city a large increase in the way of taxes. (3) Undoubtedly the best loop for Queen-street West street car traffic can be made by Bay, Richmond and James streets.

The subject is before the city council in the shape of a report by Assessment Commissioner Forman, who asks the council to adopt one of the two plans which he presents. The first plan is for a seventy-foot street in line with the present street. The second

It is melancholy, but true, that You will no doubt have observed from the press that a persistent effort has been and is being made to divert this $50,000 from the object for which it was voted. This effort has been aided by the editors of certain newspapers, who seem to be more concerned about mon-opolistic corporations than about the general good of the people. The time has arrived when the gov-ernment and the people should make no uncertain sound, as to whether the benefits arising from sanitarium treat-ment, together with those arising from our unparalleled resources, should be used for the benefit of the whole peo-ple or for the council for pow--ble on to object to Canada being describ-
