Edited by Miss L. E. McCULLY.

The Perfect Poet.

Not his the dream of hope that o'er the child;

Its prophet mantle throws, And leads the tender feet thru passages mild.

And bright along the pathway glows As forward e'er tirelessly he goes.

Not his the hand that laid along the lyre, Whose melody alone, and all too facile fire

Strikes faultlessly the reader tone, Showing no master touch of joy or moan.

Not his the laurel wreath, the flash of fame, Or glimmer of renown As o'er the altar he but breathes a name

And lo! the fire from heaven leaps down To glorify his yet unwithered crown.

But where with myriad wheels the busy loom Weaves day and night, A shadow 'mid the shadows, in the gloom

Of life he stands, and lacking light Dreams of a dawn more sure, a day more bright.

Not his he thinks to sing the perfect song, Who only knows The rhythm that the wheels beat all day long

Till from the full heart turgid flows In passionate words the tide of human woes.

And to the poet comes at last the day, Undreamed, but destined long When the great truth has vitalized the clay.

And fronts the ages, calm and strong And his heart tells him, "Thine the perfect song."

—Laura E. McCully.

Something About the Hair.

If you want your hair to grow longer, let it down for at least an hour a day.

If you want it to grow richer and brighter in color, then go out in the sun without a hat, and, incidentally, get a coat of tan.

Pure castor oil is the best for the hair. If your hair is very oily it is safe to powder it occasionally with talc, or some other harmless powder.

In dressing your hair try to use taste and discrimination. A head which looks as if the marble vase, the careful puff and shining knob were done in something hard, colder and more metallic than the human hair is mistaken dressed.

Women as Physicians.

LONDON, July 5.—(C.A.P.)—Dr. Osler told the students of the London School of Medicine for Women that the profession of medicine in England was one of its difficulties and trials, was a satisfactory one for women if they realized that it was not all roses and cream.

WHAT TO WEAR

The recent fashion for umbrellas and parasols with handles representing dogs' heads, black cats and all sorts of "grotesqueries" has completely changed.

In London only those are carried now which have slender sticks for handles, inlaid in pearl, and finished with silver.

The end has no knob at all, and the swivel is attached to the wrist with ring and chain.

The lingerie hat still obtains. Some of the more recent modifications are simply exquisite. A beautiful hat of alternate insertion and frilled embroidery, is trimmed with white lace.

White hats, owing to it being the special season for weddings, are to be much worn. T. Eaton Co. show some exquisitely beautiful specimens.

The size is moderate, the crown tending to be lower and flatter than in the early spring, and the brim in mushroom shape, without curves or dips to any great extent.

The tan shoe has been so much taken up on the other side that we feel the influence here, and it threatens to become "the shoe." It is to be regretted, because it means that the beautiful greys so popular this season will have to go to be replaced by much more doubtful browns and blues.

Scarfs are out now, but veils of richer and flowing shape and style than usual supply their place. If you are choosing be very careful of the position of the veil, and its frequency. You can ruin your eyesight with injudicious veils.

The prevalence of cottons, muslins and even handsome prints for street wear is practically doing away with the old, unmodified shirtwaist. You must at least have a jumper of the material of your skirt if you wish to be in fashion, and skirts and waists that do not agree, at least approximately, in color, are not to be worn.

It is a good thing that the great majority of women are too small for a skirt and waist that do not match. The effect is patchy, as, indeed, the effect of most of our modern clothing is.

The coin dots are very popular now, and will be worn in all materials. The great and handsome prints for street fabrics, and will soon go out again. But I should think a heavier linen or cotton poplin would be very pretty with green or tan dots, not too large, on a white ground.

If you want a pretty handkerchief for the pocket of an outing suit, why not bind the hemmed edge of a plain linen one with colored linen lawn to match your frock? The tints should be delicate and inconspicuous.

If you want to have a means of making your evening gown, whatever it is, look genteel until it is absolutely late, and keep it ready to be put on for special occasions.

Royal Assent Means Money. Hon. A. J. Matheson, in connection with the delayed payment of the provincial subsidy, says that the royal assent to the act providing for the increase in the amount to be paid by the Dominion requires the payment from July 1.

The B. N. A. Act, 1907, and shall take effect as from the first day of July. The royal assent in England was probably the signal for the payment of the $400,000.

PUBLIC AMUSEMENTS. The open-air show at Scarborough Beach seems to be steadily growing in magnitude and merit.

Following the engagement of the Curzon sisters, which has been the most sensational act of its kind ever seen in Toronto, the management has arranged for next week an act of European origin, which is performed by the Ernesto sisters. There are three of them and they first appeared in this country in the Ringling Bros. Circus.

Their ability to dance and perform acrobatic "stunts" on the high wire is said to be most marvelous. Another act will be "The Tichetinis," a troupe of eight Japanese acrobats, who have been recently performing on the New York roof gardens. There will be other acts in the big open-air show which is given every afternoon and evening.

Conductor Raven and his fine body of musicians give popular concerts every afternoon and evening.
